

My response

NOTE: This document is VERY long due to large images and screenshots / DM's / mostly blank pages taking up multiple pages! It's mostly a long page of a screenshot of the part of the doc I am referencing, and a paragraph with my response. A lot of it can be skimmed through to read my pink responses. Please do not be intimidated by it's size, and go through the whole document as it's important! It is mostly a response to her document she made on me.

LATEST UPDATE: DM segment tab, Message 4 & Message 5.

Poor experiences with Mori & her obsessively spreading more false rumours about me.

Hello everyone, Lewnabun here! <3

I decided to make a google document responding to DarlingMori's blatant lies, stalking, bullying, creepy obsessive behavior, narcissistic personality and baseless accusations throughout her document. To those who say making a doc doesn't matter, I'm simply defending myself which I have a right to do. As a short summary, most of the entire document that she made is her trying to demonize me for being nice to her, cropping screenshots to make me look bad (don't worry, I will provide the full conversations!), and making false allegations towards me. This is my first Google Doc, so sorry if I'm not as experienced!

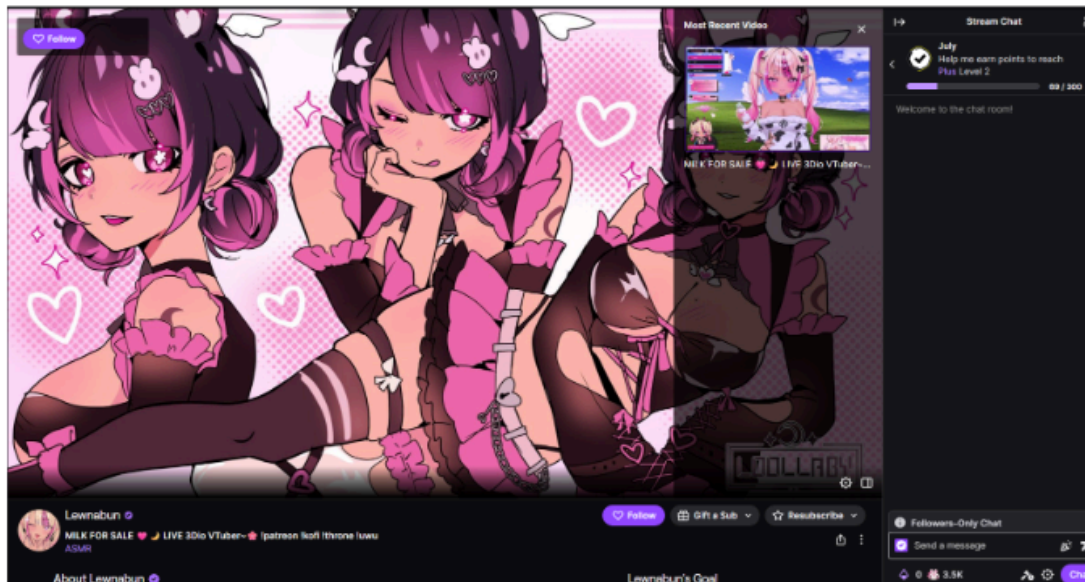

Mori is a bully, projecting her insecurities and judging me based on things made up in her head. This is not the first, second, or last time she will do this. This was not made with the intention of "cancelling" her, but I will be honest, her behavior is very scary and dangerous and has no place in the Vtuber community. Her paranoia runs extremely deep, and she was fighting with someone that didn't exist. I can't stress enough that for 7 months, she fought with an imaginary person, all the while I wasn't even thinking about her. I will be responding in segments to her own google doc, and I will post a screenshot of what part of the document I'm talking about. Here is a link to the original version of her document she released so it can't be edited.

Copy of My experience with Lewnabun

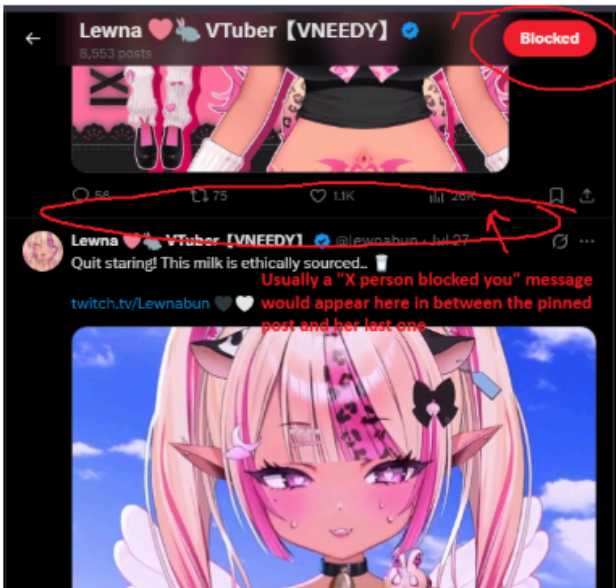

In the Document Tabs you will find messages from other creators for Mori, DM's with my design artists proving my innocence, as well as a DM segment where I add evidence of more strange behavior that was sent to me in my DM's. There are a few other things to take a look at there as well. Please keep in mind my doc is long, as I am refuting her document, as well as creating my own in the process.

I will now go into depth about mostly everything she said. Everything I say will be highlighted in pink! Mostly everything else will just be in plain text. Pink Discord images are my own screenshots.

FIRST SEGMENT:

There is usually a message in between someone's pinned post and the most recent post titled "X person blocked you, you can view public posts from @user but you are blocked from engaging with them. You also cannot follow or message @user." This message does not appear on Lewna's Twitter page if I view it, meaning the block is only from my side. I will be mentioning the May 2025 Incident first so you understand one of the major breaking points, and will describe the friendship I had with her prior/after AFTER that so you can understand the context behind it.

are public information. I am not banned or blocked by Lewna or Vulkin, despite that I have visibly expressed I want nothing to do with her (hard blocking them both). This is a very long Here Mori is mad that I didn't block her for some reason? I'm sorry, Mori has now been blocked. I respect block boundaries and don't visit her account, there's simply no need to. I have moved on entirely, Mori is just an old friend who's caused me grief, nothing more.

NEXT SEGMENT:

The entire "befriending Lewna" part of the document is just incredibly confusing and makes zero sense to me unfortunately. She posts about how I was very nice, which APPARENTLY was sketchy because she was smaller than me on Twitch, but then proceeds to say that when she grew, it was sketchy because then I was 'using her for viewers and raids'? I don't understand how Mori thinks I 'used her for raids' when I have never asked for one, and I have raided her too. All the "evidence" she posts of me, is literally just me being nice! I can repost her exact images she supplied for her doc. I can say with my full chest I am proud of who I am - I am kind, supportive and friendly! Mori's doc being a nothingburger situation of me just being nice, is depressing to say the least.

18:33  Lew Nabun: ur bg is soo cute with u

21:13  Lew Nabun:  someone say league

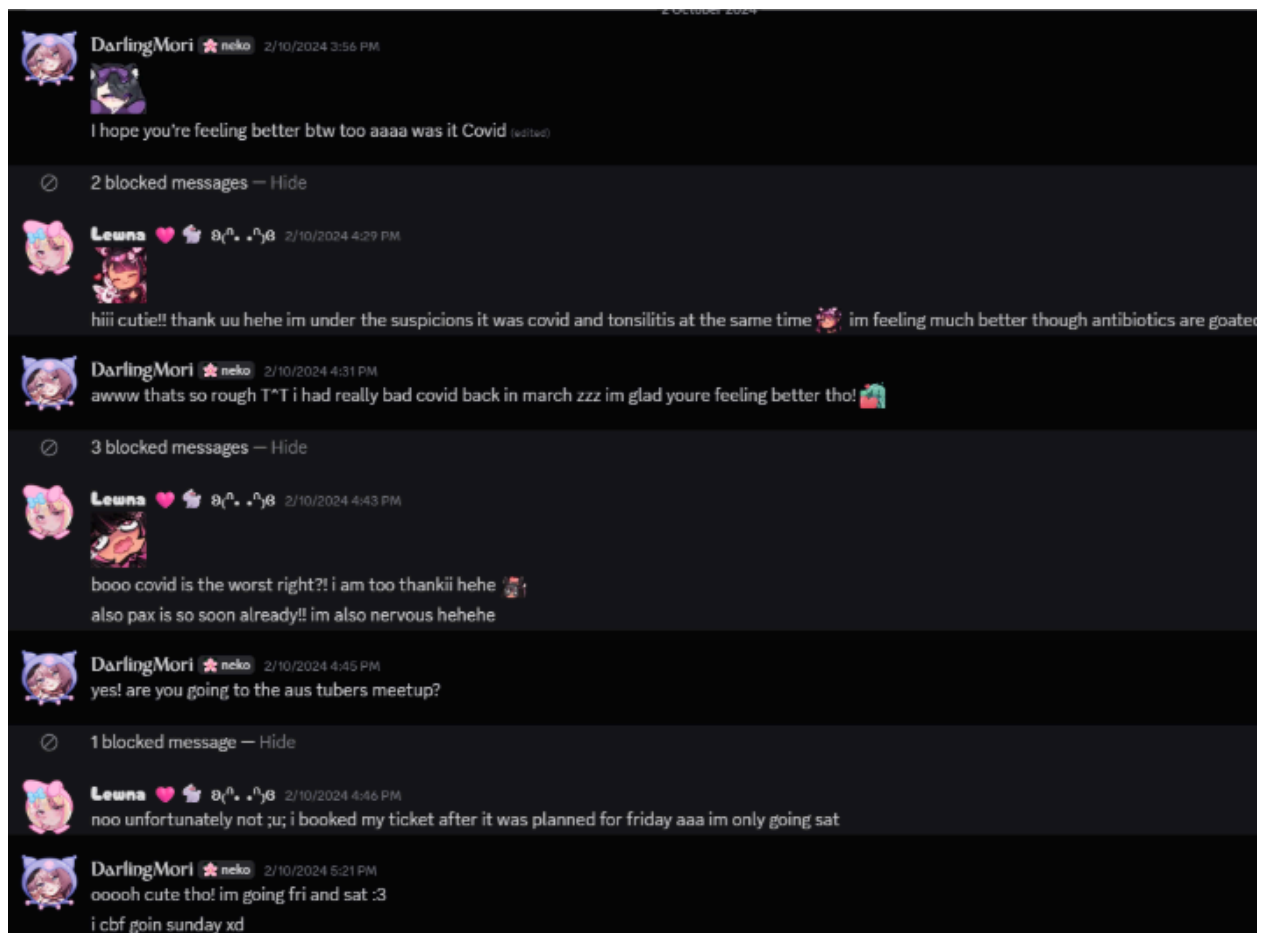

21:13  Lew Nabun:  you should switch to valorant HAHAAH

21:14  Lew Nabun: i dont know what that is

21:14  Lew Nabun: XDDD

21:15  Lew Nabun: ohhh!!!

21:15  Lew Nabun: woaa cute

She claims this:

"I do believe, Lewna may have been attempting to lovebomb me here with affection and interest, under the guise and promise of friendship, so that I would quickly agree. I am very susceptible to this type of behavior, especially from people I have newly befriended, as I struggle to tell when someone is genuine versus trying to get on my good side to use me. It's a common feature of my autism as I have the tendency to be a people pleaser, due to growing up around a narcissist, so I do believe Lewna may have picked up on this. It can be easy to tell when someone is a people pleaser, due to their lack of ability in establishing proper boundaries, and they can struggle to say no and stand up for themselves. I believe Lewna may have been subtly tried to take advantage of me here by pretending to be my friend, realising she could use our "friendship" to her advantage, as coincidentally at the same time, my viewership tripled within this period and I started growing rapidly, far faster than I ever have in my entire streaming career prior. Coincidences with Lewna, as you will later learn, are not accidental and are suspicious in nature."

She mentioned on stream she was going to PAX. A lot of Australian Vtubers were going to PAX so I asked if we could say hi, on the day of PAX we said hi. That was literally all that happened. I met many people at PAX and Mori was just one of them! But we can see here that this is the start of the huge ego she portrays throughout the doc, and her necessity for me to be the perfect parasocial relationship for her. I stumbled across Mori naturally on Twitch, that was my first time entering her stream! Yes, I spoke about her doing ASMR because I have seen her around doing ASMR, and I do ASMR. Mori thinks I'm a master manipulator - in reality I've been diagnosed with severe social anxiety since I was a child, and have been working on putting myself out there to make more friends in recent times. Feelsbadman. I still shake in all social situations and yet still try my best. I don't know if it's feasible to tell everyone you meet that you're shaking because you're trying to say hello and make friends, because you have an anxiety disorder. My friends know I'm unable to sleep before meetings, my hands and body shake when I'm in social settings etc I'm just a shy girl that's it! I still try my best! I'm a little awkward sometimes I'm sorry!

I had just met Mori here, how would I know her viewership tripled? Mori has asked me for streaming advice countless times which made me uncomfortable, but I still tried to help because I want to help people! (Yes, I give people advice, even though people may only want to talk to me for advice, I will learn not to do that) Another point is that she even called talking to others at conventions "networking" which I always found strange, but to each their own!

I just use it for networking and like to hang with friends then I dip

She does a big claim here that I'll quote:

“(such as my AuDHD, PTSD and BPD) but these are the relevant ones for this document. I immediately already felt a lot of pressure to meet in person and Lewna’s expectations and I really did not feel comfortable with the idea of meeting her, especially with a wheelchair, as it may subject me to judgement or mistreatment. Again, I barely knew her, so I had no idea what type of person she was outside of her streaming persona. Out of fear Lewna would find me rude if I declined (and possibly tell others this, and spread a bad image of me), I just instantly agreed despite my discomfort and anxiety, and I casually mentioned I have a wheelchair (as an ambulatory user), so she wouldn’t be surprised. I’ve had issues in the past of people judging me severely for having a wheelchair, as I am in my 20s (which is very young to require one) so I wanted to make myself feel safe and comfortable if I was going to meet Lewna in person before getting to know her prior.”

Mori talks a lot about how she was scared of me, in fear of me, I was just being nice and trying to make a friend. She assumes that I would subject her to mistreatment before even meeting me, already assuming an image of me in her head. She was always enthusiastic regarding meeting me, how would anyone be able to tell she was ‘uncomfortable’?

Mori is writing long scary paragraphs saying she felt a certain way, when I was just being kind. She goes in depth on my “joke” here:

“A part of me felt weird about the whole thing, especially by the odd messages she would reply with about it, such as “OMG that’s awesome, literally a feet saver.” It felt like she was being insensitive and her tone seemed semi-accusatory despite appearing “nice.” Being in a wheelchair is not nice or awesome, and it’s weird to make that type of comment to someone you barely know.”

I was not aware at this point that Mori used a wheelchair for health purposes, as this is the way she introduced it to me that she conveniently left out of her screenshots. We were talking about sensory overload and cosplay discomfort lightheartedly. She originally told me she uses the wheelchair to “sit and be comfy” and “sit and just look cute” at conventions, not for any medical reasons.

I will attach that full conversation here

She literally called her having a wheelchair a “hack” and saying “HAHAHA” so I said “OMG that’s awesome, literally feet saver.” I’m not being insensitive. She literally set up the lighthearted joke by calling her wheelchair a hack like it’s a video game. I don’t see a “semi-accusatory” tone behind that statement?? You can begin to see her grasping at straws hoping to find something that maybe potentially could make me look bad, but it just never works, because there is nothing.

I was told 17 days later that her wheelchair is used for health reasons. I was supportive and glad she had a solution to her pain.

She also says

“At times she would give me weird looks whenever I chose to stand or walk around briefly (something my medical doctors have recommended me to do to prevent muscle atrophy) but I at the time believed I was just overthinking it. A good example is she tried to hide it but she had a very awkward look on her face when she saw me standing next to my wheelchair at this first meeting. If I sit down for too long I get nerve pain in my legs and lower back that causes intense numbness as well, and numbness for me later turns into pain. It’s a common feature for fibromyalgia, as the condition can worsen sciatica-like sensation (nerve pain and numbness), and is very common in the legs. For someone who seemed so sweet and kind, there was surely no way she would be that type of person, so I dismissed my feelings and gave benefit of the doubt. Lewna seemed like a good person and understanding so I thought nothing of it. Lewna in the screenshot also makes the really weird comment that she’s “never been very good at getting myself out there to meet people” yet was quite insistent on meeting me in person, knowing I was disabled. Surely that would indicate she is good at meeting new people however, given how easy our plans were to meet and how confident she was in asking me to do so. Usually, when someone is disabled, you would assume there would be more room for accommodation (such as not insisting on IRL meetups, knowing it would be difficult for them, and offering virtual hangouts instead). It’s a red flag in my opinion, that Lewna implies to me this early that she is bad at making friends and what I thought was just a result from shyness or social anxiety (something common with being neurodivergent), may have actually been from something else instead (such as Lewna possibly negatively influencing her friendships”

I would never, in my entire life, look down upon someone because of a disability. I have a ton of friends now and some of them have disabilities, I have never judged anyone! This is he said / she said but anyone that knows me knows I would never judge another person unfairly or treat them differently. I was raised by kind Asian parents who taught me quiet and gentle manners, and how to treat others with respect. It's something I pride myself in! I was not raised to be judgemental let alone being outwardly judgemental. I never even judged her even in my own mind. A disability is not a curse. I had fun, we said hi, I complimented her on her dress that day and it was nice! I feel as though she's trying to make me seem evil at every single step of our small friendship just to make me look bad? She's saying me being nice, saying hi to her at PAX, hanging out with her and trying to make a friend is all RED FLAGS. This seems like a huge insecurity and projection problem, which is consistent throughout the entire doc. Also for someone who is accusing me of not accommodating her, she does a lot of accusations of me actually not having trouble making friends? Which is just completely made up. She states that me saying I've "never been very good at getting myself out there to meet people" is weird, that's the most human statement a person could EVER make.

I am neurodivergent. I have had a severe anxiety disorder since I was a kid, I would skip school for weeks at a time, I had to be homeschooled because I couldn't leave the house due to trauma and anxiety. I used to throw up at the thought of leaving the house because of this severe trauma and anxiety, I'm sure you get it by now. It was incredibly difficult for me, and to say I'm mean or that I judge her about her disability when in the same paragraph she is judging me makes zero sense. In my early adult life I wanted to put myself out there, and the experience I had with Mori did nothing but harm to my mental health and many others who had the same experience with her. I'm happy and proud of myself that I got out the other end of it as a stronger person, and I have lots of amazing friends now! I've come out of my shell a lot more and while I still struggle, I'm doing more than I ever thought I could! Mori is just being a huge bully to me.

She goes onto her next point:

"Around late September 2024 and onwards, my viewership skyrocketed, whereby I was averaging 50+ viewers (maxing at 615), something I had never experienced before. I believe looking back, that it was here that I caught Lewna's initial attention, as I was very naive at the time, and she may have believed she could use me for raids and emotional validation, knowing I would be the type of person to look up to her, being the small streamer compared to a massive one. This type of power imbalance is something I have learnt to associate with Lewna, as many look up to her and idolise her, as she averaged sometimes into 1K+ viewership at times. Of course, at the time I didn't think any of this, I was just excited someone wanted to befriend me that also shared interests. I was also incredibly new to ASMR and had no idea what I was doing at this time, so the huge viewership increase startled me."

She talks SO MUCH about idolising me when I never heard about this from her at all. It seems that she has a huge jealousy issue and was thinking about my viewer count all the time. She would always ask me how to grow her stream and my answer is "I've been doing it for years, it just comes with time".

I'll put this as bluntly as I can: No. I do not have a reason, a need, or a desire to use someone for "raids" or "emotional validation". She is larping being in a power imbalance relationship with me, while talking about her viewership "skyrocketing". She was totally fine coming to every single one of my streams to say hello for a long time. She also says that she was excited someone wanted to befriend her that also shared interests.. But before this she talked about how I was a total red flag and she was afraid of me, scared of what I would do to her. I literally just talked to her maybe a few times a week. Guys I'm going to be real with you, I don't know my viewership, average viewership etc, because I don't check. It doesn't matter to me, because what does matter is my community. The kind of person I am is a normal girl who's struggled with social anxiety and trauma, so when I started streaming as a child it was my only way to grow confidence with the help of my lovely community. That is how I am here now, trying to make friends, and I'm glad I've continued to try and do so even after Mori.

