Monday, April 20, 2020 Update

We hope you are well.

We will cut to the chase, President Martin has agreed to most of our demands.

In an email, President Martin provided us with a brief outline of the commitments she has made and the timeframes within which the work will be done:

1. Establishing an institutional Bias Reporting and Response Protocol by Fall 2020
2. Revisions to both our statements of Academic and Expressive Freedom and Freedom of Expression and Dissent to address hateful speech with updates before the end of the semester and over the summer
3. Expanding the Restorative Practices Initiative into a full-fledged, campus-wide program with an update by the beginning of the fall semester and a program ready for Spring 2021
4. On-going training and assessment for changes in education and training for orientation, student staff, and organization leaders, as well as sustained training for athletic teams and coaches

The only acceptable course of action is that these commitments be followed through. Q. We will fulfill our duty of holding the President accountable for her commitments. Reneging, under no circumstance, will be tolerated.

Unfortunately, although President Martin has been able to acknowledge the clear deficiencies across many parts of this campus as a reaction to this current situation, she did not agree to exonerate the victim of the events of March 8, 2020. On our campus, it must always be hypocritical to punish someone based on flawed law.

Thank you, everyone, for all of your help in our efforts to make Amherst College a better place, not only for ourselves but for those who come after us.

Love Black Love,

BSU E-board

Amherst College Is Ill-Equipped to Handle Racist Violence and Threats of Racist Violence; We Must Work to Integrate Amherst

On Saturday night, several white lacrosse players and other white students screamed and chanted “N*gger! N*gger! N*gger! Goodnight, N*gger!” outside of a Black lacrosse player’s room, while the Black lacrosse player and another Black student were inside of his room, as reported in The Student and further confirmed by additional sources. The two Black students were the only Black people present on that floor. There is no question of to whom this threat and act of violence was directed. The utterance of this word is not only an act of violence in itself, but it is a historical signal for further, physical violence. Considering both the contemporary and recent racial history of white mobs and lynching, this act cannot only be understood as the use of a “racial epithet,” but can only be reasonably understood as a threat of violence. Out of fear for himself and his friend and in self-defense, the Black lacrosse player then punched one of the white players. He is now at risk of facing consequences from the College and is potentially under threat of expulsion.

The Amherst College Black Student Union recognizes that some of this narrative may be more detailed than other versions of this narrative. Other accounts of this incident may not match this narrative because the investigation done by the Amherst College Police Department and Amherst College Office of Student Affairs has been unsalvageably compromised by bias and remains incomplete. The immense amounts of discretion involved in the investigation and the lack of processes in place to specifically handle incidents like these concern us even more than this particular manifestation of a broader pattern.

The perpetuation of violent discriminatory behavior of many students who are allowed onto Amherst’s campus with little to no anti-racism and bias training and no accountability is a problem in and of itself. Most importantly, however, this incident exposes institutional ineptitude as it regards to handling a series of threats of racialized violence. It is another clear instance of the college’s lack of specific processes to handle situations like this, from the very recent such as the swastika incident last spring or the noose in fall 2017 to even the decades-old, like when crosses were burned on Drew House quad in 1979; these all lacked adequate responses from the college. Furthermore, this issue has been raised historically, from the 1969 moratorium and the 1994 sit-ins to 2015’s Amherst Uprising, the college has been given plenty of notice of the ways in which it is complicit in racist violence.

Clearly, Amherst’s recent history is not a far departure from the history of the rest of the country. The complete lack of process for incidents like this reflects tacit approval for them to occur in the future. Furthermore, this lack of process begs the question: will it take the escalation of one of these racist threats for the college to listen?

To be clear, our aim, as always, is to make Amherst the most inclusive community and to sincerely ensure that members of this community feel safe, however, safety cannot come without accountability. While we and the directly impacted parties expect nothing less than an apology from the men’s lacrosse team, we take further issue with the role the college administration has played in the perpetration of a threatening, racist environment at Amherst. Strong measures like suspending the men’s lacrosse team’s next season or firing coach Jon Thompson may indeed be necessary, but they are also certainly insufficient and may inflict further harm instead of prevent it, which is our aim. The conditions for such racist violence to occur would still be upheld by Amherst College. The absence of any particular policy to handle threats of racist violence and racist violence itself reveals a deeper-set need of the college to put in place distinct structures and processes to address racism on campus; this absence may not be a want but a desire.

