Abstract (12pt, bold)

The abstract is written in 150-250 words followed by 3-5 keywords in English. The abstract must contain research problems, objectives, methods, results, conclusions as well as practical or theoretical implications (if any). (11pt, single space, 1 paragraph).

Keywords: (10pt): 3-5 words separated by semicolons

Introduction (12pt, bold)

The introduction contains the background, statement of the problem, and arguments to be proven in the study. The literature review section can be included in this section. (12pt).

Research Methods (12pt, bold)

This section contains a description of the methods used to answer research questions or achieve research objectives. This research method includes research design, data sources, data collection, processing, and analysis techniques (12pt).

Results and Discussion (12pt, bold)

The author must elaborate on the results of the research in this chapter. Data should be provided as concisely as possible and if necessary, tables or numbers must be used. The results of the study must be able to answer or explain the questions/objectives set in the introduction. Furthermore, the data obtained must be interpreted with the theory and support of previous research.

Conclusion (12pt, bold)

The conclusion is the findings of the study in the conceptual abstraction. Summaries and suggestions must be included in this section. Conclusions should describe the answers to the research question and/or study objectives or the results achieved. Moreover, theoretical and practical (managerial) implications can also be written in this section (if any).

Acknowledgment (12pt, bold)

This section contains a thank you which allows the author to thank all those who have helped in researching including research funders.

References (12pt, bold)

All references cited in the article must be written in the bibliography. We advise authors to use 80% of primary sources such as accredited or indexed scientific journals published in the last 5-10 years and the rest are theses, books, and other related publications. References are written according to APA6th style. Moreover, we also recommend that authors use reference management applications such as Mendeley, EndNote, and Zotero. Here is an example of using APA6th:

Images and Tables

Graphs, diagrams, screenshots, and photos are considered images and must be followed by the source (from where the images were obtained). The images must be high resolution, can be read and numbered in Arabic sequence numbers. Tables must be original tables, not screenshots. Every table and figure must have a title. The description of the image is under the image while the description of the table is above the table.
