Subject Line: I stood up and felt FREE...

Relieving sensations can really unlock happiness.

I finally escaped free from sharp pains of joint inflammation.

Years of pain and restricted mobility, at last concluded in me being able to move FREELY without joint pain appearing as an interceptor. I had developed respect for normal prescribed joint inflammation tablets...

But then the pain struck again,,

KILLING my knees with years of agony.

I was lost and confused. Not knowing where to look.

In a moment like this I had two options,

I could either quit desiring the freedom of my knees and sit on a wheelchair,

Or pick up the last bit of strength I possessed to face the drawback and free myself.

Do I let regret consume my happiness?

NO.

Thankfully, I came across a renowned and powerful doctor of medicine, who handed me the key to unlocking the freedom my knees longed for.

And I have my doctor Robert J. Rowen to thank for that.
