

The Watershed Podcast Episode 6 – Water as a Bridge

Reflective Questions

Sammie Peterson

How can we help future generations connect to the water where they live?

What should the water be like for future generations?

James Weston

Are there any ways water is significant in your own traditions? How can we connect our water traditions with the water traditions of others?

What is the significance of water to you and how does that expand to be a part of the significance of water for other?

Ong Yang

What boundaries in your area are formed by water? Are these boundaries political, cultural, or both?

Has water been a part of a journey you or family have taken? What role did water play in that process?

How does water help us physically reach one another, and might water also prevent us from making that contact?

Ellen Taube

What water stories are a part of your faith? How might those stories influence the way you experience water in your life?

Reena Petrich

What is a time that water brought your community or family closer together?

What are ways water forms connections in your community?