- Proships/zoophilic

#5 TLOS Dark Aether Plague AU style ref sheet $80 - One character only (must provide writing/headcanons for me to add) and let me know which stage of infection you want

STAGE 1: INFECTED

- Transmitted through scratches, bites, or if the infected enters open wounds.
- Purple-pink mucus begins collecting in the mouth.
- Area around the wound darkens and slowly spreads.
- Victim becomes lightheaded, fatigued, and disoriented.
- This stage lasts around 30 minutes before advancing.

STAGE 2: SPLIT

- The infected side becomes entirely darkened, split perfectly down the middle.
- Faint dark veins begin to appear
- Victim is still somewhat conscious, but control begins slipping.
- Develops a constant, wide, unnatural smile they cannot control.
- Pupils shrink
- Purple-pink mucus increases
- Behavior becomes volatile-aggressive, animalistic, and unpredictable

STAGE 3: FULLY INFECTED

- Entire body is now completely blackened, no remaining traces of original color.
- Pulsing glowing veins cover the entire body, pulsating a glow
- Mucus continues to drip from mouth AND veins, floating upward when it touches the ground. Blood and tears become the same color
- Mental state is completely gone, no longer recognizes allies.
- In LATE stage 3, Dark Aether crystals begin to grow from the skin. They are painful, which amplifies aggression and instability.
- Pupils are severely constricted.
- The most dangerous stage, avoid at all costs.
- No known cure, attempts so far have failed. Possibly there is none.

