Research Methodology

Begin typing The research methodology should include objectives, hypotheses, population and sample group, research instruments, and statistical methods used for analysis.

Research Findings

Begin typing The research findings should describe the results obtained from the study according to the research objectives. These may be categorized into different topics and include illustrations or summary tables to enhance the reader's understanding of the findings.

Figures: Below each figure, include the word Figure followed by the sequence number and the figure title on the same line. The word Figure should be centered, bold, and in TH Sarabun New, 16-pt font. The figure title should be in TH Sarabun New, 16-pt, regular font. Additionally, the source of the figure should be mentioned one line below the figure title.

Tables: The table header should include the word Table followed by the sequence number and the table title, aligned to the left of the page. The word Table should be in TH Sarabun New, 16-pt, bold font, and the table title should be in the same line in regular font. Additionally, the source of the table (if any) should be mentioned one line below the table title or the bottom border of the tab

Conclusion

Begin typing The conclusion should summarize the findings obtained from the study according to the research objectives.

Discussions

Begin typing The discussion of research findings should be clearly organized and categorized into specific topics. Compare the research findings with the concepts or theories used in the research and with previous studies to highlight the consistencies or differences in each topic.

Recommendations

Begin typing The recommendations should specify how this research can be applied and suggest further related topics for future research.

Use the American Psychological Association (APA) style (7th edition) for references. Arrange the references starting from Thai documents followed by English documents without separating them by type. The order of references should follow the same principles as dictionary entries in the Royal Institute Dictionary or other widely accepted dictionaries, with terms arranged from those with a consonant before a vowel, from กก-กฮ and AA-AZ, without separating them by type. No numbering is required for the references. If the details of a reference extend to more than one line, continue on the next line with a 1.27 cm (or 0.5 inch) indent. All references listed must be cited or mentioned in the article.

Author Guidelines

1. Authors who wish to submit an article must include the full name, affiliation (faculty or workplace), and email address of the article author (or the main contact email) in the manuscript. 1.1 If there are multiple authors with the same affiliation, all authors' full names must be listed. 1.2 If there are multiple authors with different affiliations, list each author's full name followed by their affiliation, with only the main contact email provided.

2. The article to be submitted must be 12-25 A4 pages in length (including references), typed in TH Sarabun New font.

3. Page Margins: The article must have a margin of 1.0 inch on the top, bottom, left, and right (single-column layout).

4. Font and Line Spacing Format:

      4.1 Font Format (for the content of the article, excluding author details):

           1) Main Heading: TH Sarabun New 18 pt, left-aligned, bold

           2) Subheading: TH Sarabun New 16 pt, indented 0.5 inches from the main heading, left-aligned, bold

           3) Content: TH Sarabun New 16 pt, justified, regular

           4) Indentation for Subheadings: Use 1.5-inch and 2.0-inch indentation for subheadings, respectively.

      4.2 Line Spacing:

           1) Line spacing between main headings/subheadings and content: 8 pt

           2) Line spacing for content: single line spacing

5. In-text and References Format:

      The format for in-text and end-of-article references must follow the American Psychological Association (APA) style, 7th edition, as follows:

      5.1 In-text References: There are three formats:

           1) (Author, year, page number) at the end of the cited text

           2) Author (year, page number) at the beginning of the cited text. If the author's name is mentioned in the content, it should not be repeated in the parentheses.

           3) Author year (page number). If both the author's name and year are mentioned in the content, only the page number should be provided in parentheses.

5.2 References: Full examples of reference writing can be found at https://he02.tci-thaijo.org/index.php/JMARD/guidelines
