

My people... Sons and Daughters of Helghan

For many years, we have been a broken nation,
We have been shunned, oppressed and conquered by those whom we sought to escape. 10 years ago, I asked for time and that time was granted by you, you the strength in my arm, the holders of my dreams.

Ten years ago, I asked for time, and that time was granted by you. You: the strength in my arm, the holders of my dreams...

Our forefathers embarked on the greatest exodus in the history of all mankind.

An exodus for freedom, Helghan became that freedom. Our new world changed our bodies.

At first, it weakened us, but in fact, we were growing... stronger. In the time you have given me, I have rebuilt our nation, I have rebuilt our strength, and I have rebuilt our pride!

Our enemies at home have been re-educated; we have given them new insights into our cause.

On this day, we stand united once more.

On this day, those driven to divide us will hear our voice!

On this day, we shall act as one, and we shall be ignored NO MORE!

Defenders of the Helghast dream, NOW IS OUR TIME!"

Visari's brutalized hordes are now marching over mountains of their own dead bodies! Our vetkan government our great nation have given us the task to put down the helghast threat and to defend our freedom! Forward against the enemy! Into the unrelenting battle! For the isa! Do not count days do not count miles! Count only the number of helghast you have killed!

-Basically ISA vs Helghast

-Take control of morally grey factions where no side is basically wrong

Make your own secondaries that fight neutral, ISA or Helghast or even throw in a prime who chooses their own decisions and fights throughout a set storyline.