Something I've come to learn is that people come to me a lot to ask about how to be a better streamer, or grow, and more. That is not my job - despite this, I treat others kindly and am willing to help when I can! She was big into figuring out the best and fastest ways to grow and stream, and wasn't shy to ask for advice from me. Mori began doing ASMR full time after meeting me.

DarlingMori  06-Oct-24 4:59 PM

oh yeah can i ask you a streamer question?

DarlingMori  06-Oct-24 5:01 PM

oh i was just wondering do you only stream ASMR these days or variety too? i find it hard to figure out what works cause the viewership difference is massive xd

DarlingMori  06-Oct-24 5:03 PM

yeah! its really big like

i will average 20 with gaming and 150+ with asmr sometimes

like did you stream off streamlabs or?

Lewna     11-Apr-25 2:31 AM no just used the website for the widget!

DarlingMori  11-Apr-25 2:32 AM

amazing

hows the multistreaming been?

im tempted to start doing it on youtube for asmr but youtube go brrr

Lewna     11-Apr-25 2:32 AM i havent been able to find really any purchaseable custom pretty widgets for combined chat though its been nice! :3 some people have found me through there a bit confusing at first though

DarlingMori  11-Apr-25 2:33 AM hmmm ok

havent been bonked for like anything?

i dont do too heavy like earlicking n stuff but i get nervous with yt xd

ALSO

Here is another example of her larping being a victim taken directly as a screenshot from her document:

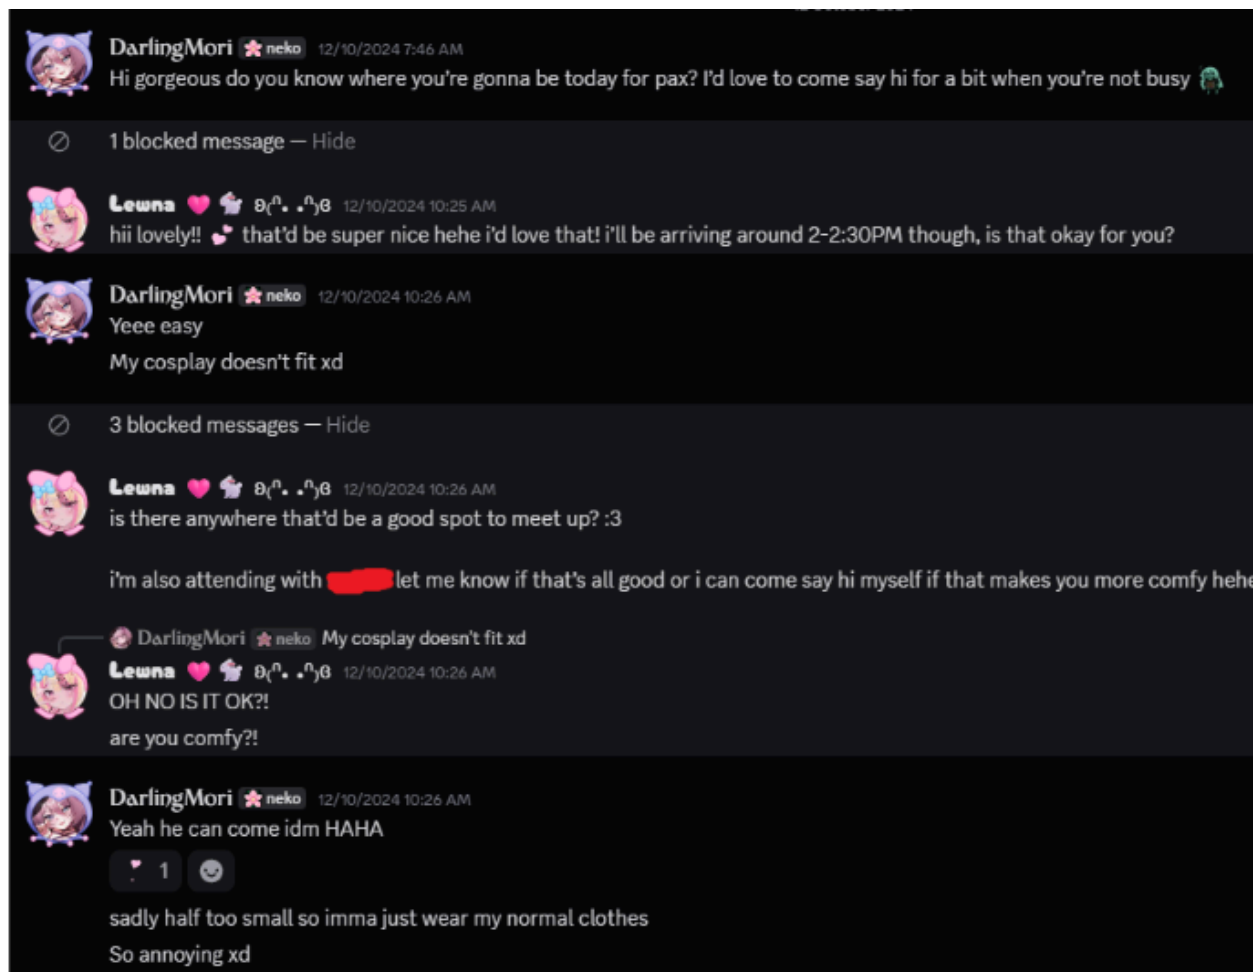

On October 6th, I ask Lewna for the first time about who she plays in League, a game I play very often to pass the time when not streaming. I thought it could be a good game to talk about and bond over, as I struggled to think of something to chat to her about. I thought it would be a good way to get to know her better and would be a neutral activity we both could have fun in without any pressure (such as not having to do a collab etc.).

I asked her below if she can share her streaming schedule, whereby I mention being unable to catch her streams often. This also shows that I barely knew her at this time, and spoke to her minimally and yet she was extremely interested in meeting me in person, which seemed a bit intense for this early. She also comments here I am “so sweet thank you for coming when you do,” being very overly flattering when I just asked when she streamed.

I called her sweet for coming to my stream. That was what I ‘did wrong’ here. I wanted to play league of legends with a girl and was nice to her. And she is judging me based on that? She seems so incredibly judgemental that I don’t even understand the points she is making most of the time.

The “intense” actions of me being “extremely interested in meeting in person” as she describes them was me saying “hehe I hope we can say hi at some point at PAX!”.

In her next screenshot here she is calling me 'gorgeous' but claims that I was somehow too forward. Mind you she was just saying how evil I was and how she was scared and in fear because meeting and saying hi at a convention was moving too fast.. That I was too intense, meanwhile in the DM's that she literally posted herself, she is the one asking me to meet, that she would love to come say hi.

I ask if my partner can say hi because I have social anxiety as well as SA trauma, and it's a public convention. She says she doesn't mind! I even offer that I can come by myself if it made her more comfortable, despite her boyfriend still attending. I am still being accommodating and kind as you can see above. She says this next:

"Lewna asked me here if I would be comfortable with her manager, Vulkin, joining her in meeting me. I felt instant pressure to agree, feeling bad to keep him waiting around for her if I declined and that she would find me rude for declining, as my boyfriend (who is also my caregiver) would be with me. I did find it really odd her manager of all people was joining her just to say hi to me in person, but I figured it was a normal thing and something VTuber managers do. I have attached a screenshot below where Vulkin himself has in his bio that he is her self-proclaimed manager, as Lewna herself has since removed this from hers in July 2026”

It is public, common knowledge that Vulkin is my partner. While he actually does Vtuber management for other vtubers, he also helps me on my end! I can't remember this far back but regardless what she is trying to say I did wrong was have someone with me to say hi at a public convention.. She said she doesn't mind and laughed about it, she is just trying to rewrite history to fit her narrative.

In her next images she provides herself, she is apparently allowed to call me pretty but when I do it it's a red flag and I must have ulterior motives..

I will now post the next segment in full because I believe it shows the full picture of the kind of person she is. She is deeply insecure and I'm so sad that I had to learn that lesson the hard way.

SEGMENT FROM HER DOCUMENT:

The above screenshots are to show proof that we had in fact met in person. Why? Because Lewna later tried to cover up our friendship on Twitter, by deleting relevant tweets associated with me (or that had me in it), likely to stab me in the back later, had I not cut her off when I did.

I find it kind of snarky of Lewna that she says I was "so pretty" when in reality I actually looked very unflattering with the specific picture she took. I do think this was intentional by Lewna to make herself look better as it is something I noticed happen repeatedly during our hangouts.

The majority of the time in the pictures she took, I looked terrible (unflattering angle that made me look heavier than I was, bad makeup etc.) meanwhile Lewna looked very flattering. I feel it was a bit malicious doing this, as had Lewna been the one to look a bit unflattering, I would have gone out of my way to help her fix her makeup etc, because that is what real friends do, but she didn't do the same to me. It's like if your friend has something stuck in their teeth and you don't tell them about it, thus embarrassing them later.

Already, in only just a month's time, you can slowly start to see the attempts of manipulation by Lewna. Such as heavily flattering me even as a lie, saying "you're so pretty and you're so good at conversing" when this wasn't really the case, making me feel compelled to return similar sentiments, being overly sweet and "chatty" to me, and slowly making me believe this was a normal thing for a friendship with someone like Lewna. I later realised in 2026, that what she was actually doing was something called conditioning.

“Conditioning is a process where a specific response from an individual becomes more frequent or predictable as a result of reinforcement, typically from a reward for the desired response.”

A good example to explain conditioning is Pavlov's experiment, a very popular reference. He rang a bell every time he would feed the dog, so that it would learn to associate the sound of the bell with food, resulting in the dog salivating (since that's what happens when food is nearby for them). By continuously repeating this pattern, the dog learnt to salivate every time the sound of a bell is heard and is thus conditioned to demonstrate this type of behaviour, leading to a conditioned salivation response.

With Lewna, she learnt that I tend to be a quite talkative individual, so she influenced me to be very chatty and emotionally dependent on her, through heavy insistence to meet in person, hangout and be very close friends, all in an incredibly short time. I would see this behaviour and believe she was genuinely interested in a friendship, and would reciprocate, under the belief it was mutual. Then, Lewna would withdraw out of the blue, but my learnt emotional dependence would remain and therefore condition me to attach my self esteem to the friendship I had with her. When she would withdraw or ignore me, my self esteem would plummet, but if she engaged it would then go up. All of this is done likely with the intention to shatter my self image and self esteem, which would then make me feel isolated. A common trait of autism is low self esteem and inability to recognise social cues, so this type of behaviour and manipulation from Lewna completely went over my head and I never picked up on it until far later.

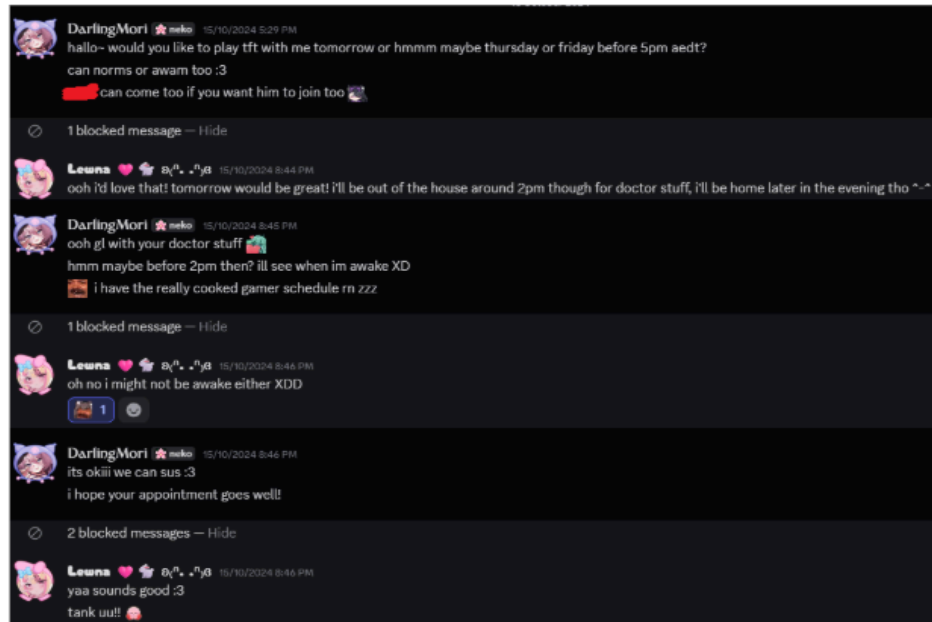

The person whose name is censored in red in these specific screenshots is Vulkin, Lewna's manager, who Lewna pressured me repeatedly into letting him join IRL hangouts and Discord calls, which led me to feel monitored (as if he was waiting for me to supposedly “mess up” somehow). Sure, I may have agreed, but being pressured into something is not consent, and is called subtle coercion. I believe Lewna did this to influence my behavior without overt force, as a sneakier way to control someone and so I wouldn't pick up on it. If you ask someone repeatedly to do something, or act heavily disappointed if they refuse and so on, you are subtly coercing someone into changing their behaviour to do what you want, especially towards someone who is prone to people-pleasing like I was.

This entire segment is EXTREMELY concerning behavior. Mori is incredibly jealous and insecure of me and is projecting it back on me throughout this entire document. She thinks photos of us together is me making her look bad and manipulating her to look less pretty so that I look more pretty!? That is absolutely ridiculous. Not to mention, SHE posted that photo on her twitter! I love supporting women and people in the Vtuber community, that isn't even a thought that could ever cross my mind. Everyone is beautiful. Her insecurity is taking over her critical thinking. Mori suggests that she would've 'fixed' my makeup had I looked unflattering. I don't see how it's appropriate to meet someone for the first time, tell someone they look unflattering and to.. then what, poke at their face?? I don't bring makeup around with me, how would that even be possible? It doesn't make sense, it was our first time meeting. She thinks me complimenting her and her conversing skills is actually me "Conditioning" her and supplies a definition. I don't have these thoughts about people. Even in the figments of my imagination would I have ever imagined a scenario like this. Us hanging out as a group of four (me and my boyfriend, her and her boyfriend) was apparently a way of Vulkan "monitoring" her, and I never pressured her into anything. I have always spoken in a kind manner and made sure people are comfortable because again, I know what it's like to feel scared. She never said anything regarding being uncomfortable, not one time. She was always happy, and enjoyed the time we spent together! There was no coercion, she thinks she is being controlled, stalked, monitored, taken advantage of by a pavlovian experiment when I was just being her friend and going on double dates. It's absolutely ridiculous and honestly a very dangerous thought process to have. It's scary. And of course if she blocks me on everything (without saying a SINGLE thing, let alone a concern about being uncomfortable) I'm going to delete IRL photos I had of us together on Twitter! Why would she want me to keep them up in the first place?? Is that not a respectable thing to do?

THE NEXT SEGMENT SHE PROVIDED ON NEXT PAGE:

I messaged her later at 1AM, as she hadn't reached out to me after her appointment and she did not reply til 7PM later the next day. It felt weird that she knew I was waiting on her and didn't bother to tell me she was busy or things had changed. Slowly over time as the weeks went by, Lewna's replies got drier and drier and I started being the one to initiate conversations, despite that she was the one to initially approach me and being interested in a friendship with me.

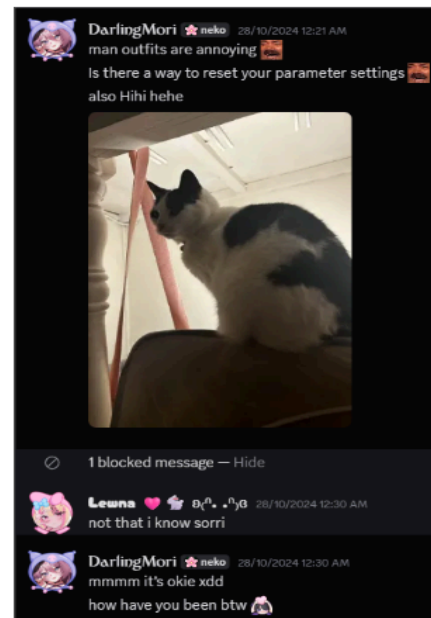

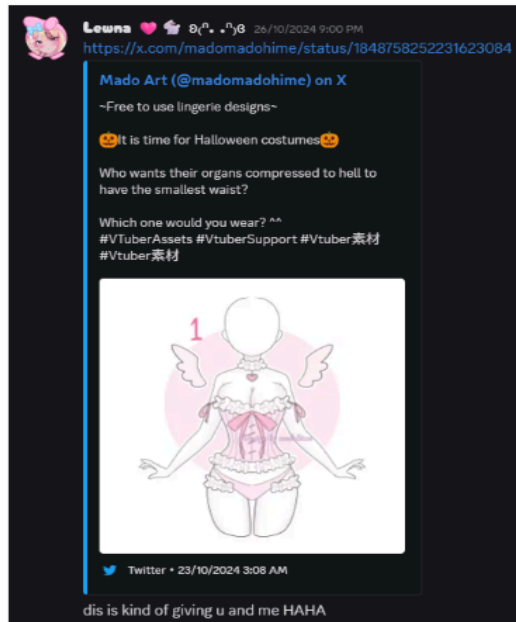

On October 20th, I took the opportunity to ask Lewna if she wanted to hang out, given she cancelled on me last time. She mentions here she would always be happy to play with me, yet regularly no-showed or cancelled on me and whilst she owes me nothing, it felt like she didn't respect my time by the constant letdowns.

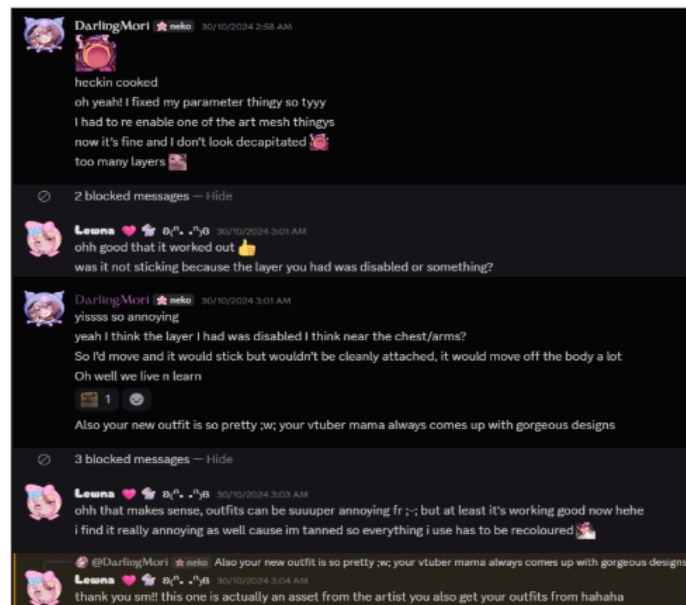

She talks a lot here about how I got "drier and drier" (btw she thought I was using her for attention and manipulation, and yet she is the one asking me to play league of legends.. Ya know.. Just NORMAL FRIEND STUFF because that's all we were) and SHE even invited my partner Vulkin. I was just going to the doctor, I had extreme pain around this time due to personal reasons and I don't owe her personal information. Because of how I was raised I was always apologetic and nice to her. These conversations she is screenshotting are legitimately just normal, average conversations between friends. I don't know why she is harassing me over this? Mori has 'cancelled' on me too, even on the morning of IRL events, but I'm not keeping track or counting.

