2. Golf N Golf Quick Verdict

The Lakes Course is Blue Canyon's second act — opened in 1999, eight years after the tournament-famous Canyon Course, and built by the same architect to be its more forgiving sibling. Water hazards come into play on 17 of 18 holes, but five sets of tees mean the challenge scales to your level rather than punishing everyone equally. Play it if you want Blue Canyon's prestige and facilities without the Canyon Course's tournament-grade difficulty.

4. Overview

The Lakes Course opened in 1999 as Blue Canyon Country Club's second 18 holes, designed — like the Canyon Course before it — by Japanese architect Yoshikazu Kato. Rather than repeating the Canyon Course's tournament-grade demands, the Lakes Course was built as its complement: a water-focused layout across the same 720-acre former tin-mining estate, but routed to be playable across a much wider range of abilities.

Water is the defining feature — 17 of the 18 holes bring a lake, creek, or canyon-cut water hazard into play, drawing on the site's original tin-mining pits and natural land contours. The front nine winds through lakes and canyons close to their original mined state; the back nine shifts into stands of mature rubber trees for a change of scenery and rhythm. Five tee options make the Lakes Course notably more adaptable than most Phuket championship-caliber courses, accommodating everyone from touring professionals to first-time visitors within the same round.

Located at the northern end of Phuket near the airport, the Lakes Course shares its clubhouse, spa, and villa facilities with the neighboring Canyon Course, making a two-round Blue Canyon day straightforward to arrange.

5. Why Play This Course?

- Blue Canyon's name, a gentler challenge. Same prestige address, more forgiving layout than the Canyon Course next door.
- Adaptable to your group. Five tee sets mean mixed-handicap groups can play together comfortably.
- Airport-convenient. Ten minutes from Phuket International Airport suits arrival- or departure-day rounds.
- Shared facilities with the Canyon Course. Easy to combine both courses into one Blue Canyon golf day.

6. Course Highlights

- Championship design: Yoshikazu Kato's routing threads water hazards through 17 of 18 holes without making the course feel punishing thanks to generous fairway landing areas.
- Course conditioning: Maintained to the same resort standard as the Canyon Course.
- Signature stretch: The 18th hole is widely regarded as one of the strongest finishing holes at Blue Canyon.
- Clubhouse & facilities: Shared with the Canyon Course — spa, villas, pro shop, and driving range all on-site.

- Caddies & service: Compulsory caddies, well-versed in reading the course's many water carries.

8. Who Should Play This Course?

- Mixed-handicap groups who want one course everyone can enjoy together
- First-time visitors to Blue Canyon wanting the prestige without the Canyon Course's difficulty
- Golfers who enjoy strategic, water-focused golf without extreme elevation
- Arrival/departure-day golfers given the airport-adjacent location
- Golfers chasing a championship-caliber test are better served by the Canyon Course next door

9. James' Recommendation

"I like the Lakes Course for groups where not everyone plays off the same handicap — the five tee options actually work, so nobody's out there losing balls all day while someone else is bored. The water comes into play a lot, so club up if you're between clubs rather than trying to squeeze one in short. It's a proper Blue Canyon round without needing your A-game."

10. Golf N Golf Recommendation

Best for mixed-ability groups and golfers who want Blue Canyon's reputation without the Canyon Course's demands. Pair it with the Canyon Course for a complete two-round Blue Canyon day using one shared clubhouse, or with Laguna Golf Phuket for two comfortable, water-featured rounds back to back.
