

Naomi Jackson – President CEO of the Boys & Girls Clubs of Central Mississippi

Naomi Jackson is the President/CEO of the Boys & Girls Clubs of Central Mississippi, an organization with an 87-year legacy of serving the community. With a strong background in operations, she previously held the position of Vice President of Operations, where she launched the annual "Give a Child a Smile" toy drive campaign. This initiative has gained significant support from numerous funders, thanks to the strong relationships she has cultivated over the years.

Under Naomi's leadership, the organization also introduced a nationally recognized financial services program aimed at building financial confidence in individuals, families, and businesses. Her dedication to fostering financial literacy and stability has made a profound impact on the community.

Naomi is an active member of the New Foundation Toastmasters Club and serves on the prayer team at Word of Life Church. She is the widow of Michael Jackson, with whom she shared 26 wonderful years. Together, they have four children, nine grandchildren, and three grand puppies.

Her commitment is to empower the youth she serves, helping them achieve their highest potential as productive citizens. Naomi continues to innovate and enrich programs in collaboration with Jackson Public Schools and Hinds County School Districts.

"I am honored to be part of a great organization and movement, such as the Boys & Girls Clubs of Central Mississippi, where I have the opportunity to impact youth lives daily."

In her personal time, Naomi enjoys reading and cherishing moments with her family. One of her favorite quotes is, "We are all farmers and every day we are sowing seeds whether good or bad. It is up to each of us to sow good seeds, so the youth can see the good in the lives of adults, and desire to do as such."