NEXT SEGMENT

Note: She also ignores me when I ask her how she is and I start to become nervous that I am being annoying. I also notice over time she sounds very flat and disinterested in talking to me, and it feels majorly like I am talking AT her rather than WITH. Here she also exposes that she likely knew how to fix the issue I approached her about, but willingly withheld that info (for whatever reason), and refused to help

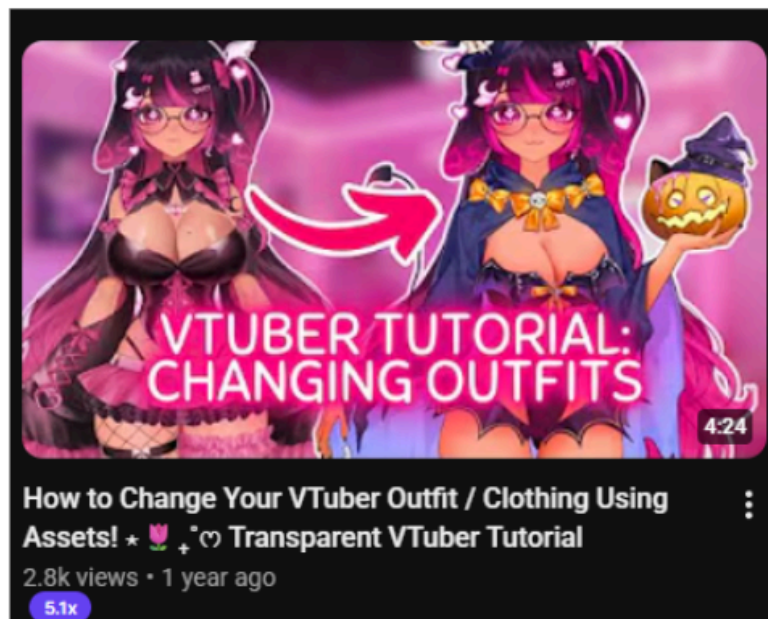

Here she continues contacting me and her insecurities take over. She is nervous she is becoming annoying, saying I sound flat and disinterested, and I am apparently withholding information. I don't know how to fix everything regarding Vtuber models - I'm an indie vtuber, a lot of the time I'm just messing with my own assets and learning. I don't understand how this document went from me reaching out and using her and lovebombing her, to her now being nervous that she is being annoying and wanting to talk to me? It just doesn't make sense or add up. I have a life too, maybe I won't reply lots a certain week, maybe I will lots when I have more time the next. It's not really fair to judge me. Mind you, that in the tutorial she displayed that I created, the solution to her problem is in it.

Also Lewna is an experienced VTuber who regularly uses body outfit assets from BOOTH, so there is no way she wouldn't know how to fix an issue of the outfit not attaching to her VTuber model, as she has repeatedly fixed these issues live on stream on occasion (she even makes a video about it on earlier that month on October 3rd) Why withhold this information from your friend, especially if you made a video about it literally the same month you have this conversation?

YouTube link: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=a8LFac0gWO0>

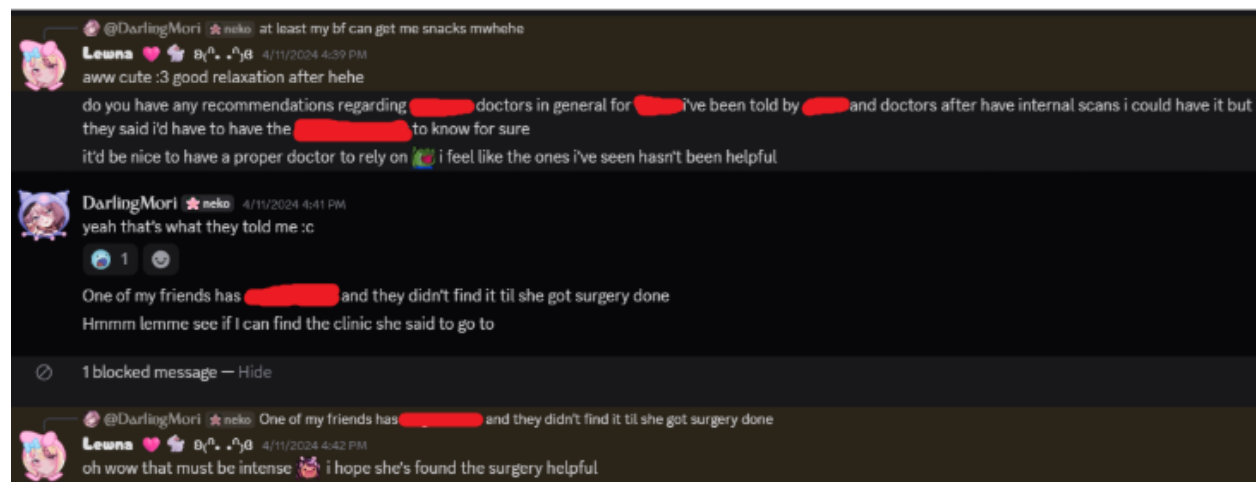

I use body assets from booth and had made a very basic tutorial, but I can't fix every single issue nor do I have all the answers. Programs update with time and things change. I'm not obligated to just do things for people. Regardless, if she had asked nicely for me to help her out instead of just expecting it, I would have done that for her, or tried! People are not mind readers! In this screenshot, I am BEING NICE and apologetic about the asset not working. I assume the error as to why the issue occurred in the first place in the screenshot. No, I did not actively think about it and withhold information.

However, she leaves out something important in her document. I link her directly to my twitter thread to help fix an issue just a bit over a week before this.

She then goes on a HUGELY invasive rant about me asking her for a clinic recommendation for women's health? Like.. I'm sorry? Why would she even post that? It's disgusting, a huge breach of privacy, and frankly WEIRD!! I feel sick and disgusted that she would publicly share me asking about.. internal scans. Mori says it's something I should've been asking my GP about.. God forbid a girl ask for doctor recommendations.

In her doc:

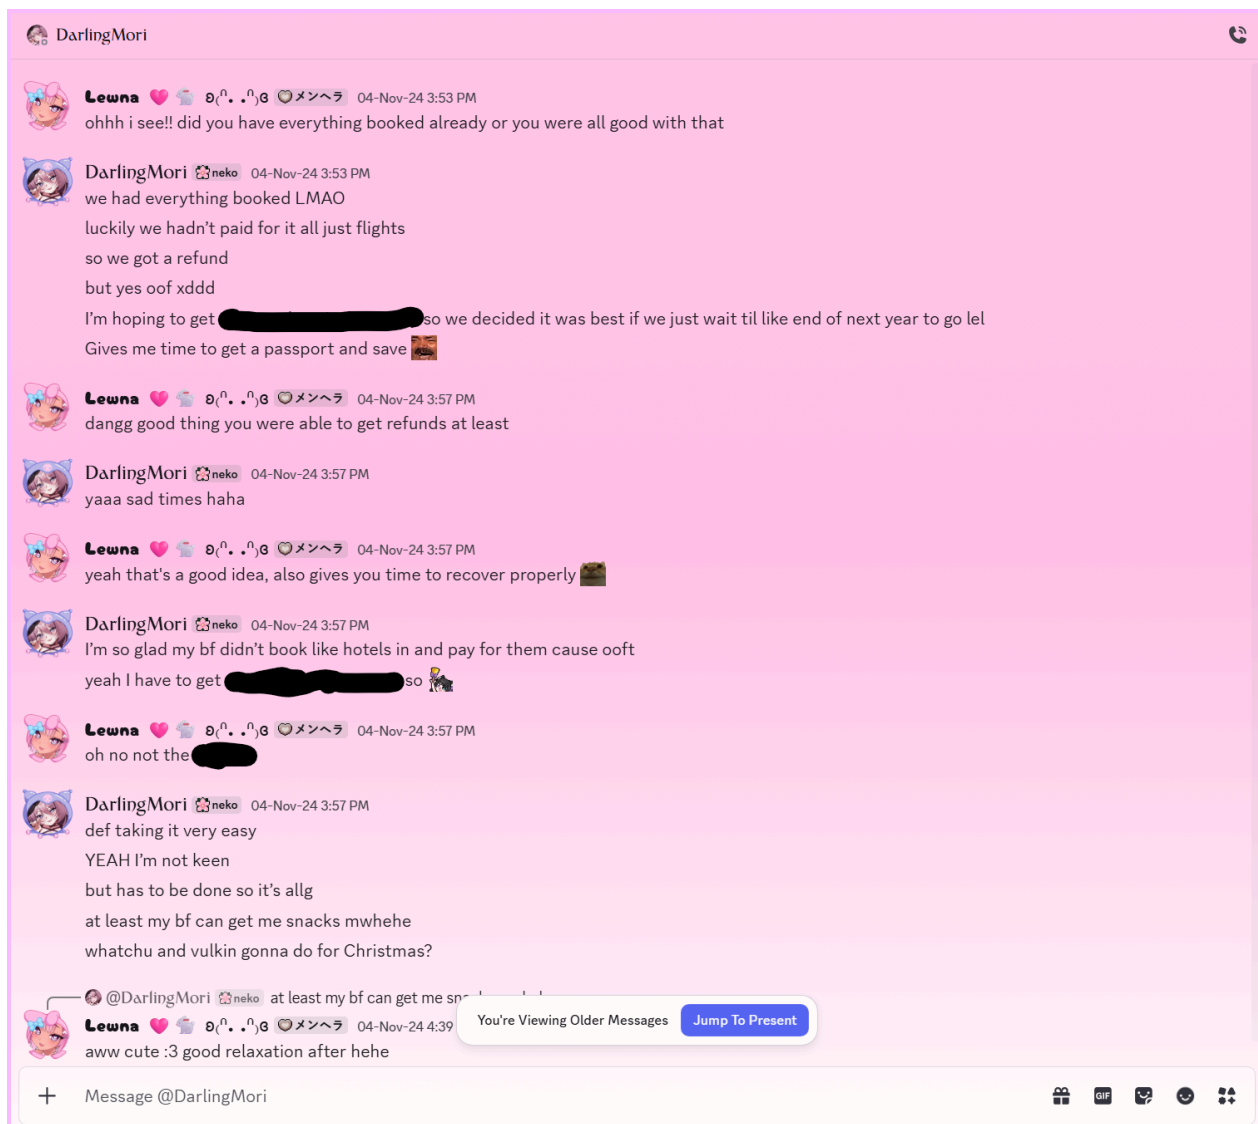

Lewna then asks me for advice on November 4th about some health things (censored for privacy), which is really inappropriate. Why? Because at the time of the above screenshot, it had been roughly a month after I met her IRL (2 since she first introduced herself to me in my Twitch stream), and she was already asking quite intrusive questions. I'm all for offering advice about health related things to people who need it, but I am also not a doctor and this was something she should've been asking her GP for advice about. I can share my experiences about conditions I have, but they are tailored to me. I have several autoimmune diseases that have caused others (aka comorbidity) and I'm not a professional. I believe she was attempting to bait me here yet again, similarly to at PAX where she may have believed I was lying about my health for sympathy/money/for clout and was fishing for evidence/"checking" me. My question here is how did she even know about it? I did discuss it vaguely on stream before but she had been in my stream for only a total of 3 times at this point. It makes me uncomfortable that Lewna just randomly talks to me about extremely personal things like my health, about things I did not previously mention to her in detail.

Disclaimer: I am in fact fully diagnosed by a professional specialist, and spent a lot of money over the last 5 years to be treated. It's extremely unfair and uncomfortable to possibly have the impression about someone that they may be faking their illnesses for clout/sympathy. Even IF I am wrong about this, why is she asking someone about their health treatments for their condition like we've been best friends for years? I had barely known her for 2 months, she was still an acquaintance here and I hardly knew anything about her. Just because I am relatively open about my health doesn't mean it's an invitation to ask odd questions about it as a fellow creator when it's not even a relevant topic at the time. I don't exactly feel comfortable talking about it in detail to people I don't know very well. But of course, due to my lack of boundaries at the time, I engaged without realising her intentions. Lewna starts a cycle around here of hot & cold behaviour which continues on for some time. This is known as breadcrumbing, which is a common form of emotional manipulation.

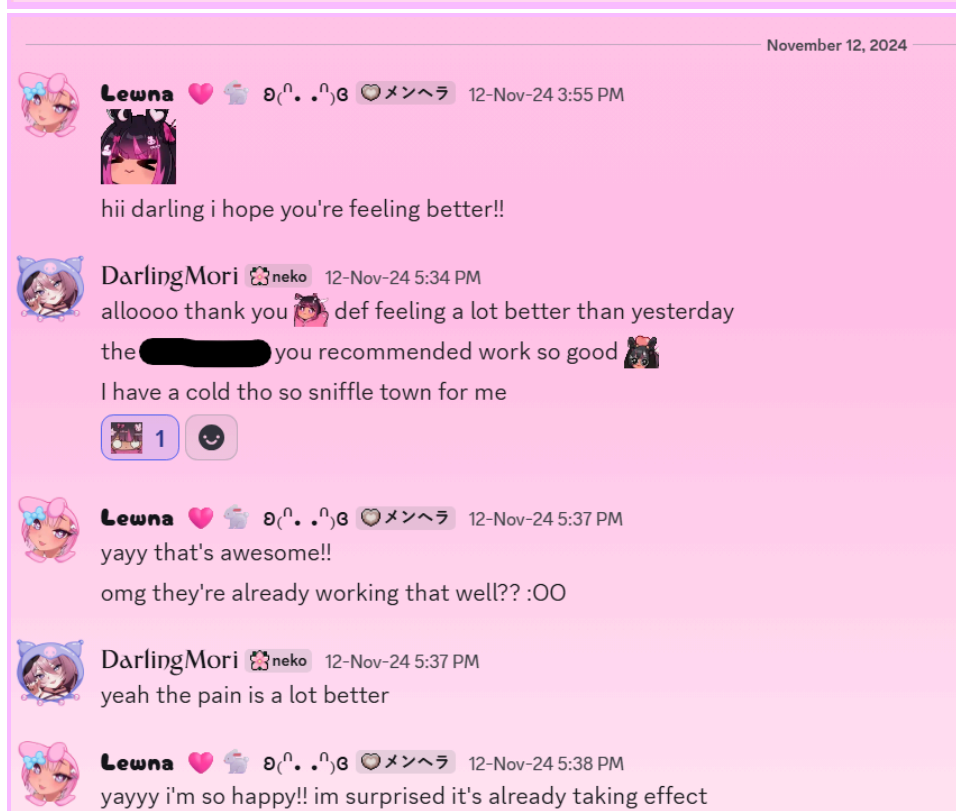

Breadcrumbing refers to the practice of giving someone just enough attention or affection to keep them interested, without any intention of fully committing to a friendship/connection.

Mori is acting like I'm sort of weirdo for asking about a recommendation for a women's health doctor when she publicly says she has these issues herself and I am struggling with it personally! One of the reasons I had spoken and asked about it is because I didn't have many people to ask? She then says that somehow.. Me asking for girly advice on how to help my own body was actually a genius way to check if she was lying about her conditions for CLOUT! An evil way to bait her, evidence check, fish for details, or more! No girl.. I just wanted help. And for her to post this and act like I'm evil for it is so gross and mean girl behavior, and she is saying I'm emotionally manipulating her?? All I did was ask for a doctor recommendation.

Mori fails to include that SHE is the one who started talking about women's health in the first place. I never brought up such a topic until she introduced it into our conversations FIRST, so what, is SHE the weirdo now? Is she acting inappropriate? NO. It's not weird to share your private medical issues with a friend. It is weird however to make that (ex) friends private medical issues public on a google doc though. Mori herself made it public what we were talking about, so I unfortunately need to share that I did not start it lol.

I am censoring medical procedures. I wish she had the respect to do that for me. She tells me about having to cancel a vacation for a procedure. SHE brings it up herself. We are on the topic of women's health because SHE brought it up, so I am talking about it. She enthusiastically answered. In response to a health issue she has and shared with me (I likely have this too which is why I'm asking lol), I asked her for advice 40 minutes after she shared her story, yet she thinks I'm at fault here.

Mori is again bringing up women's health of her own accord, thanking me for a recommendation which I give to every girl I can (it's very helpful). This is not uncomfortable behaviour.

She then says this:

I don't at the time realise Lewna's sketchy behaviour, so I slowly start to blame and question myself and my confidence slowly wanes the more I talk to Lewna one-sidedly. At the same time, I was doing a Partner Push on Twitch so my viewership was starting to skyrocket 125-170 average (see image on the right) and may possibly be where Lewna slowly started to feel threatened by me. We had only been "friends" at this time for just over 2 months.

I commented to Lewna on November 12th that I plan to go on a date with my boyfriend to a cat cafe in the city, and I suggest she go there sometime (cause I love recommending places to people). Lewna then comments she plans

I don't understand why when she is so obsessed with me being a "1k viewer average streamer" that I would somehow be threatened by her hitting a 125-170 average? She is just completely projecting this on me, I've never said anything like this or acted in a way that would show this. To be clear, I do not worry about other's viewership, I don't even look at my own! It might seem crazy to Mori, but some streamers are just honestly regular people who aren't checking their viewership often. Especially since I've been Vtubing for 6 years, doing the same old things. It's not really gonna get any higher or lower my friends. You'll notice more and more that all of these things she says has no evidence to back it up, it's just something she wants you to believe unsubstantiated. It's a lot of "possibly's" and assumptions.

She then talks in her doc about going to a cat cafe, I was going to be in the city so I asked if we could join, and she said "that sounds so cute avsvsvbbs" I don't see why she posted this. Just say you'd like it to be your personal time? Mori never felt uncomfortable being my friend, she's simply trying to make me look bad. I literally tell her it's cool if she wants to just hang out with her boyfriend. I am trying to get myself out and about more, I just wanted to explore the city, and I like cats. 🍷

I commented to Lewna on November 12th that I plan to go on a date with my boyfriend to a cat cafe in the city, and I suggest she go there sometime (cause I love recommending places to people). Lewna then comments she plans to go there on the same day (and time) I am and then asks me if she and her manager Vulkin can join again. Immediately, simply because I suggested something to her, she invited herself to my date plans, pressuring me indirectly to agree to let her and Vulkin join us. It felt as though she had planned this as well, that in reality she chose to book the same day/time after finding out my plans, then pretending like it was a happy coincidence. I wonder if I had kept my plans to myself, that she would never have suggested this. It is so weird to be inviting yourself to your friend's date within 2 months of befriending them. During this time as well, I had been the one majorly initiating conversations with Lewna and the friendship was majorly one-sided so it felt very odd and manipulative as she barely expressed interest in me besides dry responses to my DMs, to suddenly act like everything is fine. It felt like whiplash. Reminder: she initiated this friendship first, and approached me about being friends, not the other way around.

NEXT SEGMENT:

We met up IRL on November 14th, me, Lewna, my boyfriend and Vulkin. Lewna asks me how my cat reacted when I got home from the cat cafe (due to interacting with other cats) and then sends me photos of all of us. (Note: I labelled who is who). I didn't use my mobility aids to this cat cafe due to the limited walkways and worry I would be an inconvenience to Lewna if we had to change plans etc. due to my health. I felt very guilty so I forced myself to stand and walk "normally" despite the excruciating pain and flare up I experienced later.

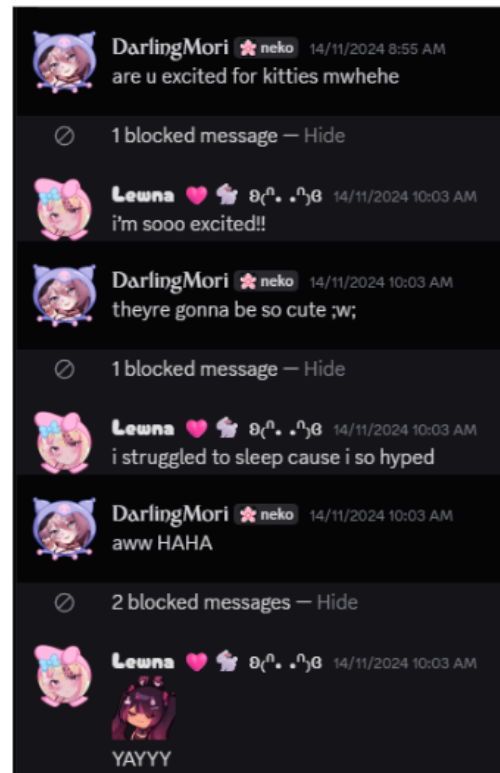

Once again you can see here in this screenshot Lewna took a very unflattering video of me and photos as well, which then made me think the first time it happened was intentional (a pattern). I am overweight due to medication side effects (taking prednisone to suppress your immune system for a prolonged period of time can cause significant weight gain due to changing your hormones). I wouldn't be surprised if this was all intentional by Lewna, to make myself look unattractive so she would look better/stand out. As if I was her 'ugly' friend, as being plus size, chronically ill and very tall (6 ft tall+) as a woman is typically seen as against the beauty standard. Why? Well I'll discuss it in more detail later but she mentioned in July 2026, that "if you meet another girl and she's jokingly flirting with you as another girl, it will help you feel more comfortable, cause it kinda means that her ego is at a level where she wants to compliment you" and that "it's lowering your ego, it makes them know that you're not jealous or gonna be weird." She also mentions "it gives girls-girl energy" (a girl who passionately supports other women) aka implying that her friends who are women that don't prove to her they aren't a threat, will be deemed "not a girl's girl" and make Lewna think they are jealous, insecure or egotistical. Of course, as you will see, I didn't pick up on this at all at the time so I blamed myself.

