

Active Muses

Angie

Name: Angelica 'Angie' Saint-Michelle

Gender: Female (she/her or they/them)

Age: 18

Birthday: February 17th

Occupation: Trainer

Height: 5' 4"

Orientation: TBA

Hometown: Lumiose City

Personality (subject to change): An easily excitable girl, Angie is full of enthusiasm and a zest for life. She loves talking to people and trying new things, though she may hesitate if she feels she doesn't belong in certain situations. Additionally, she's incredibly mischievous and sometimes doesn't think before she acts. This creates problems when she lies to someone or tricks she doesn't think will be a big deal. Responsibility is a challenging concept for her, but she tries. Kind of.

Strangely, she's very hesitant to share information about herself, although she loves listening to others.

Background (subject to change): The child of Jules and Garrett, Angelica's childhood was a happy and loving one, surrounded by an extensive extended family. From an early age she showed a propensity for mischief, but her actions and words were never ill-intended and her parents made sure she understood the hurt she sometimes caused.

It wasn't until her teen years that Garrett sat her down and explained their full identity and status, and in extension hers as a demigod. She took the news in stride at first. However, as time passed and her own powers began to awaken she did withdraw into herself some, feeling very 'other' and worried about the accidents she might cause. It was for this reason that she declined the chance to go on her Pokémon journey through Kalos, instead using that time to hone her skills.

She feels a little out of place starting a Pokémon journey so late, but is also excited about all she'll be able to do and learn. It's this excitement that keeps her going and her spirits high.

Powers: TBA

Faceclaim: Chika Fujiwara (Kaguya-sama: Love is War)

Athena

(Art by disappeareddraws)

Name: Athena Isbell-Saint-Michelle

Gender: Female (she/her or they/them)

Age: 19

Birthday: February 18th

Occupation: Student

Height: 5'2"

Orientation: Panromantic demisexual

Hometown: Lumiose City, Kalos

Personality: Athena is a bit of an enigma, even to herself. She's headstrong and thinks a lot, but doesn't like to explain her thoughts. Perhaps it's because she's a bit spoiled, but she expects others to just know and follow along. And when they don't, she tends to get upset. This sometimes leads to her having difficulty communicating and forming relationships with others.

However, she does have a softer side, reserved for those who have the patience to deal with her moods and learn her patterns. She tends to lean heavily on these people for conflict resolution, and would bend over backwards to show them her love in a nonverbal way.

Overall, Athena is a curious young woman of few words who's always excited to discover something new.

History: The only miraculous daughter of Rocket Admin Archer Isbell and Kalosian journalist Jules Saint-Michelle, Athena was an unexpected surprise when she was born with cyan hair, having previously been believed to be the child of another man. As a result, the two ended up deciding not to give her up for adoption as initially planned, instead investing time into creating a loving family for her.

Of course, it's not quite that easy: as Archer never gave up his post in Team Rocket, she grew up accustomed to strange and often dangerous company, which never seemed to bother her. Archer never kept his business a secret from her, but while Jules turned a blind eye to what he did, Athena asked questions. Particularly, where did she belong, straddling the line between innocent and accomplice? No one ever seemed to have that answer for her.

All things considered, she's lived a fairly normal life in Lumiose City, where she's been spoiled and treated like a princess. She studied hard in school, but nothing ever seemed to capture her interest for long-except Pokémon.

It was with this in mind that, at the age of seventeen, she applied to study abroad at a school in Alola. Perhaps putting some distance between her and her father's work would help her to clear her mind and figure out what she wanted to do with herself.

Alola was amazing. So much so that she applied to a university there when it came time to continue her education. On her first trip, she caught several Pokémon, but decided against embarking on a journey for the sake of her studies. Now in college, Athena spends her free time visiting anywhere and everywhere on the islands, and (while still spoiled by her parents) works at the coffee shop in the Heahea Pokémon Center.

—

Faceclaim: Sinon Asada (Sword Art Online)

Cara Liss

Name: Cara Liss

Gender: Female (she/her or they/them)

Age: 32

Birthday: January 8th

Occupation: Paleontologist and paleogeneticist

Height: 5'10"

Orientation: TBD

Hometown: Nacrene City, Unova

Personality: Cara is a fiery and confident woman, who's never afraid to stand up for herself. Prideful, she thinks very highly of herself and doesn't always listen to the opinions of others, which can very quickly lead to conflict. Frequently.

When not butting heads with basically everyone, she's energetic, passionate, and always wanting to learn something new. (More TBA)

History: From the very beginning, Cara was fascinated by fossils; as a child, she'd spend hours looking at skeletons and fossils in the Nacrene City Museum. At home she'd pour over books on the subject, some very well above her reading level, (but she could look at the pictures). It was an obsession that her parents happily fueled.

After high school graduation, she traveled to Kanto to study at Pewter City University, where for the most part she did very well. It was here she expanded her studies to include genetics, frequently traveling to Cinnabar Island to observe their fossil restoration procedure. In fact, Cara was even promised a position at the Cinnabar Fossil Lab once she completed her doctorate.

