Technology Exploration Resource Explored (be sure to differentiate which resource is which for each of the three items:

1.	Describe what you learned from exploring this resource. Be thorough in your response.
	Historypin is an amazing site that allows users to “pin” pictures of history so that other users may see them. This site is wonderful, it is a wealth of knowledge. I do believe most anything that you can think of in history (in a time with picture development of course) has a picture on this site. It is so neat to look through, hours could be spent on this site!
2.	How could you use this resource in a school setting? It does not matter if it is in your field or level, you need to understand how the resource might be used in educational settings.
	In a school setting, this site could be like gold! For those who are visual learners, this would be absolutely perfect. Students could see an actual picture of a historical event, thus deepening their understanding of the content.
3.	Would you recommend this resource to other educators? Like/Dislike; Ease of use, fee or not, and so forth. Why or Why not?
	I would definitely recommend this resource to other educators. I myself love to look at pictures, especially old ones. I know that students will too. I also think that it is very easy to use, and best of all – free!
