

STEPS TO FIND THE OWNER AND THEIR EMAIL (personal + business)

Finding the owner - Usually it's in the "about us" / "Our Team" OR "Meet the Team" section, if not there, search "ceo@[examplewebsite.com]" (don't include "https://www") on google. Usually their LinkedIn profile will come on the top.

Finding the owner's email - After finding their profile on LinkedIn, use Skrapp.io for finding and verifying emails (for free) and don't be lazy to search about it on YT.

Additional Info. - If you can't find the owner's profile on LinkedIn, but have their full name, look up for how to use "Email Permutator" and "name2email by reply" on YT, 99% of the time, you'll be able to find the email. These two tools have separate video for each other, so steal the emails that you'll get from permutator and verify them by using "name2email by reply".

Extensions that I'm using -

Email Hunter - Efficiently EXTRACTS all the emails, in the website. (Sometimes it was helpful)

Name2Email - Verifies the valid email, when you put it in the "To" section of your mail, before sending. (Mostly helpful)

Skrapp.io - Verifies the email (work mail), and shows the domain connected to it, also finds the email of the owner's mail from their First and Last Name and the website. Can be used for verifying personal emails too. (Time saver)

SalesQL - Extracts the email from the LinkedIn profile, this one reduced a bunch of work. (It was really helpful)

ContactOut - Use it's extension for LinkedIn to avoid putting every detail of your prospect it's web. You get free credits per day (now it's 4 credits) for finding personal and business emails with it. (Game changer!)

Prospero.io - Can be used on LinkedIn as an extension. It's Interface is like Skrapp.io but gets you 100% verified business emails - owner@company.com. Note that it does not provide you with personal emails.

REMEMBER -

Don't be a lazy to just whine for things you can't overcome, analyse about all the solutions you can think of.

Search for it online, but...