Too bad that day never came.

As she delved deeper into paleogenetics, her papers became more outlandish, toeing the line with regards to ethics. Ultimately, she was kicked out of their paleontology program, never officially receiving her doctorate (although she claims she has).

She found work at museums and labs in other regions, but for various reasons (including work going 'too slow' or having 'too many limitations') would either quit or be fired. Eventually, however, she heard about the partial fossils being found in Galar, and immediately traveled there to conduct her own research. With no funding or support from any previous jobs or organizations, she was forced to build her own fossil restoration machine, and has since been camped on Route 6. There, she pieces together any fossils brought to her, supplementing modern Pokémon DNA as needed. She hopes to one day publish a book on her findings regarding paleobiology, and finally gain the respect she deserves.

—

Faceclaim: Minako Okukawa (Yuri on Ice)

Peonia (Crown Tundra spoilers!)

Name: Peonia 'Nia' Clark

Gender: Female (she/her or they/them)

Age: 18

Birthday: October 22nd

Occupation: Pokémon trainer

Height: 5'7"

Orientation: Lesbian

Hometown: Circhester, Galar

Personality: Peonia is curt and brutally honest, but not with the intention of being rude. Her spoiled nature shows through pretty clearly, and she's not above throwing temper tantrums if she doesn't get what she wants. Underneath it all is a passionate and adventurous girl who can think on her feet and wants friends, but it can be hard to see that with the front she puts up.

History: The genetic older sister of Bede, she was adopted by Peony and his wife (who died not long after) when she was six and separated from her sibling. As the daughter of a minor league Gym Leader and one of the wealthiest families in Galar, she grew up wanting for naught, and was especially spoiled and doted on by her father. Sometimes this could grow unbearable, so Nia found an excuse to avoid him by burying herself in her studies for her private school

Somewhere along the way, she became fascinated by tales of legendary Pokémon and their powers. It broke her heart that the Legends of Galar had faded into the stuff of fairytales when other regions, like Johto and Alola, maintain a much closer relationship to their history and lore, to the extent that she even spent a semester studying abroad. She came to idolize Cynthia, and more recently Sonia for their research.

This passion did not escape Peony, who did everything he could to encourage his daughter's research. In fact, for her most recent birthday, he planned a wonderful trip to the Crown Tundra to experience some of Galar's legends first-hand.

Unfortunately...the prospect of meeting Legendaries up close and personal captured Peonia's attention more than her dad's surprise adventure, and she regretfully missed out on the expeditions. Still, she doesn't bear a grudge against the trainer who took her place, and would love to talk to them more to learn about what they saw and experienced.

Quip

Name: Quip

Species: Blacephalon

Designation: UB-Burst

—

Height: 6'5"

Level: 65

Ability: Beast Boost

Nature: Sassy

—

Gender: Agender (they/them or he/him)

Age: Approximately 30 human years.

Birthday: Who knows? They'll celebrate whenever there are fireworks.

Personality: Quip likes to think they're much more clever than they actually are. This means they get (and talk) their way into a lot of trouble, and aren't very good at getting themselves out of it. They hold themselves in high esteem and doesn't particularly like it when someone points out their flaws, of which there are many.

A bit of a show off, they aren't very scared of this strange new world they found themselves in. If anything, they're fascinated by everything, to the point of being a bit intrusive as they learn this world's manners. Still, it looks like they have no plans on going back through the Ultra Wormhole any time soon, and don't try to change their mind.

Like most of their kind, Quip's head expresses their emotions to an almost comedic level-if you count 'blowing up for reaction purposes' as 'comedic'.

History: Prior to coming out of a wormhole during the events of Ultra Sun, Quip lived a relatively normal life in their part of Ultra Space. Blacephalon tend to be very social creatures, that startle surprisingly easily to things that aren't explosions.

However, Necrozma's hyper-powered quest for light created wormholes, dragging Quip and three other of their kind out of their home and to the Pokémon world, where they were promptly separated. Initially scared and confused, they alternated between orchestrating massive firework shows (lost in the darkness of Alola's stolen light) and lashing out at perceived threats in this strange new world.

The return of Alola's light, and the more welcoming atmosphere did calm them, and open their eyes to everything there was to see and experience here. Now more collected, they set out on a quest to find their three friends, while at the same time learning as much about this new world as possible.

And showing off to as many of this world's inhabitants too, of course.

Harlow

Name: Harlow

Species: Zacian (shiny)

Gender: Female (she/her or they/them)

Age: 5,000+

Birthday: Unknown

--

Height: 9'02"

Human: 6'06"

Level: 85

Ability: Intrepid Sword

Nature: Hasty

--

Personality: Harlow is a brave and kind soul, quick to defend those she loves, but she's also stubborn and jaded. She doesn't have the same faith in humanity that her siblings do, and is quick to assume the worst of their intentions. But around other Pokémon or when not fired up, she shows a gentler side (though her words are no less sharp).

