

I have worked for John Sabol and his groups for over twenty years now, as their trusted guide in France. In all that time guiding his tours, there was not one mistake. Every attraction on each program was checked, every restaurant was tested prior to a group's arrival, every hotel was visited. He never left anything to chance. As a professional licensed guide for 30 plus years, I can testify this is not common. With other tour operators, profitability comes first, but John Sabol's priorities have always been integrity and client satisfaction. France can be a difficult country to visit, and as a guide I was very satisfied with his planning and how smoothly everything went and how efficient his services always have been. More than that, John has always been respectful, cheerful, and caring with his clients, as well as guides, drivers and others involved in his tours. I will continue working with him and for him going forward.
