

YOU SAID	WE DID
Feedback: The 6As on one report feels overwhelming. We have gone from less information to too much information. The 6As are easy to understand and it is important to differentiate between 'Acquire' and 'Apply'. Suggested solution: The first report received in the year could just be Acquire, Apply and Aspire. Attain could come towards the end of the year when exams/final assessments have been taken.	Key Stage 3 reports that are due to be published in January will report: Acquire Apply Aspire Attend *Attain will come in a summative year report
Sometimes it is still not clear what knowledge is missing for students to achieve higher. Suggested solution: Curriculum documentation available on website, parents can use essential knowledge sheets and contact teachers.	Curriculum documentation is now all available on the website. Parent information evenings outlined and shared the purpose of each type of documentation and how parents can use them to support their children at home. Essential knowledge sheets are all visible in every subject book.
Feedback: It would help if more teachers used class charts announcements to give indications to when milestones will be and what needs covering. The report then makes more sense because we know what it is based on more.	Each week, upcoming milestones and topics are communicated via weekly messages. Class teachers engage parents with information on milestone dates, content and how to help their child.
Feedback: It is very positive to hear that we will receive the curriculum documentation very soon. The example of a milestone tracker shared this evening was very clear and useful. We look forward to seeing this for all subjects and year groups as this will help us support our children more. Some parents on our table are unaware of essential knowledge sheets and some others are very aware.	Curriculum documentation is now all available on the website. Parent information evenings outlined and shared the purpose of each type of documentation and how parents can use them to support their children at home. Essential knowledge sheets are all visible in every subject book.
Feedback: Discussion on our table on whether Red Amber Green colours would help. We did not reach a consensus as there are pros and cons for it.	We will take feedback on the next round of reporting to support this consultation process.
