Kathryn Hunter-Williams stars in Edges of Time

Kathryn Hunter-Williams will star in the world premiere of Edges of Time: The Life and Times of the Marvelous Marvel Cooke from March 22- April 4. Playmakers Repertory Company will stream this one-woman show about the life of investigative journalist, editor, and activist Marvel Cook, the first Black woman writer to have her own byline in a major US newspaper.

The show begins in 1963 in the wake of the Birmingham church bombing. Marvel threads the story of mid-century Civil Rights with her own trailblazing journey from the suburbs of Minnesota to the newsrooms, labor unions, and arts societies of New York with a fateful detour into the witness chair under interrogation by Senator Joseph McCarthy. Always unconventional and willing to pay the price for speaking her mind, Marvel calls to us from the past with warnings about our present.
