

Right time, place, people, (inter)actions - this is how hi-trust collaboration networks change the world-

Youth and Boston do this more successfully -in terms of job creation, future world change peopels need most and colaboration - than anywhere else we have been -with thanks to such bostonian hosts as Berners Lee and the web; open education's online origin before MOOC and KhanAcademy were born; the new media lab's connections with developing world mobile partnering experiments that do the most to bridge digital divides here's some of the 2013-2014 places and entrepreneurs to be @ startup student year by meeting 2013 IDEAS Global Challenge