She tends to say any picture or video I take of her is "unflattering" and that I also do this intentionally? Her boyfriend actually took this photo, you can see him on the left! Both my hands are doing peace signs! He was asked to because he is the tallest. You just can't win with this girl. She tries to fluff up her paragraph with the issues she faces due to her disabilities, but I never have been negative about them! She is blaming me for her being overweight due to medication side effects and being insecure about it? THAT HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH ME! She is literally just adding it to act like she's a victim for some odd reason, I don't get it at all. I also don't see how the video I took of her with a cute cat is unflattering, I am literally just sitting down thinking wow what a cute moment of my friend and a cat. I only sent it to her for a personal, private, cute memory!!

She also claims I am stalking her, but she was watching a stream of mine in July 2026..(she was even watching my latest stream and judging me before dropping this google doc in the DISGUSTING BULLYING tab on the left) Months after blocking me on all platforms, then quotes it and attaches a clip. That sounds a lot like stalking (she's attached a bunch of random images and clips and calls it evidence?).. And in said clip I'm just saying an opinion - that girls who flirt with one another jokingly helps you feel more comfortable, it shows that they are a girl that supports other girls!! I simply think it's sweet, I love that for women, women that are kind to each other, and can set aside anything they may feel in their heart to compliment each other. There isn't a problem with that. I stand by that and I stand by everything I've said. I also mentioned that for men too, which she failed to include! Men that are confident to flirt with each other showcase an extreme amount of care for one another and I appreciate that! Regardless, not everyone acts this way and that's okay guys!

HER NEXT SEGMENT:

Immediately after this hangout, she went back to being extremely dry with me again, which confused me and made me feel awful about myself. As the months went by, the breadcrumbing got worse and worse, and I felt pressure that the only way for us to bond was hanging out IRL, despite how much pressure it put on my body and health (and made me flare in symptoms). She also did this on stream repeatedly (mine), where she would say hi or compliment me then leave within 2 minutes, and would show up to my streams once every 3-4 months on average, meanwhile I would support her weekly when I had free time.

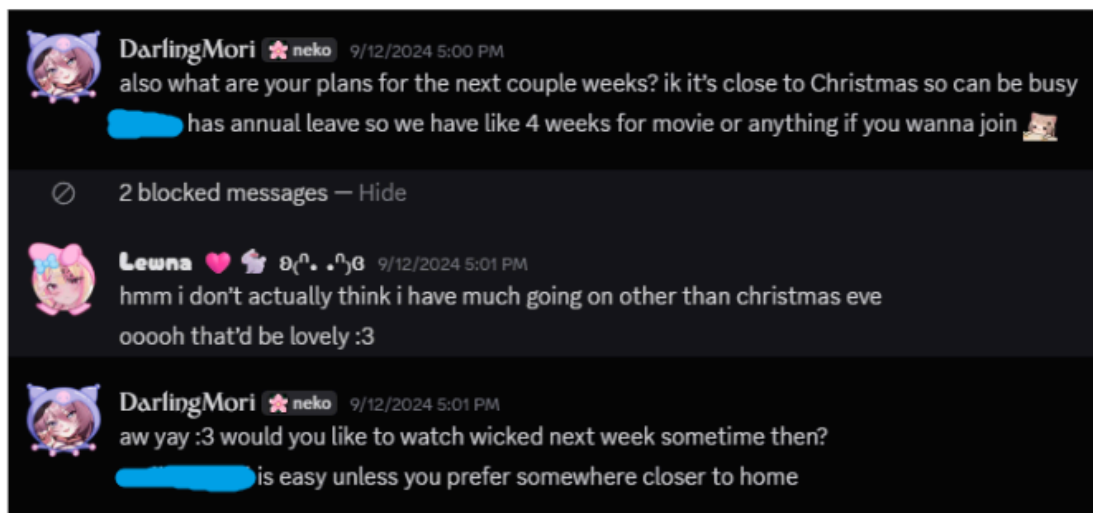

She says I was dry with her again, she is trying to micromanage our friendship and is projecting on me. Literally in the messages that she has in her doc it shows that I was having tummy problems and not feeling well. Not to mention.. this was less than 1 day apart in the messages.

She is blaming me for putting pressure on her body and health, when I didn't reply to her at 5AM! For someone who felt like I was taking advantage of her and using her for friendship or viewers.. It sure seems like she's the one who was wanting to talk to me :/

I was literally calling her sweet and hoped she had a nice stream in HER OWN SCREENSHOT? I am kind, and I will never stop being kind. I have never been the type of person to watch a stream for a long time, that's not just special to Mori.

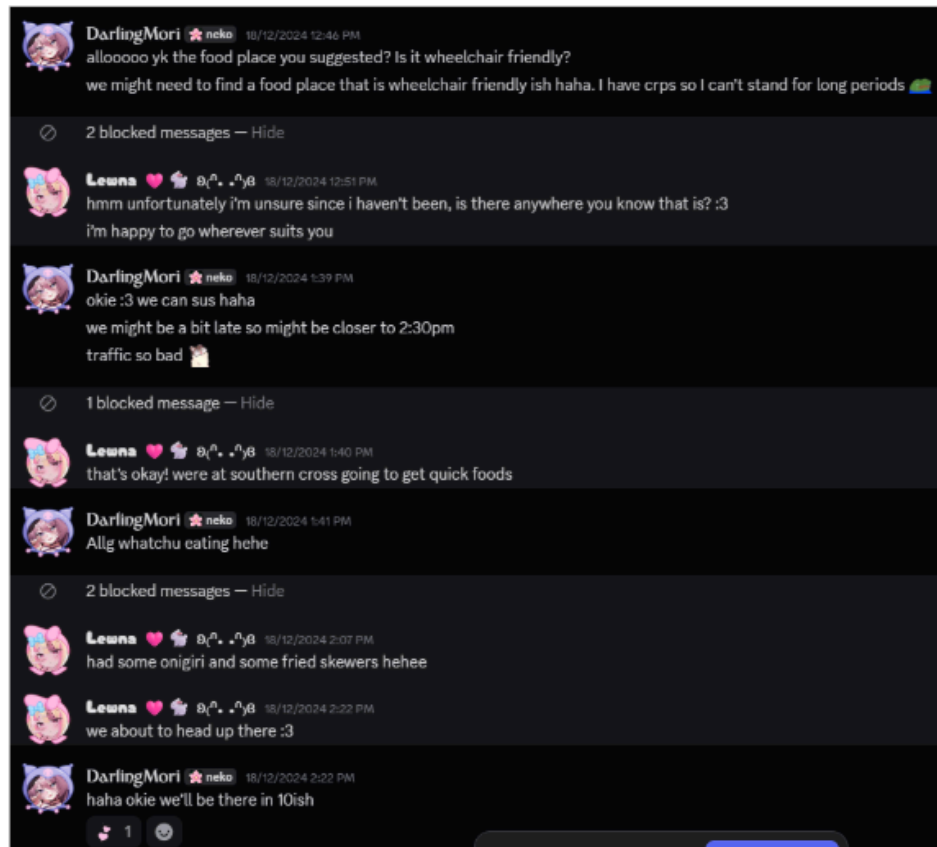

NEXT SEGMENT:

I reached out to Lewna on December 9th (besides our brief random conversations about League etc) asking if she wanted to hang out with me again and asking if she wanted to watch Wicked with me and my boyfriend. She agrees and we make plans to see Wicked and eat food together as a group of 4. This is our 3rd IRL hangout. I by this time assumed, that every time I would ask Lewna to hang out, whether it be gaming via Discord or IRL, Vulkin would always be there, which annoyed me cause I wanted to just hang out with her and be girls, but I felt as though if I communicated this, Lewna would find a way to throw it back at me.

Here she literally invites me to see Wicked with her and her boyfriend. Of course my boyfriend is going to come? What is even the point of this image or rant. Of COURSE he will be there, every time prior that we hang out with her boyfriend, my boyfriend was there too. I'm not going to assume that I'm going to 3rd wheel a movie date.. Why would she be annoyed at that? Mori was free to ask me to hang out one on one, but in her mind she thought I would be evil for.. asking for girl time. No, I would not have had an issue with that. Again, this is a nothingburger only said in an attempt to make me look bad.

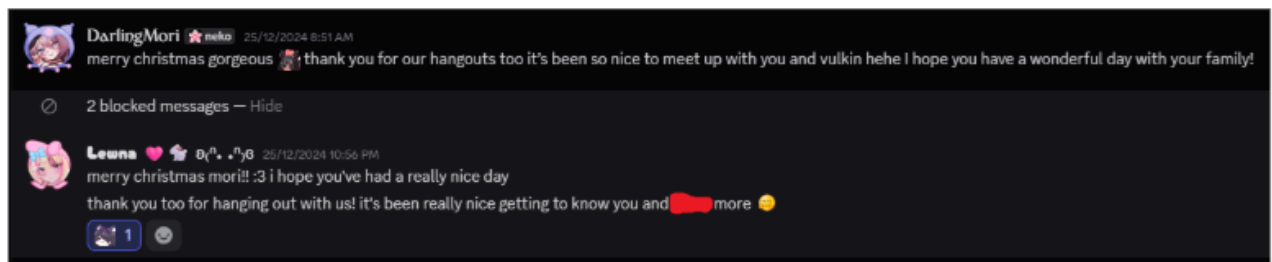

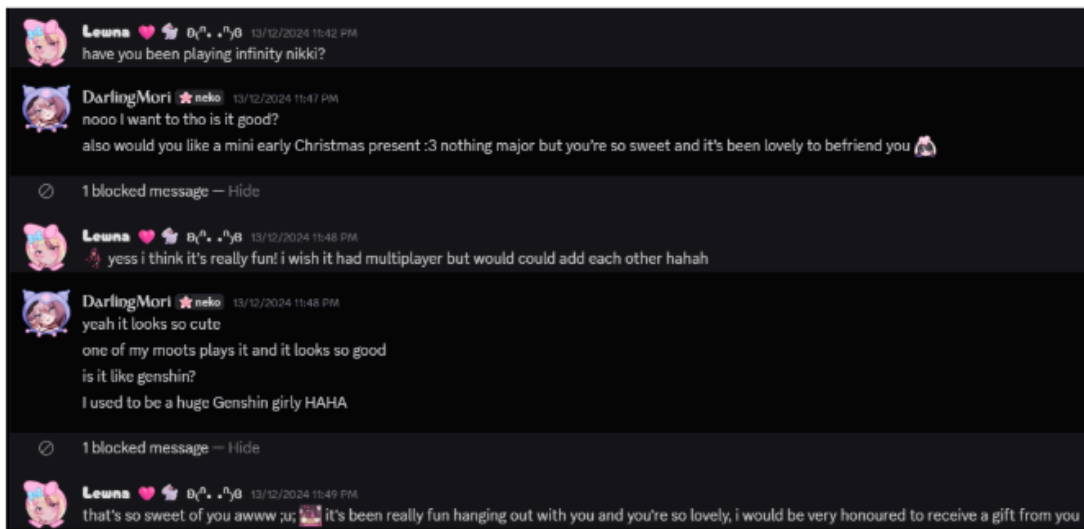

NEXT SEGMENT:

For context about why I need a wheelchair majority of the time, I found out very late in 2025, that my ankle ligament was partially torn (possibly permanently) so my left ankle is entirely unsupported when I stand and walk. Combine that with fibromyalgia and vasculitis (narrowing of blood vessels), it is excruciating for me the longer I stand or walk around. I noticed a lot during this hangout, Lewna and Vulkin would give me weird looks especially if I chose to stand or walk very briefly, when they thought I wasn't looking which made me feel judged but I convinced myself I was imagining it. Despite all this, I am still overly kind to her, despite how she would at times completely ignore me, even offering to give her a Christmas present at our last hangout.

She makes more unsubstantiated claims that we look at her weird? This is just insecurity, no we would never ever look at her strange for being in a wheelchair or walking. This is after our 4th hangout, she really expects people to believe that after meeting over 5 times we look at her funny for being in a wheelchair? Being disabled is nothing to be ashamed of, it's a core part of who some people are, and I would never judge that! :)

NEXT SEGMENT ON NEXT PAGE:

On January 2nd 2025, I show Lewna my OC design. I commissioned Artist A for a commission for a Character Design, as at the time I had been using customisable pre-made models on stream and wanted something to call my own, that could be later turned into a VTuber model. Note: This is important for later.

My previous message of "Happy New Year" is completely ignored in the below screenshots, but Lewna adores and compliments the design WIP I send her, saying she "loves the design, it's so cute and goth" so I believe everything is fine. Due to slow little bits of manipulation and weird behaviour from Lewna during this time, I start to doubt myself heavily and I become very insecure in our friendship and in myself, wondering am I being clingy or annoying etc.

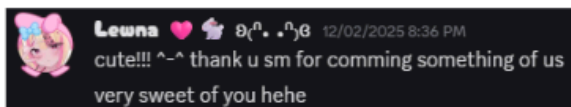

Lewna said these messages a day later, during my stream, shortly after a hang out IRL. She mentions here "wife-maxxing" a passing joke I made on her stream prior, which meant us hanging out together. I call my friends who are girls "wife" (platonicly with consent) because it's silly and meant to be funny.

I find something incredibly weird and creepy here, Lewna starts typing "am I a naughty girl," "IM SORRY I DID A BAD" because my Nightbot automodded something (I believe just capslock filters). What a really weird thing to say in your friend's chat. It's one thing to make inside jokes, it's another to be saying things like "am I naughty" in front of someone's community as a partnered streamer with such a large following. Lewna was also a VIP at the

Here she has screenshots of us talking.. As normal friends? About Genshin Impact, us telling each other Merry Christmas. Again, JUST ME BEING NICE. Mori is still ranting about how she feels she is being annoying and clingy, and its coming off more and more like an obsession with me. If you want to express your feelings, please do! I am open to having conversations! Not everything I do is awful! And no.. me saying "am i a naughty girl IM SORRY I DID A BAD" in response to nightbot hitting me with a timeout is NOT WEIRD? It's not even sexual in the slightest. I was embarrassed I triggered Nightbot and trying to make a joke. Mori brings up again that I am a "partnered streamer with such a large following". It's again just her trying to make me look bad somehow. She has an obsession with my viewer count and being a Twitch Partner as well. I've never brought up her viewer count??

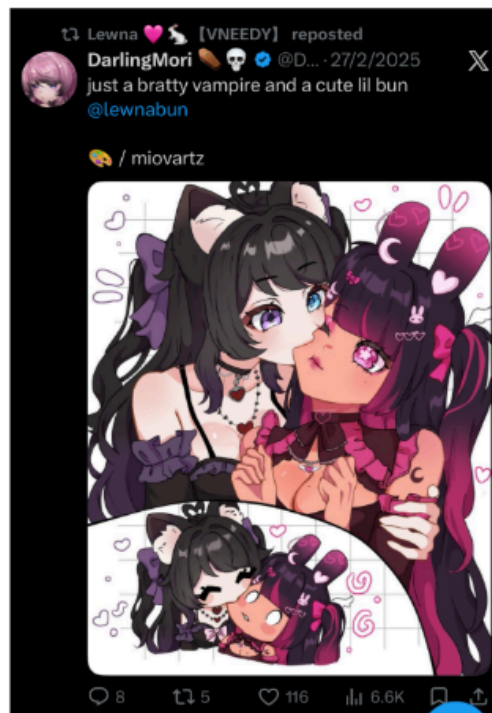

NEXT SEGMENT ON NEXT PAGE:

In February, I commented saying I finally unlocked my Twitch Partner application and am excited to finally be able to apply. Twitch Partner was a major goal of mine when it came to streaming, and I was excited to have finally "made it" as a content creator, as Twitch Partner is very difficult to achieve. I also ask her if she would be okay with getting art together and she agrees, yet never offers to pay for her half or anything and I am the one to organise it, just like our IRL plans. I assume due to this, it was normal for whoever was commissioning the art would just pay for it themselves. I mentioned it in the screenshot, but the first time I asked her about getting art together was on her stream and she was very receptive (positively) when I asked, but I wanted to check in writing in case she changed her mind, as at the time, she had mentioned she wants to get more art with people. I found out far later that usually the cost is split between all the individuals involved in the art so it was fair for everyone, so it was unfair for Lewna to never offer to reimburse me or anything. It may be my idea for sure, but Lewna is also the more experienced streamer and VTuber, and likely has gotten art with other VTubers before, so she knows the etiquette far better than I would. It's kind of her responsibility to reflect this, as she was my senior in VTubing (Lewna has been a Twitch Partner for 5 years, streaming for over 6 years).

I sent the link to Lewna prior as well for approval and she said it was cute. No attempts were made here to offer to reimburse me, and it felt very one-sided like I was commissioning fanart of her rather than a mutual art piece between two close friends (which I was given the impression it would be). She doesn't technically owe me anything, but it is polite to offer as it wasn't a gift, but I didn't know how to ask without appearing rude, or upsetting her, as she was incredibly hard to read.

On February 21st, I ask Lewna how she's going and wish her luck on her Chibi Debut, which she had posted earlier on Twitter. I commented I really liked her design cause I found it very unique and cute, and I like complimenting my friends. I believe she later used this against me in May (check May 2025 tab), despite how different our designs were. I found Lewna intimidating prior to befriendng her so I was too shy to introduce myself until she entered my stream in September 2024. Lewna had in fact been on my recommended tab on Twitch since early 2024 but I never attempted to engage with her as she had very high viewership at the time (800+) which felt terrifying for someone like me who averaged 20 viewers on a good day at the time. Also she was a BIG ASMR streamer, and for someone like me who was fairly new to the category, I was nervous to approach her so I chose not to.

Here she is upset because she ordered a commission piece of us together, I told her how sweet it was, and she is mad I didn't offer to reimburse her. Girl.. are we serious. That's NOT HOW COMMISSIONING ART TOGETHER WORKS. You don't just offer to buy it, pick an artist yourself, and expect reimbursement. I have gotten art commissions with girls before and we decide on an artist together and pay for it together. She again talks for another paragraph about how I'm a "big" Twitch streamer and she was terrified of me. I don't know why. Here is our conversation of her saying she is going to "get art of us together" and that she "got this art of our vtubers". I was appreciative and thankful in the conversation she left out. Why would she expect money for this? Again, thinks I'm a BIG ASMR streamer so we can't interact. Yet I'm able to easily be friends with everyone else who never says I'm a BIG ASMR streamer all the time. Because that's how friendship works. You shouldn't see people as numbers. Prior conversation since Mori does not provide it:

NEXT SEGMENT:

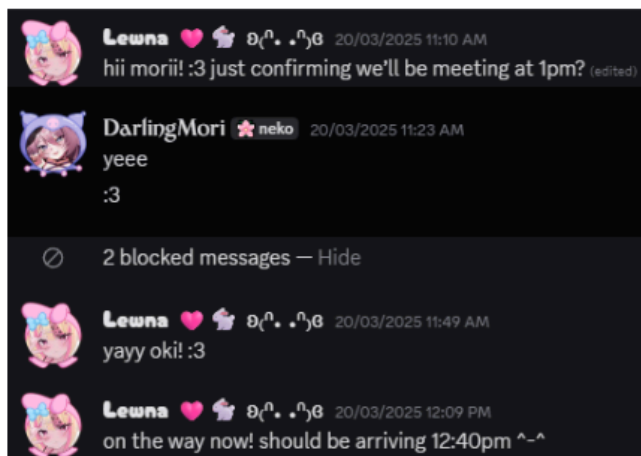

I commented during a conversation I had with Lewna on March 10th, that I gained weight from medication for my health (context: I had to cancel a hangout with Lewna due to my health after I comment I want to lose weight. I showed her a picture of myself which is where her comment stems from in the screenshot below.) It feels a bit insensitive to say to me that I look beautiful now and then, when I never implied that I felt unattractive or ugly, kind of implying Lewna possibly judged me for my appearance. Her comments felt backhanded.

I gave her a special present on March 20th, for her birthday, a Mocha Build-A-Bear plushie she had been raving about for weeks prior, that was sentimental to her. I wanted to be a good friend and get her something I knew she would like for her birthday, as well as tell her something deeply personal which I believe is the motivation to her sudden interest in being friendlier to me (meanwhile in January and February she had very hard to read), because she became far nicer to me here. This did not last however.

