Pys Melyn

"A bold, dreamy blend of timeless psych-pop and Welsh storytelling"

About

Pys Melyn are Ceiri, Sion, Owain, Owain and Jac — a genre-blending psych-pop band from Pen Llŷn, North Wales. Since forming in 2014, the band has carved out a distinctive place in the UK music scene with their bilingual charm, kaleidoscopic sound, and dynamic live performances.

After early gigs and experiments, their first singles emerged in 2018, building momentum for their debut album, Bywyd Llonydd (2019) — released on their own label, Ski-Whiff Records. The album drew influence from global genres, blending grooves, vintage textures and melodic introspection. Their second album, Bolmynydd (2023), paid tribute to 60s/70s rock with a modern Welsh twist. Both albums were nominated for the Welsh Music Prize, gaining widespread praise for their songwriting, production and live presence.

In 2024, the band reached new heights, releasing their third full-length project, Fel Efeilliaid (Like Twins), recording a BBC 6Music session for Riley & Coe, supporting Gruff Rhys on his Sadness Sets Me tour, and completing a UK headline tour that saw them play iconic venues including The Garage (London) and Rough Trade (Bristol).

Looking ahead to 2025, Pys Melyn are preparing for an international chapter, with a new album and tours of Scandinavia and Japan in the works.