Impulsive, she doesn't always think before rushing into a situation and doesn't always think before she speaks. This, paired with concerns about being abandoned or betrayed, means that lasting bonds are rare.

History: She's not lived nearly as long as her older siblings, the Legendary Heroes. Without the same responsibilities, she found her niche among the humans, taking their form and acting as an ambassador between them and Pokémon. And, for a time, she was happy.

But then the Darkest Day came. Her siblings were badly injured saving the region. Fearing no one else could protect them as they healed, she promised to guard them in the Slumbering Weld until they could return to their work. She took pride in her promise, and her ability to discern those who came to pay their respects and those that came with dangerous intentions.

Time passed. To her horror, her siblings and their sacrifice began to fade from the minds of humans-no, they were purposefully forgotten. Written out of history. No one came to remember them.

Harlow grew jaded. She began to purposefully keep humans out, either through fear or through violence. She shed her human form, disgusted by it.

Recent developments and the return of her siblings has placed her in a confusing spot. On one hand, the humans have again proved their ignorance and disrespect. But...there are those that her siblings trust. There are those who are good. She's being forced to remember that the world is not a black and white place, and it scares her.

Faceclaim: Fugen Bosatsu (Namu Amida Butsu!)

なあ、お前も普賢一派に入らないか？

文殊菩薩とともに釈迦如来の脇侍を務める仏様。女性顔負けの美貌を持つが、性格は大雑把で面倒くさがり屋。趣味は文殊菩薩にちょっかいをだすこと。文殊菩薩とは腐れ縁だが、一番信頼している。いつも連れてくる白象の「バオ美」を溺愛している。好物はバナナ。

CV
堀江瞬

普賢菩薩

Luciel

Name: Luciel

Species: Ninetales (fire/ghost)

Gender: Male (he/his or they/them)

Age: 2,000-ish

Birthday: Unknown

--

Height: 6'0"

Level: 62

Ability: Perish Body

Nature: Hardy

--

Personality: Don't let Luciel's human disguise fool you-he's a cruel and manipulative Pokémon. While strong, he prefers to stick to the shadows to tease and taunt his prey before attacking relentlessly. Picky and spiteful, he doesn't get along with most, nor does he really make an effort (and don't trust him if he seems to be trying), and enjoying making others jump through hoops for his enjoyment.

History: Luciel was never a normal Vulpix or Ninetales. He was born with a dark coat during a lunar eclipse-something that the temple guardians at the time deemed an ill omen. Because of his particular looks, he had a hard time getting along with other Pokémon, up until he met Darkrai, who took pity on him. For many years he stuck close to and learned under the legendary...up until the Legendary suddenly disappeared. Feeling betrayed, Luciel went on a rampage, desperately trying to draw out his one friend. The guardians tried to seal his power away, and while it stopped his rage, the spell failed partway through, during the Ninetales into a ghost-type with half a spirit. In his spite, he haunted the tower and the area in which he grew up. It got so bad that he was trapped solely to attach bells to his ear, so that all could hear him coming. Time passed. Luciel grew tired of his small world, and a part of him still longed for the attention of his lost friend. So he fled the temple and set out on a journey of his own. Again, he found himself rejected by other Pokémon, and feared by trainers, but instead of letting it hurt him, he turned it into malice and learned to use it to hurt others. Recently, he's discovered that his ghost typing allows him to access computers and similar devices, permitting him to access private files and cause all sorts of glitches to further create mayhem.

Faceclaim: Ginji (Kakuriyo Bed and Breakfast for Spirits)

Potential upcoming muses

Drasna

Name: Drasna

Gender: Female (she/her or they/them)

Age: 76

Birthday: December 29th

Occupation: Kalos Elite Four member and

Height:

Orientation: TBD

Hometown:

Personality:

History:

Audrey

Name: Audrey Sinclair

Gender: Female (she/her or they/them)

Age: 23

Birthday: June 16th

Occupation: Pokémon trainer, owns a small yarn and fiber arts store with her sister

Height: 5'2"

Orientation: TBD

Hometown:

Personality: Chipper and curious, Audrey is incredibly optimistic no matter how bleak the situation. She speaks her mind freely, rarely thinking of the consequences. Don't expect her to act her age; she's prone to teasing and temper tantrums. She loves hard work and is never ashamed of showing off her talents and treasures to anyone who will listen.

History:

—

Faceclaim: Ozawa Kii (A Hedgehog in Love)

--

SCOUT

'Name': SCOUT

--

Fergus

Name: Fergus

Species: Glastrier

Gender: Male (he/him or they/them)

Age: Ancient

Birthday: Unknown

--

Height: 7'05"

Human: 6'08"

Level: 77

Ability: Chilling Neigh

Nature: Bold

--

Personality: True to his typing, Fergus is cold and brash. He's stubborn to a fault, and doesn't like being on the losing end of a fight or an argument.

History:

Faceclaim: Kija (Yona of the Dawn)