We make plans for another hangout on the 20th of March with me, Lewna, my boyfriend and Vulkan (again) and everything goes well. Lewna is beyond sweet to me during this period and I start to relax again and believe my previous feelings that something was off was just anxiety and me being irrational..

She sent me a photo of herself and said she wanted to lose weight, because of problems with medication weight gain. I say that it sucks and understand that women are treated differently or have insecurities with weight gain (me included) so I called her beautiful. That's what I did wrong here btw. She then says she bought me a plushy.. Okay? And she is mad that my boyfriend is coming along to a meetup with her and her boyfriend.. Okay? She then apparently starts to "relax" and thinks that maybe her previous feelings were irrational. I wish she kept that line of thinking. You'll notice that she flip flops back and forth between being anxious and irrational in her mind to “maybe im onto something..” mentality when no, she was never onto anything. I was just a kind friend.

Here is our full conversation about the matter. Yes I censored a lot to respect her health privacy. No, I was not judging Mori. Mori showed me an image where she looked different, that's it. I had no intention of a 'backhanded' comment, I simply wanted to let my friend know that since this was the first time she showed me her when she was younger and different, that she looked beautiful. I myself have struggled with weight loss and gain so I thought it was a nice thing to say. I still think it's a lovely thing to say.

NEXT SEGMENT:

Lewna DMs me on March 30th checking up on me about the situation I previously confided in her about the month prior, and repeats this throughout the week, being what I believe is a supportive friend.

In reality, she may have been fishing for sensitive information to use against me later as I trusted her, even offering to be there for me as support "whenever I need."

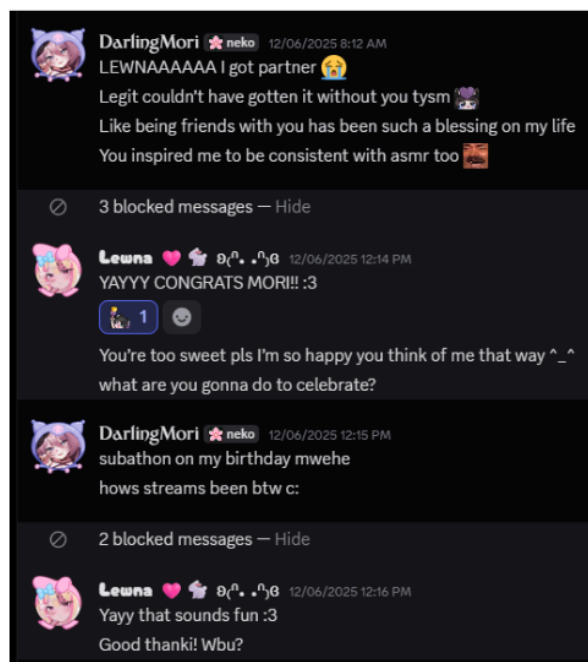

Here I was being supportive of her after she released a google doc about another creator. I told her I'm glad she was able to speak her truth and that bullying isn't okay! (mind you it was full of lies just as her current one about me is) because at the time, Mori obsessively brought up and badmouthed this creator often, and I hadn't interacted with this person in a long time. I did not want to 'take sides' or be involved as it was not my place, so I was paraphrasing what she posted, I was trying to be there for her. Mori thinks I was fishing for sensitive information, which it's obvious I am not. I am being supportive! She posted it herself and she is upset I had the audacity to offer support whenever she needed. I regret trying to be kind in this instance and trying to support Mori when she seemed like she was in need, whilst in reality she was simply spreading lies about someone. I am sorry to that kind person.

Again, for multiple more pages and it's not even worth pasting here, she complains that I was retracting myself away again. And then a friend again, and retracted again. Meanwhile this entire time I'm literally just living my life, messaging my friend when I can, and hanging out when possible. She has a deep seated anxiety and vendetta linked to me, and it's all one sided.

Emotional Manipulation & Shady Behaviour 2025

Despite the May incident, Lewna and I continued to converse via Discord but I was always the one initiating so I stopped expecting anything and just assumed this was the new normal. Lewna and I barely speak besides occasional DMs here and there, besides my birthday (July 5th) until August 21st, where I invited her to play Marvel Rivals with me later. I casually mention going to another convention but the days we go don't sync up together.

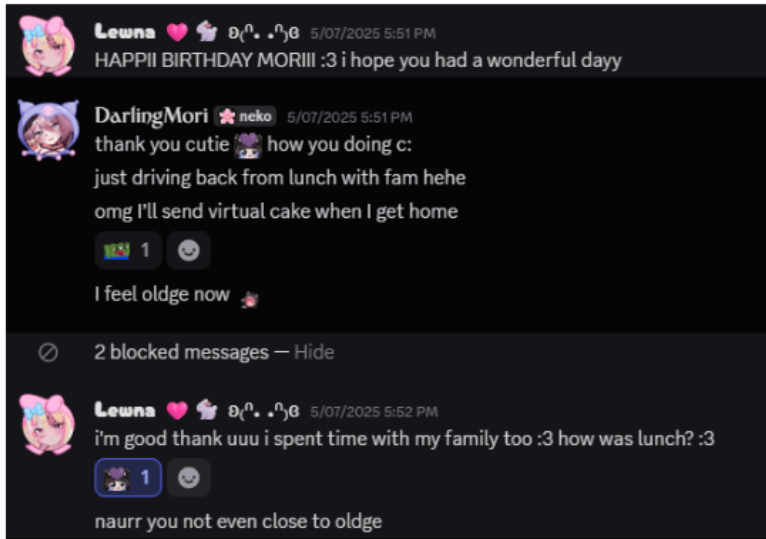

I mentioned on June 12th briefly after being asked by Lewna, that I intended to host a birthday subathon on my birthday as a dual celebration: both of my 25th birthday and of getting Twitch Partner. I managed to be successful with my Twitch Partner Application (2nd or 3rd attempt) and received the acceptance email on the same day this conversation takes place. I decided to just let her be hot & cold with me and just focus on myself instead of beating myself up for being unable to read her and her shifty behaviour. I didn't want to watch my life go by stressing about her so I chose to put myself first for once. Due to this, Lewna and I barely speak outside of the few streams I managed to catch of hers, besides a couple messages here and there.

Here she posts about.. Umm.. inviting me to play Marvel Rivals with her and going to a convention? It just feels like she is fishing for something, ANYTHING, to try and make me look bad. I am being nice in every single screenshot she posts. She is calling me shiftY for telling her "YAYYY CONGRATS MORI!!!" to her getting Partner. This is completely one sided girl, I was nothing but supportive! Mori herself adds that she couldn't have done it without me, meaning I was supportive and helpful to her. Mori says I inspired her to do consistent ASMR. She looks so irrational in all of these points, what does she mean she was "unable to read" me and "didn't want to watch her life go by stressing about" me? I literally just congratulated her about hitting Partner, that is all that happened!

She does the same thing over and over.

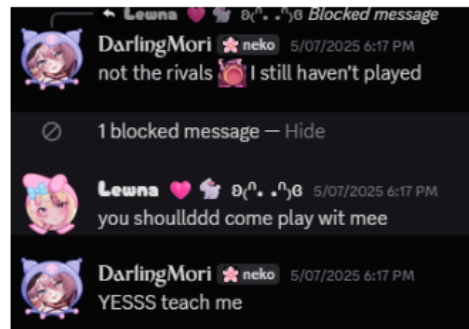

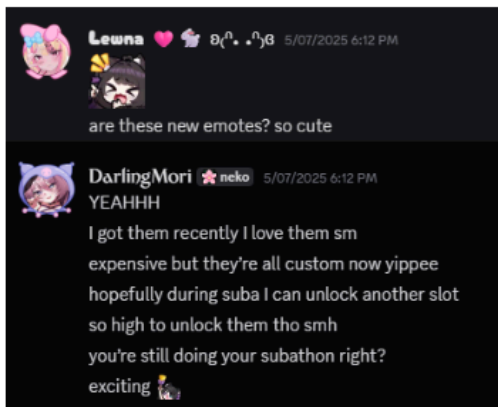

On my birthday (July 5th), Lewna messages me out of the blue being overly sweet. Throughout that conversation, it is the most talkative she has been in months and it feels like I finally have my friend back. Of course, this makes me instantly happy rather than suspicious. I thought maybe she had finally gotten over whatever issues she had with me and was reaching out again.

Throughout this conversation, Lewna is very overly flattering to me with several compliments and insisting we should play Rivals together etc. and that I start to believe maybe I completely overthought everything previously, as she for once, seemed interested in my life rather than me having a one-sided conversation with her. She even compliments my emotes and is just being very sweet in general rather than her usual coldness.

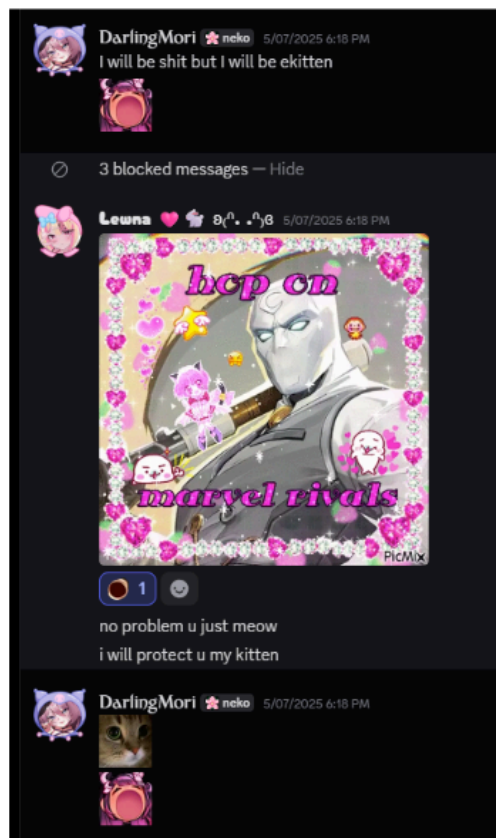

Now apparently I'm talkative and I am her friend again. And I "got over whatever issues" I had with her?? Completely made up again, I had zero issues with her. These are literally just normal conversations. Same as before and same as after. I called her cute and asked if she wanted to play video games.. She says I have a "usual coldness" I don't see that in any of these screenshots?

We added each other on steam and just yapped about Rivals to each other and everything seemed fine and normal to me. Now it's very important to mention here an odd coincidence: my subathon was due to start the next evening as I spent my actual birthday with my boyfriend, so I planned to celebrate on stream the next evening instead like I mention to her in these screenshots.

Lewna had been on hiatus from June 22nd of that year to July 6th. I at the time had no idea so I didn't question anything (until she repeated this in 2026) as I was focusing very hard on growing my stream and my own community. See next page.

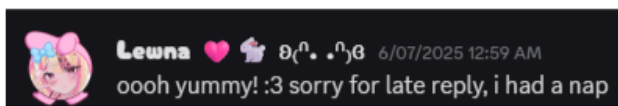

She has this in her doc, just us being normal friends, and me cracking jokes like posting a kawaii moon knight gif. Ookay. No, I don't keep track of subathons, I'm just busy. My room is a mess, my neighbours are loud, my new puppy is 9 months old, my wisdom teeth are erupting, I got things to worry about. Lock in guys xd I am always busy, trying my best!

This was the start of what I believe is very targeted “coincidences.” I have a different section that goes into this further, but for now I will just discuss everything in chronological order.

Now, it could very well just be a “coincidence,” but the next section will be entirely full of these. Lewna knew I was taking the day off prior, my actual birthday, as I was spending time with my boyfriend with what he had planned for me, as I usually hate birthdays and get bad anxiety around them so he planned a nice surprise for me. I received this DM from her later, saying that she had a nap “sorry for late reply.” It is this specific day that she plans to do a “Return stream” something she conveniently fails to mention to me too even casually, hence why I believe with the evidence below that she was intentionally attempting to contest me, as my Subathon started only 3 hours prior to her huge “return.”

Please note: at the time I didn't even know she did any of this, she did something in July 2026 that made me decide to look back due to a gut feeling, and I noticed all of this and pieced it together as it ended up being a repeat. She did this again in 2026 but I'll explain that in the “One too many coincidences” tab. One time can be a happy accident but twice in a row is a different story.

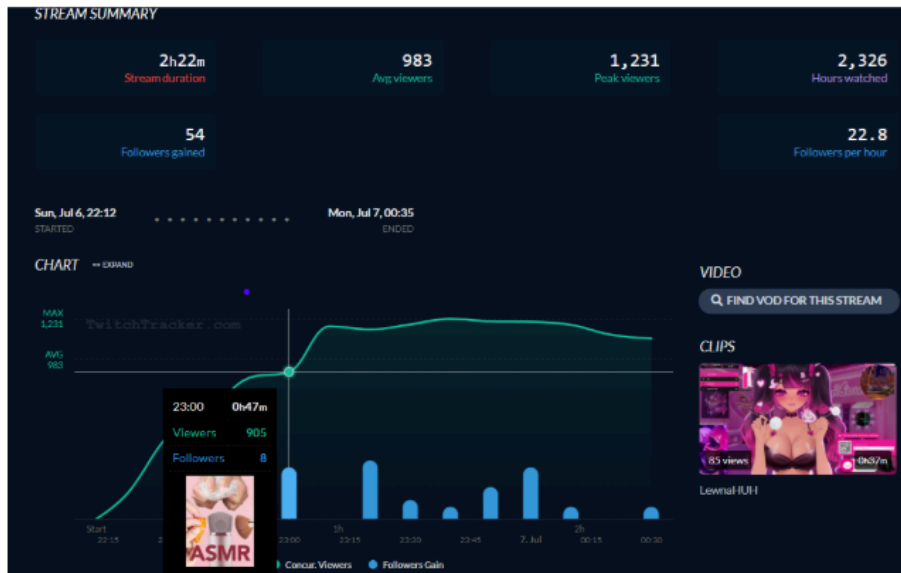

She then starts hyper analyzing my twitch tracker and streams, completely unprovoked? She thinks everything I do is a competition, just projecting that onto me. I am somehow always a mastermind and no matter what I do, it apparently HAS to be something BAD. And I just want to say this, this is the most times in my life I have seen my own twitch tracker LOL.

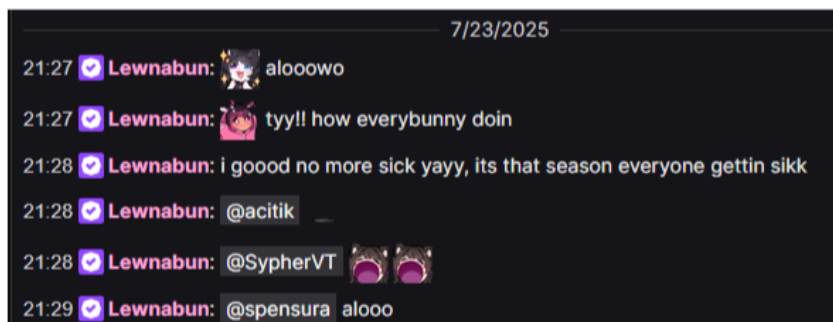

IMAGES AS FOLLOWED:

Around the start of Lewna's stream, I started losing viewers (around 70) so I ended 30 mins later, noticing this. Important mention: Lewna's typical stream schedule is Saturdays to Mondays but she chose Sunday July 6th to "return" instead of the day prior, which was within her stream schedule. Her stream schedule has been very consistent for the last minimum 2 years, so it felt very odd that she wouldn't just come back the day prior. I mean she knew very well as well I was offline, so it wouldn't be like she was contesting me if she had streamed the day prior while I was busy. Also: for clarification, if Lewna had returned to streaming July 5th when I was offline, and then streamed the 6th, I wouldn't have made the correlation that she was contesting me. It is because she did this two years in a row in the same exact way that made me realise. Lewna and I tend to share a community, roughly anywhere from 20-50% of viewers, so she knew I would lose viewers as well if she did this. You can visibly see the drop off as well. This begs the question, why not stream the week prior? Or the day prior? Or the day after? Why of all days attempt to contest me on something that was important to me while being very well aware of it? I had spoken to her about this subathon at least twice prior, as well as on my own stream repeatedly. Her only chat message for the entire month in my stream was 23rd of July as well, showing she was non-existent during one of the most important moments of my stream (subathons are huge events for Vtubers). Hence why it feels extremely intentional.

The next evening, Lewna goes live an entire hour late, 45 mins after I end my stream, and it makes me believe even more she had attempted to contest me the evening prior, by subtly sabotaging me (by going live a fair chunk of viewers would go watch her stream as she was the bigger streamer, a common issue for ASMR category, and we shared viewers). It was almost as if the day prior never happened.

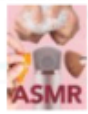

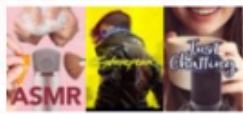

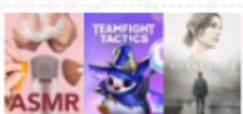

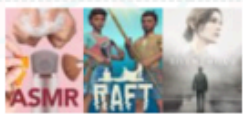

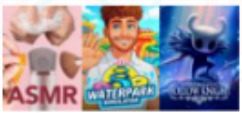

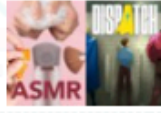

[Source: Taken off my Twitchtracker, put together in one screenshot for ease of information/visualizing purposes]

I notice throughout June and August, Lewna starts to dabble harder into "Catgirl ASMR" making me even more uncomfortable as she was a bunnygirl VTuber, and with what I believe were attempts at contesting me as well, it suggested a possible picture to me. That she was trying to do small hints of copying here and there that she could get away with, to get back at me for the May incident, as well as because my subathon was doing really well.

Disclaimer: I am aware catgirl ASMR is a popular trope. I use it myself Imao. I would never ever gatekeep something like that, because I am not that type of person. Many mutuals of mine have similar ideas to me and I am actually very happy and pleased because I think trends are cool. However I find it very suspicious that Lewna out of the blue suddenly expresses heavy interest in it, coincidentally at the same time I start gaining a LOT of traction or whenever I do events or get a lot of social attention. Lewna has already made a copying accusation against me once, as well as displaying irritation for my success (including not being very interested or supportive when I would succeed), so it felt very different coming from her. Lewna's main branding is a bunnygirl, even down to her username of LewnaBUN so it felt very odd her heavy interest in catgirl ASMR always was coincidentally timed to whenever I got heavy traction. Why not rebrand into a bunny-catgirl then and just do both regularly like I do? My growth between May and December of 2025 was a 5.5K follower increase (which is very high), as well as an average of 300CCV, which was double what I had in January-February of the same year. It is yet another very shady "coincidence." Of course, at the time, I ignored everything because it didn't seem like something to fight about and surely I was mistaken, so I kept my worries to myself.

In comparison, Lewna's follower growth started to slow and I started gaining more followers every month than she was, despite that her viewership was 3X the size of mine. It's also what makes me believe she felt threatened by this and started to copy me slowly over time, as a way to somehow prove to herself that she was the better streamer, when I never saw her as competition to begin with. She has made weird comments implying this in July 2026, so I don't find it entirely unreasonable to believe Lewna may have developed some form of jealousy or envy throughout my friendship with her. I believe Lewna saw me as a tool to boost herself (through raids and exposure as I would get good traction off Twitter) but at the same time it was a double-edged sword, she saw me as a threat to her success and feared I would eventually overtake her. We shared a portion of viewers, and I was kind of the "new shiny toy" for ASMR, I was new to the category and hadn't gotten my old model just yet, and I was growing very fast. I didn't think for a second or even consider that Lewna was competition to me, because why would I? She was my friend and I wanted to support her if anything, not contest or sabotage her, like I believe she did to me. I raided her quite a lot during weekends and would regularly support her during her subathons and events.

