guidelines.

- I. RULE : This blog will have 18+ content, so I will have sexual content and gore & violence. I will always tag this content.
- II. RULE : I'm a quite selective blog for full threads and plotting so I only write with you if we follow each other. I just feel more comfortable that way. Memes can be sent by anyone though!
- III. RULE : When I read your answer I will kudos it so you know I've read it. If I haven't answered you after 1 week, message me! Sometimes I have so much going on that I simply forget.
- IV. RULE : I'm a literary roleplay account, always have been. I just prefer it because of the amount of details one can give.
- V. RULE : If your muse is an OC I would love it if there was some way to figure out who your OC is. I have done the same for mine. I just wanna know how our muses could interact.
- VI. RULE : I'm not a native English speaker so there might be errors, I try to keep them to a minimum but sometimes grammatical errors slip in, if you find them, you can always DM me and tell me, I will correct them before you reply!
- VII. RULE : replies that are OOC are made clear with “// ...” i learned it that way from Twitter and have gotten used to it! → The same goes for my tags & posts
- VIII. RULE : You do not need to match your reply design to mine. Do it however you like!
- IX. RULE : You want to rp with me but don't have any ideas? Just DM me and we'll plot something together!

biography.

Seraphina grew up in the 17th century in the ocean by Australia in the upper class rings of her people. Her father has a big standing in the aquatic parliament and her mother is at home. She is the youngest of 5 children. Her people age very slowly which causes them to live longer than humans.

From an early age, Seraphina has been adventurous and rebellious. When she was younger, she would get in fights with smaller fish but the older she got, the bigger the fight buddies became. She sports a big scar on her tail from a fight with a smaller shark which is also clearly visible on her right leg when she is in her human form. Her family doesn't like how ready to fight she is but she never means ill and only fights for fun.

Seraphina loves collecting shiny things. Rocks, crystals, items from humans. Anything that glows or shines immediately gets her attention and she will do anything to get that item into her possession, no matter how small the way through is. Due to this, she has several small scars on her stomach and arms and a cut on her fin from getting stuck in pirate ships.

Turning human is something she started doing only recently. Commander Axyl from the ORCA project caught her interest and she wanted to find out more. The process is short but painful but the pain lessens the more she turns. Due to her inexperience, Seraphina has patches of scales on her legs. Talking is not something she can do easily. She picks up tones and can communicate through hissing noises and body contact; Seraphina seeks closeness as a form to show her affection. She gets easily frustrated when she can't communicate what she wants; if the person she is talking to doesn't understand her, she just grabs them by the hand and pulls them to whatever she wants them to see.
