

A-From the Ashes-

A Warriors fanclan

#FromtheAshes

#FromtheAshes_ on Twitter

A fire rips through Hollyclan's territory, leaving only the apprentices, kits, and a very pregnant queen. She must take charge of this group of survivors in order for them to survive, but will they make it past the coming Winter?

-Important Information-

- As of right now there is no official discord, but if there is demand for one, I will make it. Any discord server not owned by me is not official.
- Be respectful of others. Hate is not at all tolerated. I can and will block people and remove them from the story.
- If you wish to make big changes, please ask first! My DMs are always open!
- Higher up roles (Leader, Deputy, Medicine cat) are ones that must be asked for and approved.
 - For Hollyclan, all cats must be apprentices or kits!
Echoclan can be any age/rank!
- All characters must be cats unless approved otherwise.
- Just be normal please and thank you, no creepy or rude behavior. I just wanna have a chill time <3

-The Story-

The fire started in the dead of night. Willowsong, the clan's medicine cat, was the first to smell the smoke. He woke Batstar, who then woke the clan. Fire burned all around them. They sent apprentices, kits, and a very pregnant queen away first, struggling to guide them out of the flames.

At the end of the night, dawn cresting the horizon, only they remain of Hollyclan.

Their neighboring clan, Echoclan, saw the fire from their position on the mountain and arrived too late to save any cat... Their medicine cat, Quietstream, had a prophecy about a holly bush burning up into nothing. He didn't know what it was about but now they feel extreme guilt, realizing it was about Hollyclan.

Currently:

Poppyheart has found a place for everyone to stay and is leading the older apprentices back to try to do a clean up effort to see if they can save their old camp... The casualties are high.

Echoclan is sending aid down to the clan, hoping some cats survived in their camp... only to meet a small group of apprentices and a queen.

Hollyclan:

Leader: Poppyheart - Owned by heresalittlefaith

Deputy: Taken by @PedestrianKaito

Medicine Cat: Moonlysong - Owned by @GartenofYuri

Medicine Cat App.: Closed for now

Other Available Roles:

Apprentices, Kits

Warriors, Queens, Kings, and Elders are currently closed due to story reasons! (They will open up later)

Echoclan:

Leader: Bearstar - Owned by @Coco_box_

Deputy: Spotnose - Owned by @fishmilkduo

Medicine Cat: Quietstream - Owned by heresalittlefaith

Medicine Cat App: Weepingpaw - Owned by @Yinnicus

Other Available Roles:

Warriors, Apprentices, Queens, Kings, Kits, and Elders!

Loners/Rogues:

These are cats outside of the clan, who may know of it, maybe seen the fire, but not cats who are a part of it. These cats may have their own groups formed, or might act alone. They may not always have the best intentions... Loners/Rogues can also interact with Echoclan!

-The Territory-

- MAP TO BE MADE SOON -

Hollyclan has a pretty expansive territory, though a large portion of it has been burned in a forest fire, including their camp. They live in a forested valley below the mountain that Echoclan lives on.

The two clans interact occasionally, mostly on their shared border and during their meetings once a moon, but are otherwise peaceful.

Echoclan's territory spans the mountain, their camp nestled in a dip surrounded by trees. Their territory is a mix of rocky mountain and forested mountain, with a fresh stream that runs down the mountain and through Hollyclan territory.

Hollyclan Territory

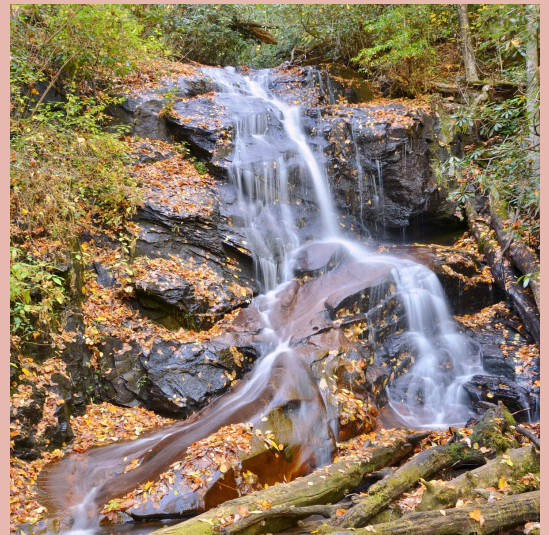

(Pre-fire)

Camp: Hollyclan camp is nestled in a small gorge in the forest, surrounded by trees and bushes. It has a slope leading in and all other sides are rather rocky. It's climbable, though not very easily.

