In France, you have to have a guarantor to rent a place. If you have a guarantor (with a French bank account), you do not need to go any further in your reading. If not, please read carefully the following information and instructions.

What is a guarantor and why do I need a guarantor?

A guarantor is a person that commits to be responsible financially for the tenant in case s/he cannot pay the rent. It represents a rent guarantee for the owner, s/he can be sure the rent will be paid. It is a mandatory procedure in France to have a guarantor in order to rent a place.

Fortunately, the French government gives the opportunity to students who do not have a guarantor to apply to a governmental co-signer program: VISALE.
