Privacy Policy

Your privacy is important to us. Our To-Do app does not collect, store, or share any personal information. The app operates entirely on your device and uses a local database (Swift Data) to store your tasks and settings. No data is transmitted, tracked, or shared with any third-party services or servers.

Data Collection We do not collect any data. All the tasks and customizations you make in the app are stored locally on your device.

Third-Party Services This app does not integrate with any third-party services and does not access or share your data with external services.

Changes to This Policy As we do not collect any personal information, no major changes to this privacy policy are expected. However, if we do make any updates, we will reflect them here.