Guys, I am an old af streamer. I have been a streamer for 6.. Or 7 years (haha sorry) I have been a catgirl, a panda, a bunny of course, a mouse, and whatever other Vtuber Asset animal ears under the sun I could find to use because I have been a shapeshifting pink bunny Vtuber since 2020 (and in 2017, private account as I was a child) and a black/pink Jirai Kei (Japanese fashion style) Vtuber since 2023. Image above is me being a MAID CATGIRL IN 2022. It's interesting Mori thinks I'm copying her when she turned into a black and pink hair shapeshifting bunny girl who apparently likes Jirai Kei and assigns that fashion style to an OLD design despite it not being originally Jirai Kei. I have not turned into anything similar to Mori - a 'purple black goth entity emopolitan vampire backrooms grim reaper porcelain doll catgirl'. I don't own anything, please don't mistake thinking I am a gatekeeper. I have always been happy to see others with similar motifs and designs. It's simply interesting we both happen to now be Jirai Kei inspired shapeshifting black and pink coloured bunny girls, but I'm supposedly a copier. To be clear, I have no issues with anyone being anything they want, even if it's similar to me. That's awesome! However, Mori is calling me a copier, but I have no similarities to her branding and designs, whilst she does for mine.

Mori seems incredibly obsessed with numbers, metrics, the times I stream and more? She is extremely petty in this situation, boasting about how fast she was apparently growing and thinking I wanted to copy her because of it. Never once in my entire life did I copy, feel threatened, or did anything that changed my streaming career that had to do with her. Mori has a distressing ego problem and wants to grow grow grow and apparently I'm somehow the person stopping her from doing that. I have raided her many times before too and I love supporting other ASMRtists as well! I love being able to change my model all the time, being a catgirl DOES NOT MEAN I am somehow copying her and attempting to create success (which in Mori's opinion.. I already have 'success' so what would be the point in that?) I don't even want to go in depth about what times I stream.. For years, I only stream from Friday - Monday, typically late at night but consistently my stream schedule for a very long time is Sat, Sun, Mon 10PM AEDT. On occasion I stream Tuesdays and sometimes other weekdays if I miss weekend days or hit goals. This hasn't changed for a very very very long time. And it won't for the foreseeable future! I live with others and to stream ASMR the house has to be quiet, I have no intention or desire to somehow scalp viewers from her? My parents essentially control my stream schedule, not me LOL (they are quite loud). And in the first place, that isn't even how Twitch works. The person that does have an obsession with the other persons stream time and numbers.. Is Mori. I noticed that Mori would always ask me this question, 'when are you streaming', verbally and in text. I found this behaviour strange and looking back on it, quite obsessive. I've never experienced anyone asking me when I am streaming so much, ever. Honestly throughout all the vtuber friends I've had, no one has asked me that a single time. So here is a compilation of it as well as Mori asking me how to grow yet again.

These are just examples of her asking this question despite me always streaming the same 4 days every week at the same times.

NEXT SEGMENT:

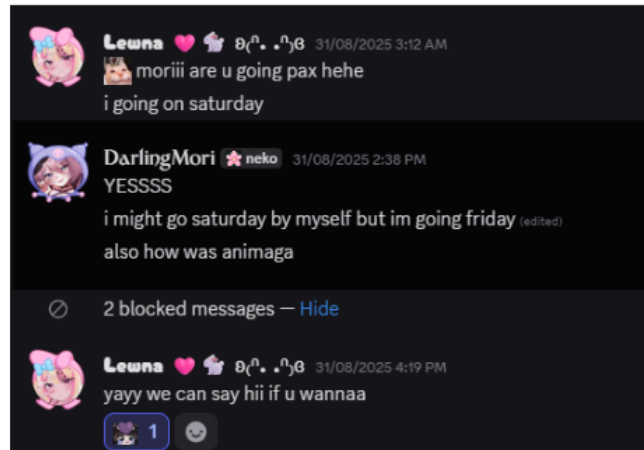

Here Mori is mad that I don't subscribe to her channel as much as she subscribes to mine. I support multiple members in my family with my very stretched income, I don't subscribe to anyone unless someone gifts me or on super rare occasions! That's not even something a Twitch streamer should ever have a gripe about either, you are NOT OWED MONEY! I made $18 AUD per hour on my BEST day this month LOL. ASMR is unfortunately a category I don't make much money in.

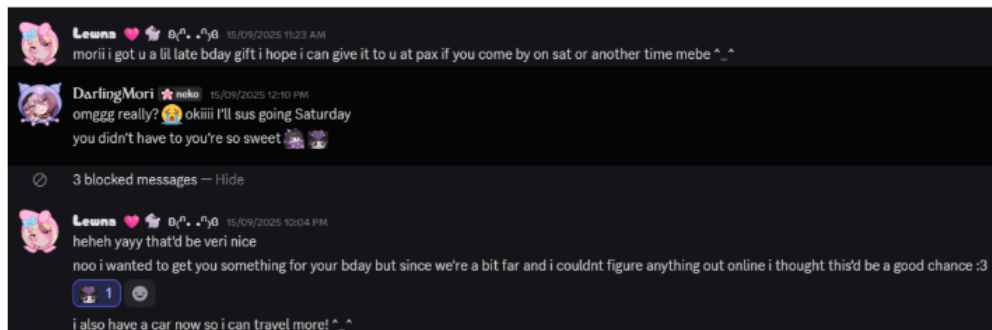

It's disheartening to see just how much of a difference was shown in our friendship: I subscribed to her channel for 15 months compared to her ONE month, which had been gifted anyways to her. I would attend her streams when I saw her on and I wasn't busy, so I could support her, yet she was barely around mine, even for important events like my birthday etc. she was never there. It shows the heavy imbalance in our friendship, as she is the same girl who initially approached me for a friendship. Yet I am the one who had to keep it from fizzling out into nothing.

In late July-August, my model started to develop quite a lot around this time, as my artist started working on the artwork for it and I was able to confirm a slot with my rigger. Lewna informs me about her Gyaru design (we will talk more about this in the 2026 section later). She chooses to hide the Nurse Catgirl design from me, being very vague saying the other design "is changing" which I again believe was intentional, as she knew I wouldn't be comfortable with the design had I seen it, especially as she knew my plans for my own debut. I will explain more about that specific design later. But it is a bit shady to not mention it, as she debuted it first (in February 2026) vs the Gyaru design that she ended up debuting in June 2026. Surely you'd show excitement to your friends right, debuts are meant to be exciting and fun as it helps develop your branding.

We do not really talk much after this until September 15th, where Lewna DMs me out of the blue saying she got me a late birthday gift.

Mind you, my birthday is July 5th, so she expressed this idea to me over 2 months later out of the blue, which looking back at it now, is oddly suspicious and sneaky of her. At the time though, I was elated about this, as I do not receive gifts often from friends and I am usually the gift giver. I felt very honored that she thought of me and felt flattered, not suspecting a

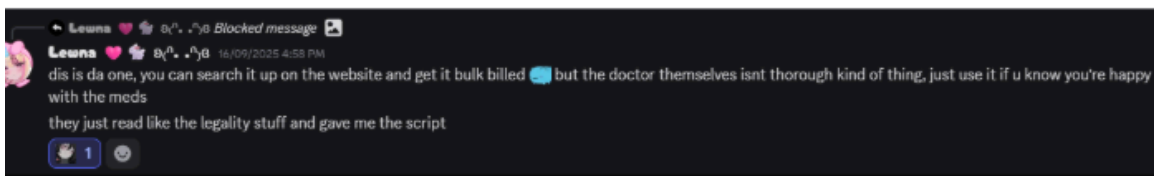

Here she says I am "intentionally" being vague for not showing her my design. We are Vtubers. You aren't owed seeing a design. Nothing about that is "shady". She is expecting me to be her perfect little puppet, she wants me to show excitement to her when I'm busy preparing my debut?? Not to mention wip delays, wip changes etc.. You don't need to show your wips all the time. Next she says that it's suspicious and sneaky that I bought a birthday gift for her and.. ITS JUST A BIRTHDAY GIFT (we hadn't met up irl until then so obviously I can't give her a gift if we haven't met up, what am I going to do mail it to her? And she was just a casual friend for me, not my BFF, I thought it was nice to get her something to give her at PAX). Mori cannot handle me being nice. Hence in the screenshot, I couldn't figure out what would be best, and still tried to organise something even after it passed.

thing. Looking back at it now though, it felt very targeted and lovebomby of her to do this, because why not ask me in July (my actual birthday month or even August?) She is also extremely insistent on meeting at PAX yet again, despite the heavy anxiety being in crowds makes me. She also knows I am physically disabled here yet is once again subtly pressuring me to meet her.

Lewna also very randomly asks me how I am doing on slinda, a medication she suggested to me months prior (check the "Friendship with Lewna" tab, specifically November 2024), which is a bit invasive to ask out of the blue. Especially given it had barely any relevance to the current conversation, which was about her wearing eye contacts when driving. She claims she "thought of me" the other day which again is a very odd thing to say so randomly, like what does that even mean? She then is a bit pushy for me to buy the medication online off a website she links, rather than where I usually get it from (the pharmacy). She did not do this at the time of the initial conversation (November 2024) so it felt really rude and pushing boundaries to be doing all of this. It felt disrespectful as well, as if she was telling me how to handle my health, for the very condition she asked for advice about almost a year prior.

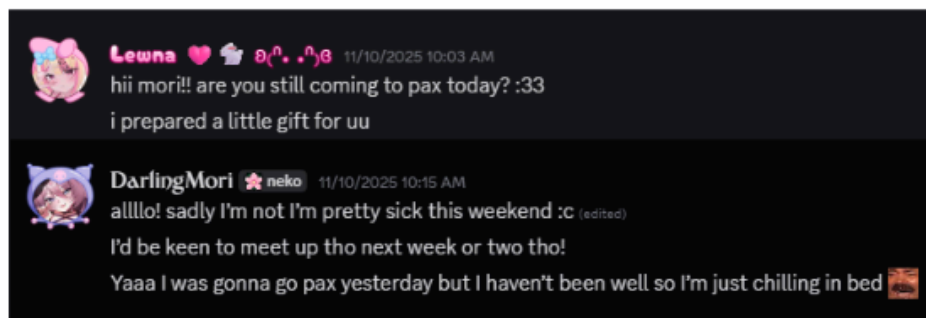

I find this very invasive because I didn't ask her for this information, and it wasn't relevant to the conversation topic on this day. I am also sensitive about my health, so it's odd that my friend would be so nosy about it, especially something as personal as my health, and pressuring me to handle it in specific ways (such as buying the medication online, when I can just go to my regular pharmacy). In our initial conversation (months prior), she had asked me about it and recommended I take the medication to help manage my symptoms so I agreed thinking it would be harmless to try. Again, Lewna continues to display a lack of

This is so strange to share. I came across a really helpful way to access medicine and tried to help a friend who's going through the same medical issue. Why are you making it a competition to have a health condition 'because you had it first'? I was wanting to check with Mori if my recommendation was helpful because people have different reactions to medication. No good deed goes unpunished lol. I explain in the screenshot that while the service was helpful, the doctors were not very thorough, so to only use them for prescriptions you know you're happy with. Buhh. She says it's 'annoying' getting her script refilled every time, so my recommendation was helpful to her. She conveniently cropped out her message directly after where she said "ooo what website", that does not sound like someone pressured into doing something. Mori leaves out the fact that she asks me for the service. I was not being pushy, I was literally just trying to recommend something I found helpful. Again, I thought of her because we both have the same health issue. I would have no problem with her trying the website or not. Don't know why she had to make it public info regarding the specific medication, again it is disgusting. I myself am censoring it.

She says I'm lovebombing for the 100th time by being nice to her. And she is upset I asked about a medication that she is taking that I recommended to her. She says me saying "I thought of you the other day" is a very odd thing to say. It means.. I thought of her. Because she was my friend? I don't see how that's confusing. Mori says I don't respect her boundaries. Mori doesn't set any boundaries. It's a simple question about a medication we both take, out of care and kindness, it's not invasive, it's helpful as women to talk about these things. However, if she was uncomfortable about that, she could simply say so and I would understand. Not everyone is open to conversations, but Mori never acted in such a way. In fact, Mori initiated them.

NEXT SEGMENT ON NEXT PAGE:

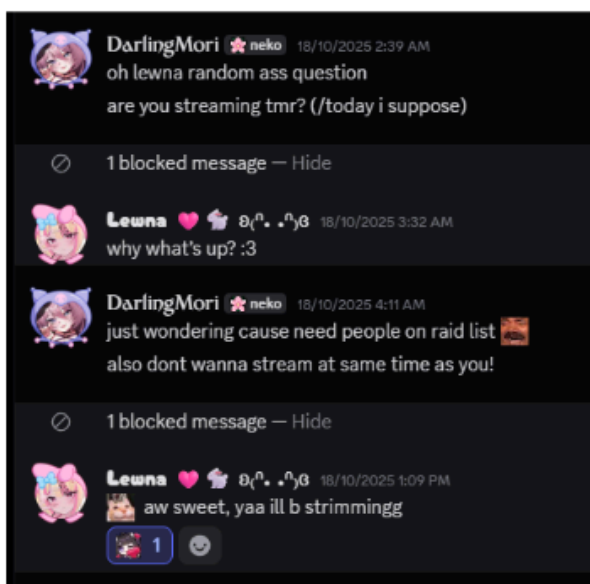

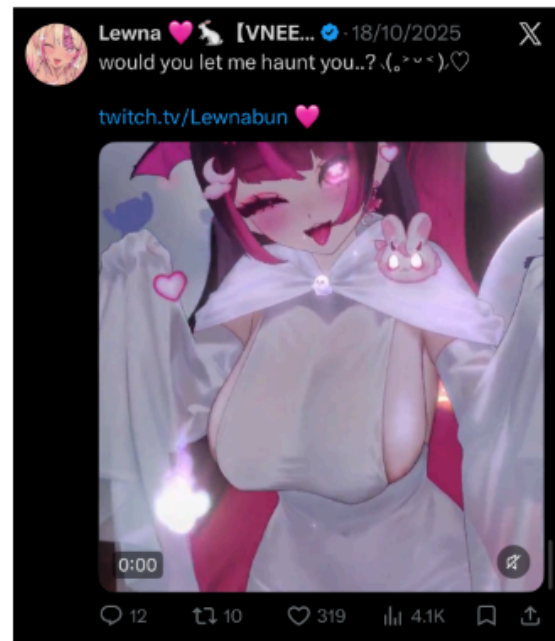

care for my personal boundaries and privacy and is incredibly nosy out of the blue about things that don't concern her. It makes me question what her intentions are, and disappointingly, shows my inability to stand up for myself back then which I am deeply ashamed of. I later asked her if she had a medication side effect like I was experiencing, as I was trying to figure out the source, and because of her constant poking me about my health, I figured it would be harmless to ask given she had asked me questions unprompted herself.

On October 11th, I cancelled going to Pax due to a health flareup, making it very painful to even lie down in bed. I believe this may have disappointed her or frustrated her, due to her guilt tripping me saying she had a gift prepared for me.

On October 18th, I DMed her asking if she's streaming later that night because I wanted to raid her, as I struggled to raid different streamers late at night. I tended to raid the same people all the time and I didn't want to be annoying doing that. Raiding into non-ASMR can be frustrating for viewers as well due to the noise level differences between both categories, so I figured to ask.

This is the very stream that Lewna ends up copying me with a ghost outfit asset I had been using earlier that month.

Disclaimer: I do not own outfit assets nor do I gate-keep them, they are public use for a reason. However, with Lewna, it felt very targeted and odd that on the day I asked to raid her, that she would use a unique Halloween/Ghost-themed outfit asset I was using, knowing I was using it every stream. She had at this point displayed several signs of “contesting me” (as in sabotaging) so I feared it was repeating. I have good reason to believe she went looking for this specific one, in order to do this, as she had a really good response from chat, and wanted to subtly tell me that whatever I did, she could do it better, and therefore make me feel inadequate to her and that she would always have a form of superiority against me, when she is meant to be my friend.

You can see on the purchase date on the above screenshot, that I bought the outfit on October 14th 2025, and had been using it all week. For context: my average CCV was the highest it had ever been, with many streams averaging 300+ CCV, sometimes without raids.

Firstly, and you can't make this shit up, I bought this asset 1 day before she did.

The Booth artist that makes these releases them and then people buy and use them for holidays. Of course I'm going to use that asset, it's a public and widely used asset. I bought it first, which makes Mori's point meaningless. It was Halloween! Every Vtuber knows assets are public and some booth creators are VERY popular. And no, it was NOT targeted. I purchased this before she even owned it. And I'm certain I have for other assets, because I don't stalk or copy Mori.

She again mentions her "300+ CCV" as if it's something I was apparently threatened by? Also to add to the medication thing.. here is a screenshot of you asking me about a medication and talking about your side effects to me.

Yeahhhhh
It's weird

My tweet: <https://x.com/DarlingMoriVT/status/1875361821802324200>

On this stream of Lewna's I immediately noticed something very odd. She was using the LizMeta customisable model, yet had recreated something similar to my outfit in a different color palette. This was my first flag that she may be intentionally copying and mimicking me, but I convinced myself I was surely crazy. Surely I was just being insecure and overthinking it. See below for yourself. On its own, it's very harmless but coming from Lewna? It did not feel harmless, it felt targeted. For a girl who accused me just under a year prior for copying her over "heart pupils," to do this felt like a major slap to the face. If I did this to her (even by accident), I'd absolutely be facing major harassment from Lewna in DMs and guilt tripping. So why would she then go and do this knowing that?

Here she accuses me again that I was “copying” her design by “recreating” it on a custom model. Girl, its a top and skirt combo that aren’t even remotely the same shape as your model. My character even has a wolf cut! Does everyone with a cute top and skirt automatically make them a copy of Mori? She says “I convinced myself I was surely crazy, surely I was just being insecure and overthinking it” Mori finally figures it out. Please stop being insecure and overthinking things, I have never in my life attempted to copy anything about her!

NEXT SEGMENT :

Looks familiar doesn't it? Oh but it's a customisable model, surely it's just a happy accident and I shouldn't overthink it. Well this is the first instance she does this with, and nowhere near the last. Lewna makes the excuse "it is Jirai Kei" as an explanation for this sudden outfit and design choice so I try to ignore it but I felt so uncomfortable and really upset at what I was seeing. It's a major difference from her last model she had and quite a large aesthetic change out of the blue.

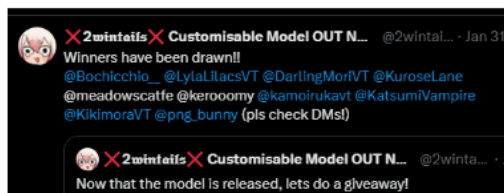

A noticeable thing to mention is that Lewna and I both entered the same giveaway for 2wintails Customisable model that week as well, yet I am the winner over Lewna, which I believe she grew resentment over. A common trend I have noticed with Lewna, is that due to being such a large account, a lot of the times she wins giveaways. It's very common for people to make the winner just the biggest account who enters. I have seen creators post about this phenomenon before, hence why large creators can get hate for entering giveaways too (as it's likely the creator will just win for being the biggest entry). This of course is not ALL the time but it is common, so I believe Lewna got upset that I was genuinely lucky and won such a major giveaway for something she really wanted, as I am half the size she is on Twitter (3.5X for Twitch following). Another reason behind this train of thought is that if I win a giveaway for something she wanted, she never congratulates me. Mutuals who entered the same one would, but Lewna? Silence.

<https://drive.google.com/drive/u/2/folders/1xZpytiXCQyd0AVo9KtJpdPTg8PkqolQ2>

I am very put off witnessing the shady behaviour, as this is the same stream she dismisses me for renewing the sub anniversary her mod gifted me with the sub gift, and I slowly start to put two and two together. I decide to give her one more chance, hoping I am mistaken and that surely, I must be wrong, I'm misreading things right?

Here she says I am apparently jealous and grew resentment that she won a giveaway "over me". First of all, that is so petty, "yet I am the winner over lewna". Are we fr. She thinks I'm shady because I didn't know she won a giveaway for a model and didn't congratulate her, well congratulations! I literally wasn't able to care, because I didn't know. One of my kind viewers bought the model for me. It's just more of her projecting.

NEXT SEGMENT:

February 2026

On February 1st, Lewna was tagged by her rigger for her ASMR model, one that had not yet debuted. I was completely blindsided by this model, as I was never told a word about it by Lewna in our entire friendship. But maybe she just wanted it to be a surprise right? Still, I felt off about it, recognising several traits in her model that resembled mine and the fact it was such a drastic aesthetic, branding and color change from her usual model.

