

Manuscript Title

Abstract: Authors are encouraged to prepare manuscripts directly using this template. This template demonstrates format requirements for the Creative Urbanizm Conference. The abstract should include the research motivation, objective, process, and findings.

Keywords: Journal, template, manuscripts.

1. Introduction

Authors are requested to submit papers through the online submission system. A few questions have to be answered while submitting papers.

All research articles in this journal undergo rigorous peer review, based on initial editor screening and anonymous refereeing. Manuscripts have to be compiled into a single word (.docx) file.

2. Manuscript Structure

Manuscripts should be divided into the following sections: abstract, introduction, method, results, discussion, conclusions, references, and appendix (if any).

The authors should use a serif typeface, Times New Roman, for the text of the manuscript. Number the pages consecutively starting with page 1. Except for grammatical errors and typos, no changes will be allowed in the manuscript once it has been accepted for publication.

Tables, figures, and appendix must be embedded in the corresponding order in the manuscript. An example of table content is shown in Table 1. The width of the table line is 1/2p. The width of the table is the same as that of the single-column arrangements. Wilder tables should be accommodated in a single-column arrangement. Please try not to use the bold format in the column unless the authors would like to highlight something important.

High-resolution figures are required in this journal. Directly drawing diagrams in the manuscript is not acceptable. An example of diagrams/charts is shown in Fig. 1. All tables and figures should be discussed in the manuscript with table and figure numbers. When explaining more than three things, please try to use a series comma, for example, A, B, and C.

Column name G	Column name H	Column name I
1	A	+
2	B	-
3	C	*
4	D	/

The authors are requested to use and number heading levels consecutively:

2.1. Flush Left, Boldface, Uppercase Heading

2.1.1. Flush left, boldface, lowercase heading

2.1.1.1. Boldface, italicized, lowercase paragraph heading

2.1.1. 1.1. Italicized, lowercase paragraph heading

3. Citation Format

Cited references in the text must include the author's surname and year of publication. For example:

One work by one author

Smith (2010) found that...

Early onset results in severe consequences (Smith, 2010).

In 2010, Smith showed that...

One work by two authors

Smith and Jackson (2010) found that...

Early onset results in severe consequences (Smith and Jackson, 2010).

In 2010, Smith and Jackson showed that...

One work by more than three authors

Smith et al. (2010) found that...

Early onset results in severe consequences (Smith et al., 2010).

In 2010, Smith et al. showed that...

Multiple works

Smith (2010) and Cheng (2011) found that...

Early onset results in severe consequences (Smith, 2010; Cheng, 2011).

Early onset results in severe consequences (Smith, 2010a, 2010b, in press; Cheng, 2011).

4. Equations

MS Equation should be used to formulate equations. An example of an equation is shown in Eq. (1). Images or other equation applications are not accepted. Equations should be numbered consecutively starting with (1) and explained in the text.

$$Mean = \frac{1+2+3}{3} \quad (1)$$

5. Online Submission

Authors are requested to submit papers through the online submission system of the conference
