

for the past 5 weeks i have been working on a self that i am currently cutting and getting all the pieces for the building for my project and i will continue to work and keep building my shelves for my room and then put it together im getting closer each day.