The camp itself is quite lush, which is what allowed the fire to spread down into their camp. Their camp is now filled with charred trees and ash.

Mountain Spring: A fresh water spring comes down the mountain from Echoclan territory. It's always pretty cold and is a great source of water for the clan. It's one of the few areas that was untouched by the fires. The survivors are currently nearby, so it's easy for the injured and the kits to get water.

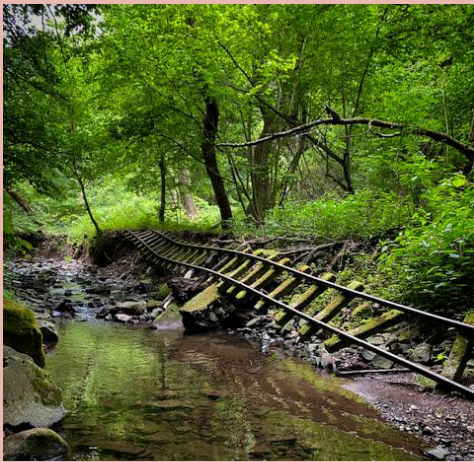

Training Hollow: A mossy clearing where the clan trains their apprentices. This is currently where the cats are residing, as it was missed by the fire. They're making nests in the hollow logs nearby. It's not camp but it's safe at least Holly's Tree: A large tree that was where the clan first stayed when it was made. It's very special to the cats of Hollyclan. It was burnt near completely by the fire, it is now just a towering burnt trunk. On New moons they would hold a clan celebration here to celebrate the creation of the clans.

Shared Territory

The Tracks: Abandoned railroad tracks that run the length of the base of the mountain. It's used as a marker for where Echoclan and Hollyclan's territories meet. The border is easy to spot and not often crossed, as the clans respect each other. Accidental crossings may happen in places where the tracks are buried or covered.

The Train: A train sits on the tracks, old and abandoned. It's said that ghosts of dead cats and twolegs live on the train, and apprentices dare each other to explore it. It's a great place to collect cobwebs. Catmint grows underneath in some spots. There's a gathering here every full moon. No clan had rights to claim the train, as it rests on top of the border. There's a cat who lives in and maintains the train that isn't a part of either clan and works as a mediator for the two groups.

The Cave of Stars: This is where the clans come to commune with Starclan. It rests against a cliff face of the mountain where Hollyclan and Echoclan territory meet. It's the other neutral place for the clans. The roof on the inside of the cave looks like it's covered in stars. A small river run through, with a pool at the end of the cave for communing with Starclan.

Echoclan Territory

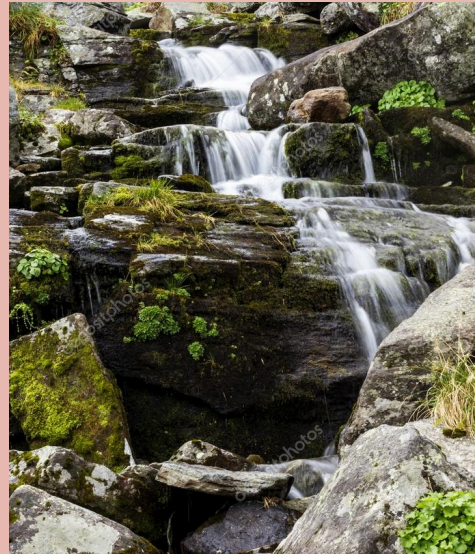

Camp: Echoclan's camp is a well protected rocky outcrop surrounded by trees. Part of their camp, where they do meetings and participate in clan life, is more out in the open. The majority of their dens reside down in the more cave-like area, protected from the more harsh mountain weather.

The Summit/ Training Grounds:

The top of the mountain is a flat, rocky space where the clan does their training. They train on the hard surface because it's said to toughen up the cats of Echoclan. On New Moons they hold a celebration at the top of the mountain to celebrate the creation of the clans, their calls echoing across the valley.

Mountain Spring: Echoclan has a freshwater stream that comes down the mountain and goes down into Hollyclan territory. It's their primary source of water, always cool and fresh. During the winter they sometimes have to break up ice to keep the water flowing.

The Split: There's a deep split in the rocks that is dangerous for cats to fall into. Some cats have even seen a stray Deer fall in after a failed jump. Near the split is a great place to collect moss, but apprentices and warriors alike must proceed with caution.

