I am impressed by the Food Label, but much of the other work is just a cut and paste that does not include the important details. Peter is capable of better work than this. He had a lot of periods with the Chromebooks and I feel he gets off task and does his own thing when not directly supervised. I know he will be disappointed by these comments - but I would rather find out that he expected them (because he should know that this is not his best work.)