To go from a magenta yandere bunny so suddenly, to a light pink catgirl (with blood/vamp like features) felt weird. Lewna always kept her nurse outfit a complete secret from me, mentioning she was doing Gyaru and a second "separate outfit.". I wouldn't tell her outright she can't use it but I would've poked at her and asked why the drastic change and ask for her inspirations and reasoning, as it felt similar to what I was having done for my own model.

For context, the above image was Lewna's usual model at the time, one she had only been using for just over a year. The only similar design element Lewna kept in this design was her tanned complexion and pink eyes, albeit they were still a different color and tone compared to the previous one.

With the nurse design, it was almost as if Lewna had rebranded into an entirely new person. Completely different species despite being a bunny VTuber (her name is LewnaBUN), completely opposite color palette, theme everything. As if the previous design never existed. My gut was telling me something was very off, and to reassure myself, I decided to look into it. If I found nothing, then I was just reaching and nothing to worry about! I could brush it off and tell myself to chill out. Instead, over time my feelings actually became more and more realistic and I slowly stopped feeling as if I was overreacting. Recognising a lot of design traits in this nurse model, I felt like I had seen it before so I went back into my BOOTH purchase history to find what I was looking for. I found a Nurse outfit asset that looked incredibly similar to Lewna's new model, with only a couple changes. Now I could of course be wrong about this, but it looks referenced. As if Lewna took incredibly heavy inspiration from it and just "tweaked" it a little. "Lemme copy your homework but make it look a little different so it's not obvious."

I also want to mention here that on its own Lewna's nurse design is adorable and would be so nice if not given for everything else to do with her resentment towards me, and her later behaviour. Designs can overlap at times unintentionally and it's bound to happen with how saturated VTubing is. Remember, I knew Lewna personally. She was not just a stranger or mutual, she knew things about me that many people don't including my real name (and my boyfriend's), the city/suburb I lived in, personal family stuff and my ideas and plans/goals. Mind you, I didn't know the same information back (and nor did I pressure her to do so) so it gives her a different edge knowing she has sensitive information about me.

Now at this time, I chose to unfollow Lewna and then decide due to advice from friends, to just hard block her and avoid her, as her treatment towards me in our friendship felt toxic at times and heavily one-sided, as if I was the only one keeping it together and doing all the work. I thought I deserved better so I decided to put my foot down and defend myself, by showing her I won't tolerate that behaviour anymore. I'm contributing towards the problem by continuously allowing her to mistreat me and finding excuses for her behaviour, so why not break the cycle and tell myself that I deserve a better friend than this? You shouldn't have to question a friend's motives, and if you are continuously having to ask for reassurance if everything is ok between you two, it's likely your intuition is picking up on something you aren't, for very good reason as well. My intuition has been screaming at me since I first came across Lewna on Twitch (whereby I told myself not to interact), I went against it by giving her a chance and the benefit of the doubt when I shouldn't have.

I block and ban her and decide to not back out of that decision, too many times I had forgiven her for her stone walking treatment only for it to keep happening every time I did. I felt a huge weight lifted off my shoulders, not having to worry about "Is Lewna going to be nice to me today." I of course immediately let my best friend know about it, as she had heard from me a few times about odd behaviour from Lewna that made me feel bad about myself and let me vent about how I felt. Surprisingly, this friend actually agreed with my feelings, thinking something was off, and that she never liked Lewna to begin with, so I felt motivated to keep seeing what Lewna does now she's been cut off. At the worst, I would be proven mistaken and be given proof I need to relax and not overthink it. But I had a theory that Lewna would over time prove all of this herself on her own, and that simply by focusing on myself and thriving and not giving her any ammunition/reaction, Lewna would prove all of this was not an accident.

Throughout February, Lewna slowly starts to show incidents of overlap with me, including stream bits/jokes I make, several coincidences that felt off and at times it felt like I was Mori says my design would be cute if I didn't resent her (completely made up) and accuses me of stealing the idea of being a nurse from her because one time she used a nurse asset on her stream. Nurses are very common in ASMR and a Vtuber theme in general! And my design, it's inspired by Buro from Muse Dash, not you using a customisable model and a Vtuber asset that's not your design. YOUR INSECURITY RUNS SO DEEP!!

Mori seriously thinks everything is about her to a massively unhealthy degree. She says that “If you are continuously having to ask for reassurance if everything is ok between you two, it’s likely your intuition is picking up something you aren’t”. That is literally insecurity. That is a you problem, I was always perfectly fine! She "feels" like something is off, but nothing is off, I am just living my life!

I started to dabble a lot in the Grim Reaper branding, as I intended to rebrand to a Grim Reaper Vampire "Bunny-Cat" in 2026 with my own model once it was completed. I used the SenMaku Customisable model in the meantime, which Lewna expresses heavy interest in via DMs to me.

Towards the end of October, Lewna posted about her pet being ill and possibly needing to be put down. I was immediately sympathetic and even shared my own story of pet loss to her, as a way to comfort her and show her she wasn't alone. I did my best to be reassuring and kind as I worried for her, losing a pet can be devastating, and she expressed gratitude. She makes a public post 3 days later on Twitter on the 27th about the situation, and I mention I am around if she needs a distraction (such as to play games or talk etc.) after seeing this. I even gift her two outfits on Throne she can use for her ASMR streams, hoping it could be a little “pick-me-up” for her and just be something nice.

This is something I believe Lewna has tried to cover up (by hiding her gift history, which was public until February 2026). I believe that due to me blocking her on February 3rd, she tried to cover up that I had never been friends with her, so she could claim at a later date that we were never friends and attempt to label me as a parasocial/uncomfortable viewer, and hide that we had actually been friends. I have found evidence of her deleting images on her Twitter about me or me in it, so this does support that theory. I will explain in a different section the reasoning why I decided to cross ban and block her, but if you have made it this far into this document, I am sure you can likely figure out why already. We have not yet reached the catalyst at this point however, so please keep reading. I had locked my Throne wishlist upon banning her, as I was worried she would take gift ideas from me or see my top gifters. She shortly locked hers after. I unlocked my Throne wishlist gifter history recently but the coincidence is weird.

On November 2nd, I shared a WIP of a half rendered model my artist was drawing for me, as Lewna had said back in May that she was very excited to see how my model turns out, and I also asked how she's doing, she said my design is "Very adorable."

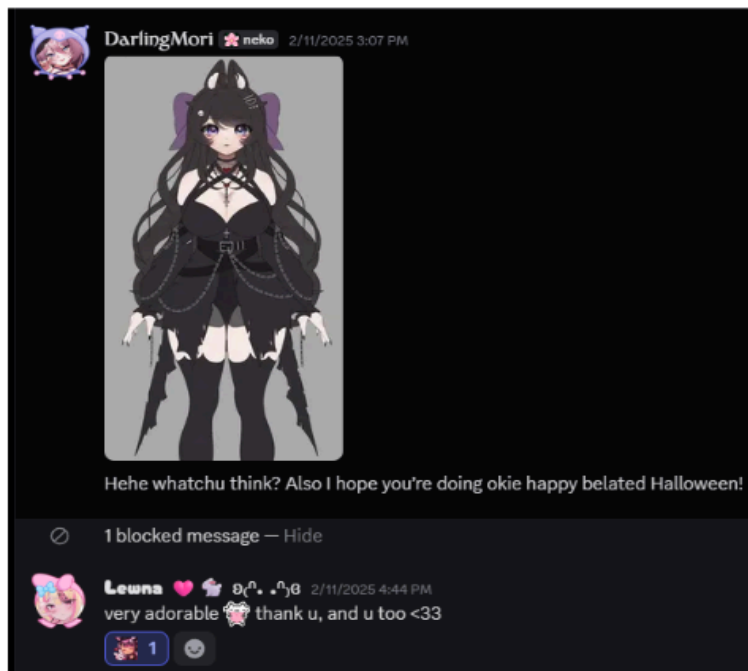

Here she accuses me of hiding my Throne history to cover up that we were friends and label her as “parasocial”. My dog literally died, and I haven’t talked about her or made a post about her until now that she randomly released a doc. Why would I, when my dog was literally dying, take time out of my day to hide my Throne gift history for the off vague chance that I could hide that she gifted me something? It’s parasocial to find great importance in the world knowing you bought me something on Throne. I was appreciative that Mori sent me a pick me up gift when my dog passed, I don’t feel any need nor see how there could be a reason to hide such things. I’m not sure why Mori felt the need to share my private, grieving messages regarding my dog who passed, it makes no sense. Looking at this now, Mori has a huge parasocial problem with me and thinks she is the most important person in my life. I really love having to revisit the time when I was at the lowest point in my life losing my best friend (not). She thinks I’m stealing not only the time she streams, but also her assets, her design, the gifts she adds to Throne, and more! It’s ridiculous! There is no coincidence here. The reason I actually hid my gifting history is because one of my friends (who gets a lot of Throne gifts) hid theirs for privacy and I was like “oh that’s a good idea” so I did it to mine. The coincidence being that we both used a feature on a website.. Also, of course I deleted pictures of Mori and I after she blocked me on every platform. I was so confused on that day, and I was like “I guess we aren’t friends anymore” and started to delete them. There was no reason for it but Mori’s own insecurity, Mori disappeared from my life 7 months ago and came back with ALL OF THIS! Also, I myself have blurred my gifters names in this doc. Mori left them out in the open for.. some reason. Unfair to them, it’s weird and cruel to display it. They have nothing to do with Mori’s strange attempt at a takedown on me.

To add:

Losing my dog Mimi was one of the worst experiences I’ve ever had. She was my best friend for most of my life, 16 years we grew up together, and the months before her passing we had many nights where she couldn’t walk and breathe. 3AM emergency vet visits, long car rides, it was hard and most of the months before and after this I was struggling. Mori takes any ounce of sadness and makes it about her, if I don’t message her it’s MY fault, when I was grieving. She complains a lot about me being “cold, distant” in the months before and after this, I lost my best friend.

NEXT SEGMENT:

My model is still majorly a catgirl but due to chat joking all the time I was a "bnnuy" I decided to add it as a toggle and be a hybrid instead. Lewna DMs me a day later, asking that since it's no longer Halloween, can she use the money I sent to her for the gifts I sent a week prior on Throne, for different outfits instead (the gifts were payout so the creator has to withdraw the money then pay for it themselves). I agreed but I asked myself why she waited so long to ask me, only to change it, and not immediately at the time that I had gifted.

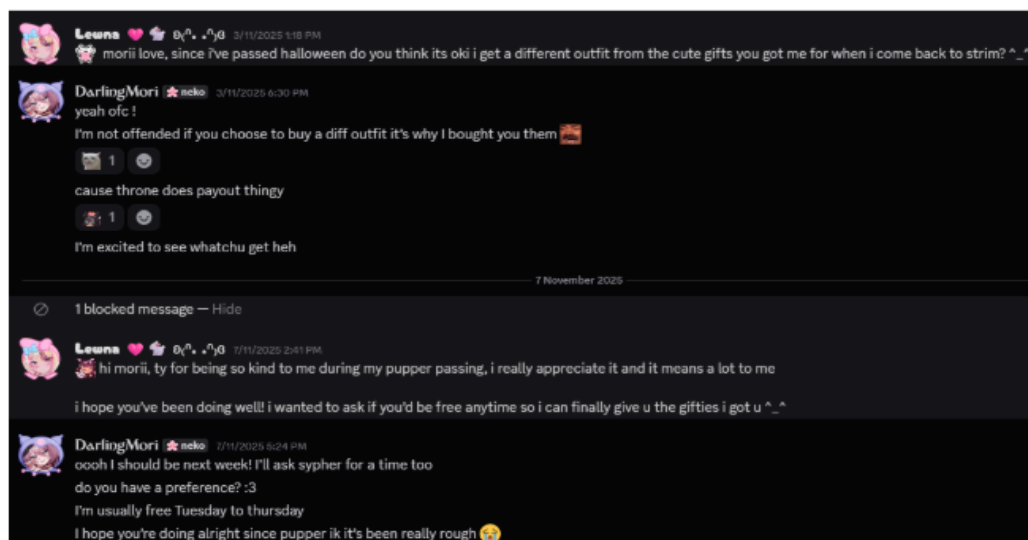

I had given it to her on October 27th but she DMs me asking for a change on November 3rd. It felt very weird that she wanted the money for something different, rather than its intended use. I thought since she had wishlisted specific outfits that she would go and buy them with the payout as intended.

She also takes the opportunity to ask me here when I am free to meet IRL for my, at this point, very very late birthday present as it is almost the end of the year.

It felt very pointless that she kept this whole late "birthday present" idea but I decided to not worry about it.

Here it's just more generic complaints. I was busy on Halloween and with my dogs passing, I obviously wasn't incredibly active, so I politely asked if I could get a different themed asset. Nothing burger. I'm literally talking about how things are delayed because of my dog's passing and she is mad that I'm getting her a late birthday gift. Also, I still had not given Mori the birthday present because she firstly told me she was going to PAX, then told me she wasn't going at 10am on the day. So I could not give Mori the present. Pls. Guys again, I am broke and was probably more broke at that time, couldn't figure out what I could do for her online accessibly, and still wanted to honour her birthday by getting her a gift, sorry it was late even though I couldn't give it to her anyway like I wanted to and tried.

I hope you have fun at pax tho!

They have a Disney store this time hehe

NEXT SEGMENT:

Lewna does the typical VTuber debut, showing off her model and then explaining her debut slides, whereby typically the streamer explains some facts about themselves, their lore, likes vs dislikes and anything else they feel like showing. I noticed immediately in Lewna's lore debut slides, that she uses the nickname "Bnuuy." I started using this nickname as an inside joke since July 2025. In fact, a viewer made fun of me during my debut stream, teasing me that I had misspelt it, as typically "bnnuy" is the more common spelling. Again, yet another "coincidence" that always seemed to happen after I do or say something within my own stream (Such as inside joke or stream bit etc.) I have never once heard Lewna refer to herself as "Bnuuy" during our entire friendship, particularly on stream, and while I am open to being mistaken, I

Mori accused me in her doc of stealing the term "bnuuy". I didn't watch her debut stream, I have been a bunny Vtuber SINCE 2017. She genuinely thinks that I watched her debut stream after she blocked me, saw someone in chat call her a "bnuuy" (she states that ACTUALLY BNNUY is the more common spelling and that I'm wrong for spelling it bnuuy, that its HER THING because she made a silly typo!)

.. Sureee bro we are larping being bunnygirls now

About

Bnuuy is an intentional misspelling of "Bunny" that has been used to comment on humorous pictures of rabbits since a viral photo showing a person replying "bnuuy" to a picture of rabbits spread online in the summer of 2020.

Origin

On April 13th, 2020, Reddit Sonat-Lai posted an image to the /r/skamtebord^[5] subreddit of a text message with PetSmart in which they sent a picture of a wild rabbit, and PetSmart replied, "Bnuuy." The post gained over 480 upvotes and 10 comments in six years (shown below).

On May 29th, 2020, a since-deleted Redditor then reposted a cropped version of the image to /r/skamteboard,^[2] garnering over 3,200 upvotes in a similar timeframe (shown below).

Myself and my community have been calling me bnuuy since even 2021, when the phrase first started. But because someone teased Mori in 2025 it MUST MEAN Mori is actually the founder of the term bnuuy and I am the one using it wrong, please get real. It's a hilarious point honestly. It's literally a staple for every bunny Vtuber to have as a nickname, no one owns it! Here are some screenshots of me and my community calling me a bnuuy dating all the way back in 2021

I have been streaming for a while!! She does this multiple times in the doc where she thinks my entire world revolves around her when it's just not true.

NEXT SEGMENT:

We decide on a movie for that Thursday (Chainsaw Man) but cannot find a time that suits us both or a good cinema, such I suggest we do something else instead and Lewna suggests Wicked Pt 2. We had met in person back in December 2024 to see Pt. 1 so it seemed like a good idea to watch the 2nd part as a group of 4 (me, my bf, Lewna and Vulkan). We however, don't commit to this plan til December, and instead decide to just get food together and visit a blind box store on this specific hangout instead. The screenshot was initially about the Chainsaw Man movie for context. I should also mention during this hangout, Lewna gives me many weird looks and attitude, especially when I'm in my wheelchair and it made me feel really uncomfortable. I felt as if I was possibly burdening her, yet the whole hangout was her idea, so I didn't understand what the issue was, and just tried to brush it off.

She then lies again, saying I was giving her weird looks in her wheelchair. This is the 6th time we were spending time together. I would never do such a thing in the first place. Why would I do it now after hanging out with her 6 times!? Completely ridiculous and a lie Mori placed on me based on her insecurities. I will say it here: I DON'T MIND. I really don't. No one is a burden for being in a wheelchair, and I never made Mori feel uncomfortable. I was always accommodating and Vulkin would even help her or call restaurants to make sure they have wheelchair accessible seating. We did everything we could and would do it for anyone! Here are some screenshots of us being accommodating to her.

 DarlingMori

Oh yeah dbox lmao

Do you just want regular seats then

Idm either way I'm pre chill

i've never tried dbox i just think its funny

 DarlingMori  neko 24-Nov-25 2:41 AM

Cool c:

 Lewna   ๑(๐. .๐)๑  メンヘラ 24-Nov-25 2:46 AM these are the seats, would you like the wheelchair accessibility seat?

if so, maybe i can book the pink and you book the purple :3

 DarlingMori  neko 24-Nov-25 2:48 AM

Oh no it's okie c: if it's just cinema regular seats are fine

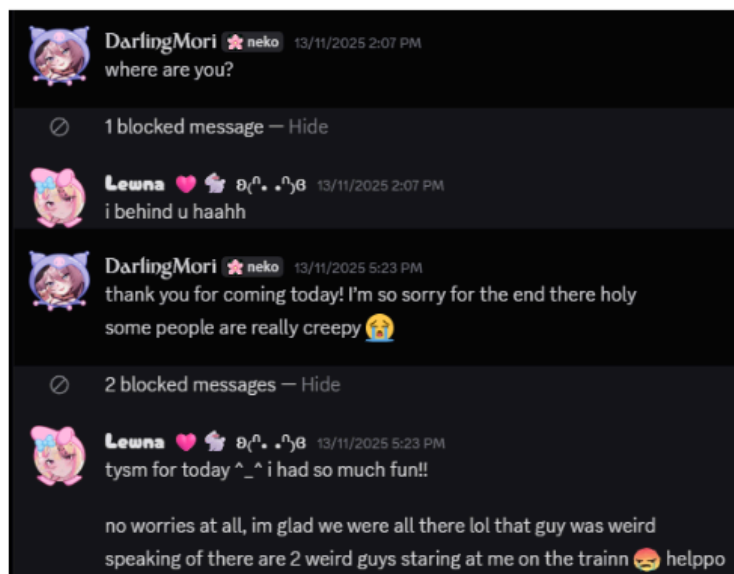

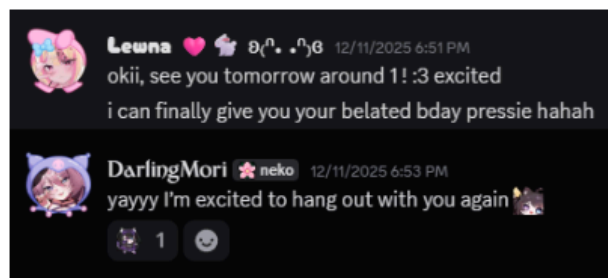

So if you wanna sit further back you can

I have a walker for cinemas usually so I just fold it

The above image shows Mori asking me on the day of a meetup that she'd like an accommodating place to eat. My boyfriend called the place while we were on the tram, on our way. I chose to make sure it'd be comfortable for her and as you can see, I say I'm happy to go wherever suits her because again it is not a problem to me.

NEXT SEGMENT:

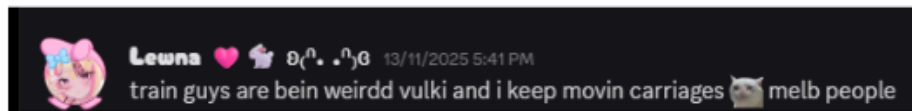

It didn't make sense because Lewna seemed so happy prior to the hangout and afterwards but I felt so off about it.

