Are you trying to use Facebook thinking that it is down? We got you covered. In this article, we shall discuss how to check if Facebook is down.

Facebook is one of the top-rated social apps, and because of the large population over here, it goes down now and then. However, there are some instances when the problem occurs because of the users' side. Therefore we shall first discuss the ways to check if it is down, and in the aftermath of this, we shall discuss what you can do to fix it.

How To Check If Facebook Is Down

There are enormous methods through which you can check if Facebook is down, but before that, you need to ensure that you have a good network connection because sometimes users who do not have a good network connection face trouble loading this app. Therefore to check if you have a good network connection, you can try loading different websites and apps apart from Instagram and WhatsApp because these two are owned by or somehow connected to Facebook.

If you can load helpful websites in no time, your problem is not a network connection.

After following the first method, try doing the basic tricks like clearing the cache and updating the app. The problem may be from your side, so you need to keep this in mind.

Head Over To Twitter

Twitter is the hub of information. Whatever and wherever something is going around, you can find that just by one click on Twitter. So, to find out if Facebook is down, head over to Twitter, and in the search bar, type Facebook down. This way, you will get all the information related to Facebook.

Try Connecting To Facebook Through A Different Phone

When Facebook is down, it will be down for everyone regardless of how far he lives away from you. You can utilize this by checking Facebook. Let me explain how you can do this: ask your family members or your friend's phone and try to open Facebook. If you get connected to Facebook easily here, then there is a problem with the Facebook app installed on your phone. Opposite of this, if you cannot connect to Facebook on this phone, it is more likely that Facebook is down.

Use Third-Party Apps

There can be your reasons for not using another phone or not downloading Twitter on your phone. You can download any third-party apps or head to any website that can tell you if Facebook is down. One such website is Downdetector. Click on the Facebook option given somewhere on the screen, and you will see many people complaining about Facebook connections. In case these complaints are recent, it means that everyone is facing this problem.

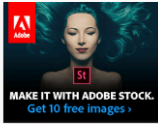

One more website can find if Facebook is down, down for everyone or just me. To use it, you only have to enter the URL, and this website will tell you if Facebook is down only for you or everyone.

What To Do When Facebook Is Down

Now you know how to check if Facebook is down, but you don't know what you should do in this case. So let me tell you that you cannot do anything because the problem is from the headquarters. You only have to sit and scroll on Instagram or WhatsApp, whatever you want to use, but you cannot do anything on Facebook when it is down.

How To Know When Facebook Comes Back Online

If you are a heavy Facebook user, then Facebook's server down might be troubling you enormously. So, in this case, you must keep an eye on Twitter because whatever happens in the world within nanoseconds starts trending on Twitter. When a big platform like Facebook is down, you will see it in the trending list.

Stay in contact with your friends or family members who use Facebook. Whenever these people get notified, ask them to tell you.

Keep checking news websites as these websites cover everything, so you will also get the information regarding Facebook. There are lots of news websites that also give you the feature of turning on notifications. You can turn on this notification if you want to use Facebook badly.

Conclusion