All members of this community must work to find the best methods to not only hold the college accountable but more so ensure that the college lives up to its purported values as opposed to the shallow moral stance it retreats to without committing to substantive -- even radical -- change instead of continuing to allow acts of white supremacist violence to happen specifically against Black students.

Contrasting the college's recent efforts to diversify our community, the college clearly cannot structurally support the vast population of students of color on campus. How can a school that so widely advertises its "majority-minority" student body, so frequently fail to protect the very students they market? How can a school expect students to feel safe when time after time racism persists with little or no consequence? One must conclude that these failures are intentional. Continuing to fail to structurally address the following questions can only lead to further violence and attrition, harming the lives of Black and other marginalized people in the process.

To be clear, the events of the morning of March 8, 2020, and the subsequent actions taken by Amherst College are symptomatic and reflective of the deep divide created by and present within Amherst College through its disparate treatment of students of color, particularly Black students. We have outlined our assessment of the problem above. In light of the overwhelming response by alumni and in collaboration with various stakeholder groups, we have put together a list of demands. In order for us to come closer to "the deliberative, open, collaborative, and caring community Amherst is at its core as we do the work of building a genuinely inclusive academic community," President Martin must demonstrate this in the College's actions and not only her words.

Amherst College has unquestionably positioned itself as a leader when it comes to acquiring a "diverse student body," yet it has hypocritically remained far behind when it comes to the way these "diverse" students are treated on campus. The personal statements and sentiments of the President of Amherst College are almost never reflected in the charges presented by the Board of Trustees, nor in the official policies of the College. Past, present, and future students attending Amherst College can only rely upon the College's current policies around race issues to cause further harm. Amherst will remain segregated if the current lack of procedure does not change. Current students can and will testify to the race and class-based divide they experience in the current policies upheld by the College. We must not, now, succumb to the low bar and the historically-too-convenient excuse of the law. Our complaint is not about a single issue. As we look to the bicentennial, we demand that the College look both to the current situation for guidance, and beyond it to better understand the responsibilities beholden to the students of Amherst College. With our first Black student graduating in 1826, Amherst of all places should be leading in areas of diversity, equity, inclusion, and justice. We call to Integrate Amherst. In light of our history, how dare we not?

1. The efficacy of the current mechanisms being used to deal with this incident (cumulative team punishments) may be necessary, but are in no way sufficient. Such punitive action both punishes remaining athletes of color on the team and ignores the individual responsibility of the three aggressors. While we agree that the culture of the lacrosse team--and of the campus at-large--must be addressed, we do not agree that the measures announced, such as the barring of captain's practices and the elimination of the 2020-2021 post-season, are useful reactions beyond pandering to the multiple constituencies to which President Martin is answering. We are not asking for placation; we are asking for President Biddy Marin, Provost and Dean of the Faculty Catherine Epstein, and Director of Athletics Don Faulstick to stop enabling the racial violence that occurs on our campus. After all, we want the lacrosse team to excel in their sport and to contribute to the culture of academic and athletic excellence the College seeks to cultivate. In light of this goal, no punishment must be dealt to the victim of March 8, 2020. We must see an increase in measures that uplift and better the College as a whole instead of those which reprimand the collective for the actions of a few.
2. We call for Amherst College to better define "freedom of expression", "academic freedom", and "hate speech" with particular attention to "speech that incites violence." The College must make determinations on what "speech" means at Amherst College and on the processes for addressing racial violence and discrimination on campus. At the end of the Fall 2020 semester, this committee must have revised versions of these documents ready to be implemented for the Spring 2021 semester. Upon implementation, relevant documents should be circulated among students, faculty, staff, and the wider Amherst community. These processes should be included in and articulated throughout our statement of nondiscrimination and the Student Code of Conduct, and equally applicable to all members of the Amherst community. The charges for the committees follow:
 - a. The Presidential Task Force on Diversity and Inclusion and the College Council must revise, amend, and reimagine the Statement of Freedom of Expression and Dissent to improve upon its address of hate speech and speech that incites violence.
 - b. The College Council with Dean of Students Liz Agosto to revise, amend, and reimagine the language of the Student Code of Conduct and the Honor Code to explicitly address the Office of Student Activities and the Amherst College Police Department's deficiencies in their treatment of "bias" incidents.

