Privacy policy - Material Islands

Location data

Material Islands only asks for the user's location if the setting "Use live weather" has been enabled, in order to provide live weather functionality to the user as an addition to the live wallpaper backgrounds. The longitude and latitude is sent to MET Norway via an API (https://api.met.no/), where a weather condition is received in return. The API call is done once per hour in order to keep the current weather updated. The user can also decide to manually refresh the weather and an extra call via the API will be done. Only longitude and latitude is being sent, no other device specific data. If location data is not turned on, the app will work fine except for the live weather functionality.
