2014 commentary!

Team 1..... Team “Story Tellers and Long”

Pros: They have the long ball and strange stories in abundance.

Keys: Will they mesh when Longer realizes he has heard the same story for the third time and he is the only one not laughing?

Team 2..... Team “Five Has Gotta Be Better Than Four”

Pros: Who can argue with the addition of one player? In B. Long they have a wildcard as he might be the only player that is much improved (damn kids!)

Keys: Wingate claims he will be solid this year...did anyone other than B. Long play golf since the last Limerick?

Team 3...Team “Success Tug-o-War”

Pros: Tons of Limerick success that offset the disappointments. Clark led the winning scramble team last year, and Rowell was on the second best team.

Keys: Can Clark and Rowell explain to Aton and Gray what it takes to be successful? (Last year Aton was on the last place team, and Gray was second to the last)

Team 4...Team “Doc Sponsored Mood Enhancers”

Pros: They arguably have the best golfer in the tournament, and definitely the MVP of performance enhancing supplements.

Keys: If the PED’s get out of hand do they have enough medical knowhow to reel it back in?

Team 5.... Team “Gator Pride and Trent”

Pros: The only team that had significant play in the 70’s (yeah...we are not talking about temperature or scores.)

Keys: When “PMA” becomes the battle cry, and references to the virtues of playing on teams that set school records with 2 total wins in a season...will Erickson be alienated?

Team 6...Team “Coaching Helgerson”

Pros: Three coaches that teach swing on a regular basis and Helgerson that has a wealth of Limerick experience.

Keys: When Helgerson gets tired of hearing one more “helpful swing thought”, will the aftermath be insurmountable?

Team 7....Team “Spread the Wealth”

Pros: Between Lloyd and Sutton, they have accumulated 5 green jackets in the last 8 years..

Keys: Kaczor and Mathews have been close, but have not broken through. Can Lloyd and Sutton lead them through the glass ceiling?

Team 8....Team “Illahee Coaches the Uncle”

Pros: Coaching experience abounds...adept at dealing with “problem performers”

Keys: Will Uncle Mark provide the ultimate challenge?

Team 9....Team “Family Love”

Pros: First time for all of the in-laws to be together. The comradery should be worth a few strokes as you know teaming up in scramble has been a topic of conversation at the “Adult Table” during Thanksgiving.

Keys: Can Koppa keep the team together if things start going south?