We recognize the lack of formal relationship between the Chief Policy Officer, the Office of General Counsel, and the College's internal governance structures. However, the silence of Amherst College's legal department is deafening and revealing. It shows that they find this sort of harassment, disruption of the academic program, and blatant disrespect for persons to be acceptable. We do not. Therefore, to ensure the new code of conduct not only complies with federal law, Massachusetts law, and most importantly, moral law, we call upon the College to find external legal counsel, preferably from an organization dedicated to civil and political rights (i.e. National Association for the Advancement of Colored Peoples or the American Civil Liberties Union).

3. Amherst College and/or the Board of Trustees must correct the College's Statement of Freedom of Expression and Dissent. The current statement is ineffectual and does not recognize the harm that can come from various forms of speech, some of which admittedly fall below legal definitions of hate speech. This statement should be reflected in the Honor Code and Student Code of Conduct so that in instances of racial discrimination, the Office of Student Affairs has clear guidelines regarding speech and investigative processes. (Amended from Amherst Uprising demands #5 and 6.)
4. Amherst College is an outlier among comparable higher-learning institutions by not having proactive processes in place to handle racial incidents. It is no wonder that on such a small campus, such a large number of similar incidents occur so frequently and with increasing harm. To address this issue, we call for the creation of a Bias/Discrimination-Related Reporting and Response Protocol. This protocol would help to maintain community even when the College is fractured by racial discrimination and bias. To work toward the handling of each of these incidents equitably and towards the goal of restoring a just and safe community, we call for this protocol to apply to all cross-sections on campus.
 - a. See Harvard College, Williams College, Wesleyan College, Smith College, et al.
5. Recognizing the privacy afforded by federal law, we call for increased transparency for what will be done to redress the harm caused by the three seniors of the Amherst College Men's Lacrosse Team to the wider community of students of color. There must be consequences for their violence. Whether or not they come in the form of expulsion or the withholding of a degree, at the very least we are due: a clear indication that they understand the gravity and historical significance of chanting the word n*gger to a group of Black students, a condemnation of their actions from the Amherst College Athletics Department, and finally, a widespread acknowledgement of wrongdoing from the students themselves. This must happen, if it is indeed true that, as stated in the College's Student Code of Conduct, "[t]here is no circumstance in which the 'n-word' or any other racist slur is acceptable on this campus and no use of that slur that does not provoke anger, fear, sadness, and alienation in those who are targeted--in this case, students of color--or outrage in those who abhor racism."
6. There should be specific faculty, staff, and students appointed and trained to effectively conduct the Restorative Practice Initiative at Amherst College, specifically as it pertains to instances of racial discrimination. This includes the hiring of any and all additional staff members for the Office of Student Affairs--particularly conduct--where this project will reside.
7. All faculty, staff (including coaches), and students in leadership positions should receive cultural competency training with an emphasis on anti-racism training incorporated into their wider training programs, as well as into orientation for the wider student body. This training should make clear the College's stance on various forms of speech, nondiscrimination, and the amended procedures if someone performs any type of racial discrimination or injustice.

8. Any and all groups involved in any form of additional racial discrimination must participate in some form of year-long cultural competency bias training and/or coursework with an emphasis on anti-racism.

The discrepancies in Amherst College's treatment of students cannot continue to stand. Amherst College will inevitably continue to discriminate on the basis of race, national or ethnic origin, color, amongst other things in the administration of its programs and activities. This works towards the goal of the Trustees of Amherst College: to "continue to affirm the importance of inclusiveness among our student body, our faculty, and our staff." For these reasons and more, we call for these changes as the first of many steps to #IntegrateAmherst.
