Andy: Welcome to "Reflections with Andy." I'm Andy, and in today's episode, we will be exploring the boldness and conviction of the early apostles in the face of opposition, as described in Acts 5:26-42. Let's delve into it.

[Background music]

Andy: In this passage, we see that the apostles were brought before the Sanhedrin, the religious council, for their continued preaching of the Gospel. They were accused of defying the authorities and were warned not to teach in Jesus' name. However, Peter and the other apostles boldly declared that they must obey God rather than human authority.

Andy: The apostles' response reflects their unwavering faith in Jesus and their commitment to sharing His message. They understood that their allegiance was first and foremost to God, and they were willing to face the consequences for their obedience. They declared that they were witnesses to Jesus' resurrection and that God had exalted Him as Savior and Lord.
