

What if I don't have children in the district?

An investment in Woodland Public Schools is an investment in our students, the future of the district, and the entire community. If you've ever had children in school or attended public school, taxpayers before you helped fund the schools you and your children attended. Current Ralston and Fairfax residents help pay for our school and improve the future of education for Woodland students. As new residents move into our attendance area, they also assume these taxes.

Woodland Public Schools are a hub of our community— open to all residents for academic, athletic events, community meetings and gatherings. Great schools increase property values and safe schools ensure safer neighborhoods. By building a stronger educational foundation for our students, we build a stronger and brighter future and help mold active, well-rounded citizens.
