

A man is only as strong as his purpose...

A man who has purpose in life will accelerate at everything that he is doing.

Some are looking for this purpose in creating an immaculate lifestyle for themselves.

Ride the fastest cars, experience the high from adrenaline pumping through their veins, parties that let you forget, and moments where you realize that you achieved it all.

The most beautiful, caring woman in your life, while having freedom and the best friends to enjoy it with. To provide and protect that are closest, never letting anyone else come close.

And while that is an amazing state to be in, I know exactly that those wildest dreams are only a side effect.

They are only the result of the fights, the adversity, and the punches taken that hurt the most.

So I want problems, Problems so big I cannot describe them at this Moment, cause for that I have to qualify myself for them.

So my dream state is to be a man who can look back and can proudly say he got knocked down more than a thousand times and bled a 1000 times more.

A man who faced every challenge thrown at him, despite fear, despite not knowing what was going to happen.

That is the man I want to be. A man strong enough to fight something bigger than himself, than his own mind.

Andrew Tate helped me to articulate the thoughts I always had in my mind, he helped me get on track and find the purpose that I always knew was hidden deep inside of me.

If god forbids, anything is to happen to him, I want to be in a position to help him keep his message alive. The message he is ready to give his life for.

The message that saved Millions of lives and will save Millions more.

There is nothing a man can't do if he has meaning.
