What are the legal requirements for mail order cannabis in Central regions?

Navigating the legal landscape of mail-order cannabis in Alberta's central regions is essential for a safe and compliant experience. Here's what you need to know:

Legal Framework:

- Authorized Retailers: In Alberta, only retailers licensed by the Alberta Gaming, Liquor and Cannabis Commission (AGLC) are permitted to sell cannabis online. These retailers must operate a physical store and obtain an endorsement from the AGLC for online sales.

- Age Verification: Purchasers must be at least 18 years old. Licensed retailers are required to verify age at the point of purchase and upon delivery.

Delivery Regulations:

- Delivery Personnel: Deliveries can be made by the retailer's own staff or a common carrier. Delivery personnel must be at least 18 years old; however, they are not required to have SellSafe certification.
- Delivery Boundaries: Cannabis orders can only be delivered to addresses within Alberta where cannabis possession is legal.
- Order Limits: Each delivery order must not exceed 30 grams of dried cannabis or its equivalent, aligning with public possession limits.

Identifying Legal Products:

- Packaging: Legal cannabis products feature child-resistant, plain packaging with mandatory health warnings and a standardized cannabis symbol.
- Excise Stamp: Look for the excise stamp on the packaging, which indicates that the product meets federal and provincial regulations.

Ensuring Safe Transactions:

- Payment Methods: Legal online retailers typically accept major credit cards and debit. Be cautious of sites requesting payment via e-transfer or cryptocurrency, as these may be indicators of illegal operations.
- Shipping Practices: Authorized retailers will not ship cannabis products across provincial or international borders. If a website offers to ship anywhere in Canada, it's likely operating illegally.

By adhering to these guidelines and purchasing from reputable sources like NUMO Cannabis, you can ensure a legal and enjoyable cannabis experience in Alberta's central regions.
