

THE SPRINKLING

“Sprinkle it before the mercy seat,” (Leviticus 16:14)

“Sprinkle it before the veil;” (Leviticus 4:6)

“Sprinkle it on the altar’s horns.” (Leviticus 4:7)

Indeed, this thought ought make us wail,

That even all the holiest things
Should be sprinkled with the Blood,
Not just for sin and sinner’s sake
But on those things which stand for good.

Yes, even on the things of God,
Yes, on the things which He ordains,
On the altar and mercy seat
And on all to which that pertains.

Even on the priestly garments,
Upon Aaron and his sons; (Exodus 29:21)
On all that’s good and right and just,
To hallow them was this done.

How often do we plead the Blood
Over sin and sickness here,
But ne’er think we should do the same
With that which we hold most dear.

Sure, ‘tis by Grace we enter in,
For His mercy crowns it all;
May all be consecrated thus
To have no tinge of the Fall.

Let our worship and our preaching
By the Blood be made most sweet,
That all we do be for Jesus
And for Him be made most meet.

And may the Blood seal all we do
From the world and worldly ways,
That all we do nought may hinder
Our service, our love and praise.
