

“A medium does not reverse into its opposite because some older form has been retrieved; rather, it reverses because it is pushed to its limits.” (Page 128)

The picture represents the evolution of media and the adaption of pushing the media to its maximum potential. Once something is pushed to its limit, we change our media to something modern to adapt to newer human perceptions.