Logline:

When the Cosmic Clock strikes thy kairotic moment, the game of fate begins. The planets in this Battle Royal take on stunning humanoid forms and ready themselves for a battle to the death. Which by the end will only see one planet left standing.

And when these games reach our Solar System, a particular small planet finds themselves up against impossible odds. The Earth however does have something the other planets don't. That being she has something worth fighting for.

The Earth finds herself fighting for countless lives in a life-or-death battle against the other planets. Having to find a way to do the impossible and be the last planet left standing.

So... Apparently that's how the universe functions for some reason? Go figure, right?