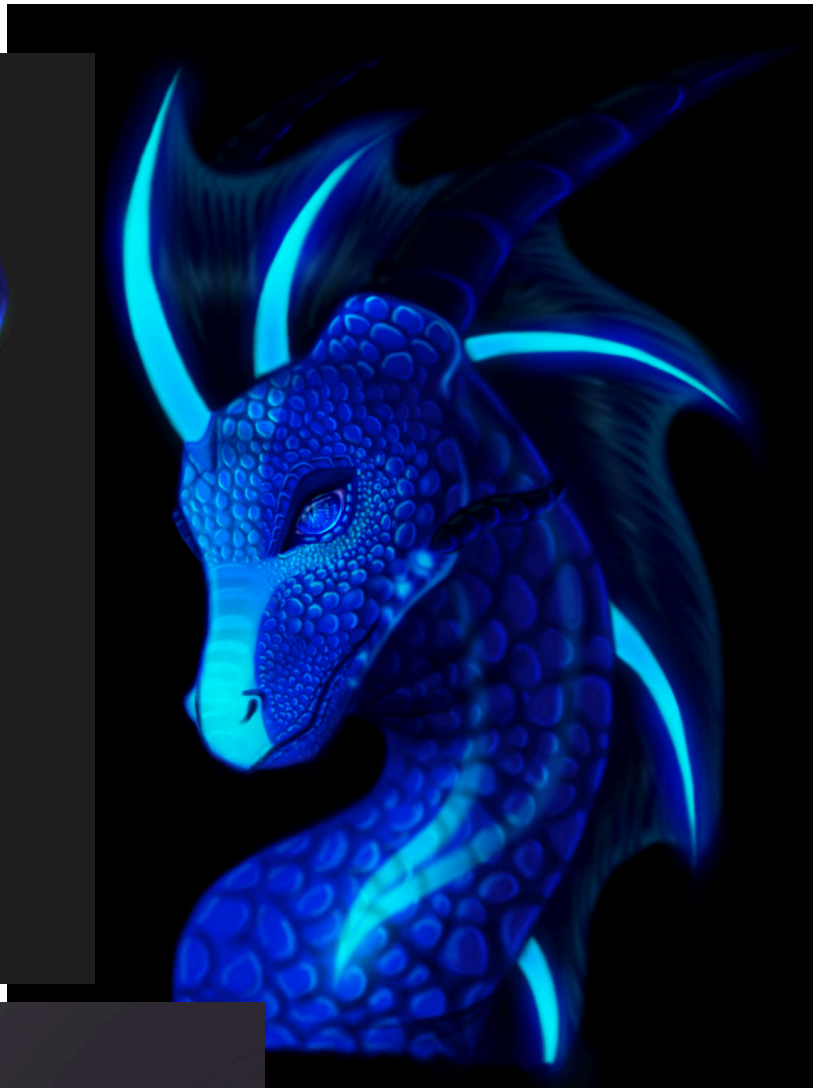

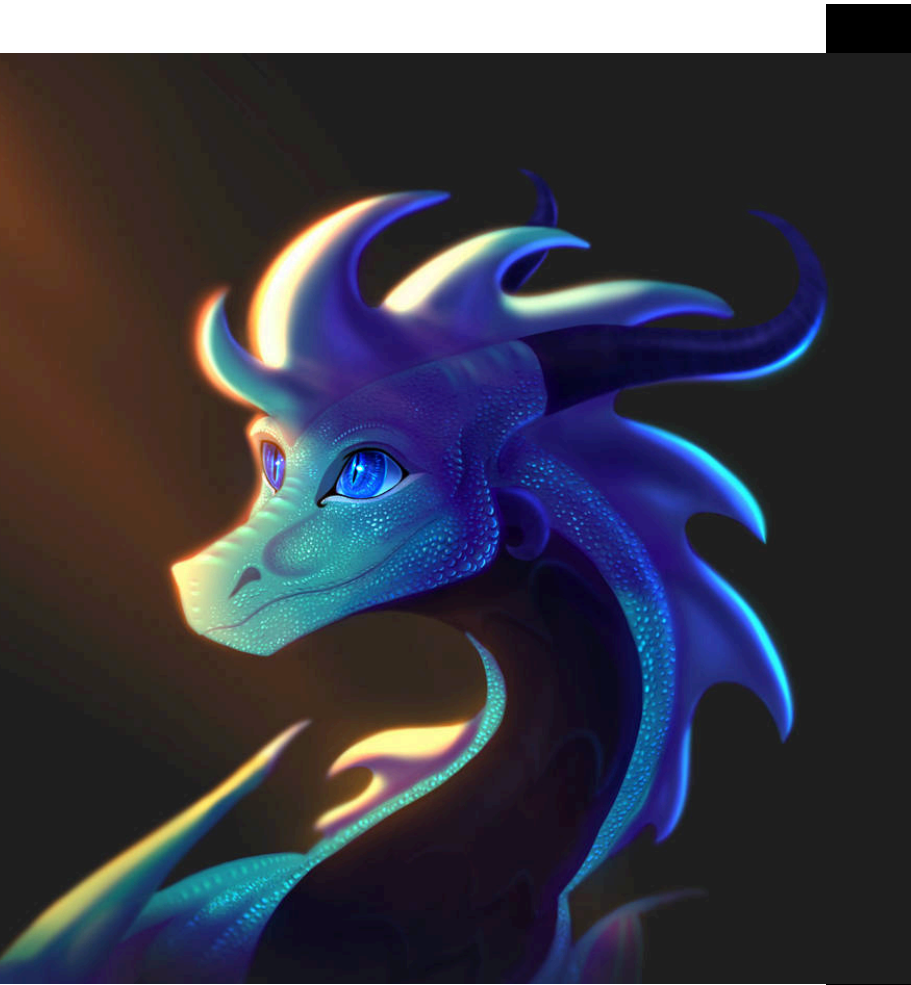

STAGE 4: Fossilization

- Final stage
- This stage takes a long time to develop. Stage 3 is the longest lasting stage, on average lasting a year or so, depending on the size, strength, and magical resistance of the infected victim.
- Victim is overwhelmed by continuous growth of Dark Aether crystals.
- Over time the victim begins to fossilize, they're fully encased.
- At this point the victim is dead. All that remains is a crystalized statue of what they once were.

Spyro has NOT reached this stage. He is in late stage 3 and will likely remain there for a long time due to his immense power being a purple dragon. This is an example of what COULD happen.
