

Forced-Choice Reinforcement Survey

Rationale: This survey is designed to work as part of the Individualized Positive Reinforcement Menu. Students will answer a set of controlled choice survey questions about their individual reinforcement preferences. This can help in working with them to identify potential classroom reinforcers as their answers can provide valuable insight into the types of rewards and incentives they desire.

Instructions:

- After identifying a student to use this intervention with, please read the following paragraph carefully. (Note that you can have the student complete the survey independently or read it to them.)
 - “Let’s imagine that you just finished working hard on an assignment and you think that you’ve done a great job. I’m going to have you review several pairs of reward choices. Please choose one from each pair that you would like best and mark X next to it.”
