News & Story Angles:

How one woman with a child with autism is creating a community for those with neurodivergence. (In connection to Neurodiversity Celebration Week – March 2024.)

April is Neurodiversity Celebration Month - How those with neurodivergence make the world a better place.

With a current unemployment rate of 85% for persons on the autism spectrum, what can employers do to support individuals with autism in the workplace?

Individuals with autism and neurodiversity are often negatively impacted by sensory overload. What can families do around the holidays to support these individuals and create a fun celebration?

The CDC reports that one in 30 people is diagnosed with autism in the US annually. What are some of the best things a parent can do when they first find out that their child has a diagnosis of autism?

Once upon a time, there was no central resource for those living with neurodivergence or disabilities. Learn how Gilda Evans and a Board of dedicated professionals founded the Autism Resource Project to help those with autism and all neurodivergent or disabled individuals live their best lives.

Current Stats for the Autism Resource Podcast as of Spring 2023:

Podcast: Over 6,000 downloads, more than 130 episodes, and listened to in nearly a dozen different countries.