Now this specific hangout ended in a very big scare for me personally. An older guy, likely in his 30s or above, approached me after I asked Lewna if we could take photos together. I had been using my wheelchair throughout this hangout but I felt awkward at the idea of taking photos with her in said wheelchair. It felt like a huge inconvenience to her, so I decided to force myself to stand and walk with her a few metres away and take photos together somewhere with decent lighting and where she would be more comfortable. I also felt uncomfortable having my wheelchair heavily in the photo because I didn't want to face issues once I posted the photos on Twitter when I got home, such as people making mean or weird comments. I personally dislike showing my mobility aids in photos etc because I feel like it is the only thing people will talk about or mention, so I rather not subject myself to that possible level of scrutiny. However, Lewna never bothered to send me the photos we took, weirdly. At the cat cafe hangout, Lewna sent me photos of us, yet for this specific one she chose not to. I found it weird but chose not to ask, given her sketchy behaviour all day, it felt if I asked it would just irritate her. Almost as if I was walking on eggshells.

This guy had seen me stand out of the wheelchair and walk, so once we were done taking photos (me and Lewna together), he walked up to me and immediately asked me if I was lying for attention or something. He was incredibly creepy honestly, so I felt very anxious he would assault me or do something sketchy. He asked me if the wheelchair was just for show and if it was a bit for sympathy, which greatly upset me. I questioned him if he knew what an ambulatory wheelchair user was, and he nodded in understanding then hit on me instantly immediately, saying I'm stunning etc. I was terrified I was going to be sexually assaulted in public, but I tried to be nice and polite and get him to leave.

If you are not paralysed, you are typically deemed an ambulatory wheelchair user if you use a wheelchair for mobility. This is very common for people with chronic pain conditions, hypermobility like Ehlers-Danlos syndrome or POTS (all conditions that I have). I was very freaked out by this man but I tried to be polite, as a lot of people can be unknowingly ignorant and I explained myself. I felt very uncomfortable by his behaviour, as this guy was saying all of this in front of Lewna, Vulkin and my boyfriend. Vulkin was kind to step in and get the guy to back off (weirdly something that I think greatly irritated Lewna) but I felt very unsafe staying there so I went home after. This is the guy Lewna refers to as "weird" in the above screenshot. Now following this, Lewna immediately mentions she's being indirectly sexually harassed on the train by "2 weird guys staring at her." I'm immediately sympathetic and worry for her safety and comment that this must happen to her a lot, as she mentioned she takes the train sometimes, and had complained about drunk men being weird in the past to me so I was sympathetic. Taking public transport can be risky as a girl at times, so I instantly empathised, as I have had similar situations myself (back in 2020).

This is very strange of Mori to bring up. A man walked up to her asking if she was faking using her wheelchair. Vulkin noticed and walked up to him and gave him a disgusted look, and he got uncomfortable and left. She thanked him up and down for "standing up for her" which was interesting to us because he didn't really do much. It didn't irritate me at all, Vulkin was just trying to get him away from us (I was there too and it was awkward). I would never be jealous he stood up for my friend and myself, and it's weird to think that irritated me. The audacity and ego to think that I'm jealous my boyfriend got the guy to go away.. It's very strange. After it happened we told her it's disgusting for someone to treat her like that, it was a super positive moment. And she even talked about this ON STREAM positively! She talked about how she was thankful Vulkin was there. She then posts my personal gripes about people being creeps on public transport after we separate.. And it leads to her saying this:

What is interesting and greatly weirds me out, however, is 2 weeks later Lewna's story changes dramatically, which puzzled me and made me feel uncomfortable. She previously said that 2 men were staring at her and that it made her uncomfortable, but now suddenly it's 3 men who had been staring at her that day and that she and Vulkin had to keep moving to avoid them and there were a bunch of other guys as well. It confused me why her story was exaggerated suddenly and placed doubt in my head that she was telling the truth. I was completely humiliated by that man who accused me directly in front of her, Vulkin and my own boyfriend that I was a liar and using a wheelchair for fake sympathy, as well as being hit on by a creepy man in front of my own friend. I felt very odd and uncomfortable that Lewna's story kept getting exaggerated, as it felt like there was the possibility she was lying to draw attention away from what happened to me, so she would receive sympathy and attention instead. And so I wouldn't receive the support I needed during a very scary situation. I still supported her and accommodated future hangout plans, as you will see later, but I felt very off about the whole situation as Lewna never checked in on me later to ask if I was okay after what happened. Instead she just says the guy was "weird" when I was terrified at the time.

Disclaimer: Lewna has a history of repeatedly lying to me and has exaggerated about things in the past to victimise herself so I started to have doubts and distrust her. It is very similar to the story of the Boy Who Cried Wolf. The moral of the story is the more you lie, the less likely people are to believe you even if you eventually speak the truth. So while it is very possible for something like that to happen, given what has happened before, I had a little bit of doubt believing the story.

Yes, there are weirdos on public transportation. Yes, 3 men were being weird and loud, so we moved. How would that take away from her experience way prior? Mori literally says thank you in her screenshot for us protecting her. I told her straight after the weird person came up to her that I'd fight them and protect her, and did my stupid arm swinging motion like I was protecting her, and asked if she was okay. I care about people, how they feel and their safety.

I can recall that exact day on the way home (BECAUSE I WAS SCARED) - 2 men were closer towards me on an otherwise empty train, another was further back intensely staring. I did not know writing the exact number of creepy men in private DMs (being quickly sent because I was SCARED) was that important. Why is the number a worry for her and not that I was.. lowkey in danger and felt like I was in danger.

Mori is projecting. She is so insecure and wants attention so much so that me being uncomfortably stared at by men (BTW IM A JIRAI OF COURSE I GET STARED AT AND HARRASSED IT SUCKS) and them being creeps makes her jealous and she thinks I'm taking sympathy from her. Also.. this disclaimer.. I've never lied to her. I don't even know what she's talking about here, she didn't provide a single example of me actually lying lol.

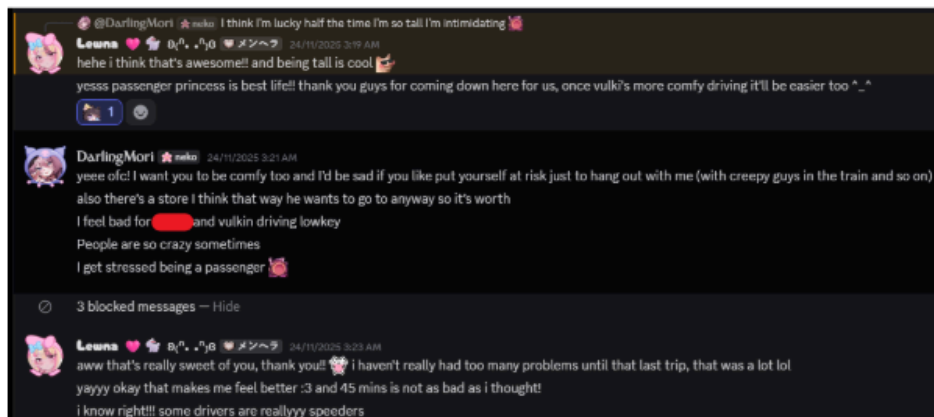

Here she does what she accuses me of doing and downplays what I experienced, saying that the 3 guys being creepy towards me is just "traumatising" but for her it's ACTUALLY traumatising that she went through something else completely unrelated? Why is she jealous and comparing bad situations? Is Mori the only one allowed to feel uncomfortable from uncomfortable situations? Why is she talking about how the Boy Who Cried Wolf is me without showing anything.. Is it because.. There is nothing to show? Because.. Lewna is not the Boy Who Cried Wolf or Pavlov's experiment?? Crazy reaches, my goodness.

AS FOLLOWS:

Wicked Part 2 Hangout late November 2025 - Dec 4th 2025

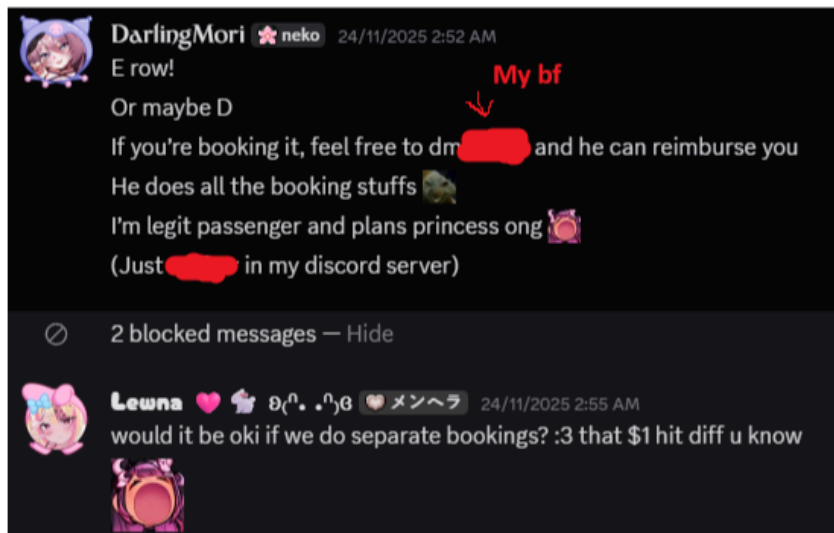

On November 24th, we discuss plans to see Wicked Pt. 2 but can't agree on a Cinema again, due to the availability (only DBox was available for the day we wanted) and I am immediately pressured into offering to go out to see Lewna as the only way for her to agree to hang out with me. Lewna refused to go to our usual meet up place (yet having no issues doing this with other friends, just me), so I felt the only way for us to actually spend time together was if I went out of my way for her again. It is interesting that Lewna says she is "traumatised" from the train incident a few weeks prior, even though I was legitimately traumatised from that creepy guy that day, and comments it's really sweet of me to be so accommodating for her, despite that I was the one with physical disabilities and health issues. You would figure she would worry about me given what I went through, but instead Lewna implies here she won't agree without me offering an alternative solution that requires me to be inconvenienced for her sake and kind of guiltig me at the same time. She doesn't Mori says she feels 'pressured' to come out to meet me, SHE offered to come to a cinema closer to me, so I accepted, it was nice of her! There were no problems, she's trying to backpedal! My partner is from the United States, and he was new to driving in this country, and I'm scared of men on the train. I was thankful. She can do nice things for people too.. I don't understand Mori's point.

offer to meet me halfway or offer another solution (such as even a virtual hangout) or any helpful solutions herself.

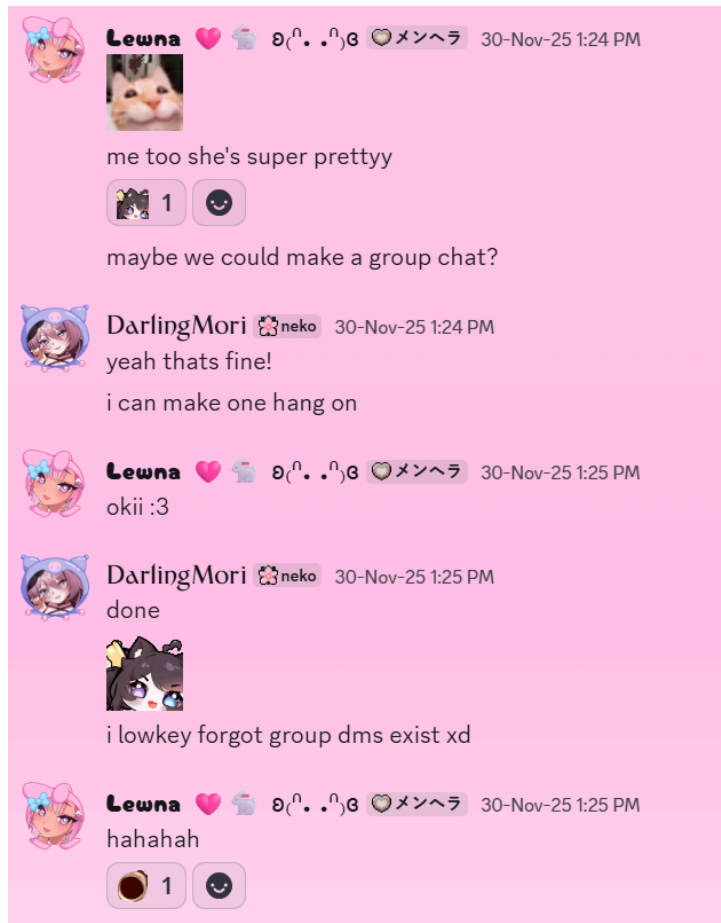

Lewna also in this conversation weirdly asks for a group chat to be made, she refuses to talk with my boyfriend (who handles the bookings on my behalf) and insists a group chat be made and comments can we make separate bookings "That $1 hit diff you know?" Discord doesn't keep logs of group chats once you either leave it or the owner who created it removes you, I believe Lewna did this in this manner to avoid a paper trail, likely plotting to deny this hangout ever occurred in future. If she was uncomfortable with talking to my boyfriend (even though she's met him many times), she could have asked Vulkin to book it with him on her behalf. Her refusal is odd to me and feels really shady, as my boyfriend is a nice guy and clearly spoken for, and she has met him repeatedly so he isn't a stranger to her. It is also weird she asked for separate bookings, given we booked on their behalf last time for Wicked Pt. 1 and she just Paypal'd me her share after. So why change now?

[Source: Booking confirmation email my boyfriend received]

After a while, Lewna and I make plans to watch Wicked Pt. 2 in our usual group of 4 for December 3rd. As you can see in the image, there are only 2 seats booked for the film, due to Lewna's insistence we book differently.

[Source below: Booking confirmation email my boyfriend received]

Mori says I “insisted” a group chat be made and that I was weird for it, yet here I am asking super casually MAYBE we could make a group chat. Cause it’s a helpful idea for everyone who’s attending, to talk lol. Mori immediately made the group chat, herself. Wut.

She accuses me of more evil activity like deleting a “paper trail” by removing them from the group and deleting it to remove all evidence. A group that.. SHE created. It’s impossible for someone who didn’t create a Discord group chat to delete it. So that is just a blatant lie.

No, you cannot delete a group chat that belongs to someone else on Discord. You can only leave a group DM or remove yourself from it.

What would denying that we went and saw a movie ever do for me? They both left the group chat after she blocked me, so I left it and since I was the last member it was deleted. We went and saw movies, why or how could that be used maliciously? Mori is so caught up in her own head that she is seeing and hearing things no one is saying or would do. She thinks I’m sketchy when literally I just wanted to save money. I’m not rich. I am allowed to book my own movie tickets to save money. Full stop. She makes another weird comment about how her boyfriend is “clearly spoken for” as if I wanted her man.. Absolutely NOT! She is so jealous and insecure she even thinks her relationship is at stake.

MORI CONVENIENTLY CROPPED OUT THE MESSAGE DIRECTLY AFTER SAYING I WANTED TO SAVE MONEY BECAUSE MY DOG PASSED AWAY. PROOF:

That is so unbelievably malicious it's disgusting.
This alone just shows her true personality.

NEXT SEGMENT:

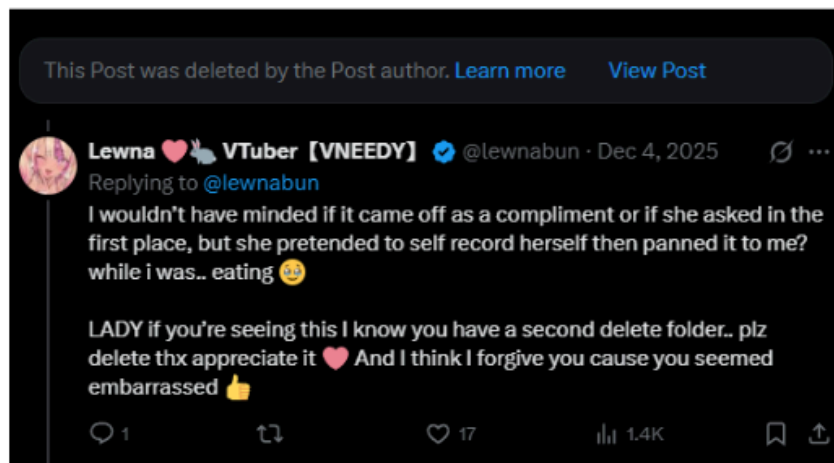

I wore quite a revealing dress on this day and noticed repeatedly throughout the day that Lewna and Vulkin were both giving me weird looks yet again when they thought I wasn't looking. It made me feel very self conscious as I am a very busty individual, and will look very suggestive no matter what I wear due to this. It also made me feel like I was being judged and objectified, and I couldn't understand where Lewna's weird attitude was coming from. This happened again later that day when a man walked up to me and asked me for directions to a specific hotel in the area. Lewna lived close by so I suggested he ask her or Vulkin (they were standing next to me) as they would know far better than I do. At the corner of my eye as this happened, I noticed Lewna glaring at me with an unhappy expression on her face, as if I was doing something wrong for simply trying to help someone else.

I had flashbacks to the previous incident in November and felt confused by her attitude, especially when it involved me receiving unwanted male attention in front of my boyfriend. I don't like random strangers approaching me in public, especially men because I don't know their intentions with me and would rather they ask my boyfriend for directions and so on instead of me. It's weird for Lewna to act so odd about this, knowing I had an incident weeks prior of sexual harassment and knowing I was uncomfortable and upset about the incident.

We got to the cinema and everything seemed fine, so we decided to get something to eat at a burger place nearby. A lady by Lewna's words, was taking pictures of her outfit and apparently sending the image to her friends on her phone, leading Lewna to confront her that she "didn't appreciate it and the least she could do is ask first." I however, didn't actually get to see what was on the phone despite sitting right next to Lewna (and would be in camera view from the lady's POV). I felt off about it as given I was sitting right next to Lewna, I would likely be in frame too of said image and given my revealing outfit could've been having photos taken of me as well without consent, but I wasn't told anything or shown anything. So I told myself maybe Lewna was telling the truth, and I empathised with her. Lewna goes on to post about this on Twitter, only to have deleted the initial post, which made me feel like something was a bit weird. You can see here Lewna is replying to herself, making her the Post author of the screenshot. This is pure speculation but given Lewna's history of lying, it made me feel like there was something shady involved: that maybe I was involved in these photos without my knowledge and consent as well but Lewna only had an issue with it when she was the one being affected. And that had she not been in the frame, she wouldn't have defended or protected me, she only cared when it was herself, and thus suggesting selfishness, as I would've been humiliated. Especially given I was right next to her when this happened (only a few inches apart).

It is odd that Lewna would also delete the post like she had something to hide, suggesting to me that she was possibly covering up our friendship so it was like I was never there. (Speaking about this in July 2026, Lewna has since deleted pictures of us together and any posts heavily involving me almost as if we never knew each other, so yes I do believe this was a cover up, as the initial tweet Lewna responded to has been deleted).

[Source: Lewna's Twitter]

Note in the above screenshot how rude and petty Lewna is, this is what I believe is her real personality, and that she's actually quite mean offline but pretends to be sweet and kind to others for her own personal gain, rather than genuinely be that way. I also believe that due to her deleting the initial tweet and hiding our public interactions, Lewna may have asked me to book the tickets separately (as well as not take photos with me) as a way to hide that we hung out together, and later claim we were never friends to begin with. I have reasons to believe Lewna was possibly plotting to cut me off and backstab me, hence why she did this, as it would be believable without evidence on my side, especially due to the May incident.

Mori says we were looking at her weird because she was wearing a revealing dress. Apparently we look at her weirdly no matter what, we would never judge or “objectify”. I had been friends with Mori for a long time at this point, why would I care if she wore a revealing dress on a double date? I can't even recall any of these situations she's talking about, because they are not real problems and I don't think weird things about people. She says I was unhappy that she helped a man with directions, she thinks I'm a supervillain or something seriously, I don't understand. Why would I be unhappy if someone helped a man with directions? That takes only 20 seconds. I don't see how I did anything wrong here, a man asked Mori for directions and truth be told, I don't get out of the house much or do well with strangers so I couldn't really help unfortunately.

Mori then downplays people taking videos of me secretly while I'm eating a burger.

A woman tried to record me, was laughing and admitted to sending it to her friends because she 'never sees that' referring to my appearance, it'd be 'seen at a convention'. Mori and her partner saw and heard what happened. I don't know why she's pretending like they didn't. She and her boyfriend even offered to help me to move to a different chair so my face could not be shown toward this person. Mori says that my “real petty personality” is me saying I wouldn't have minded if she asked to take a photo or video of me; instead of doing it while I was eating and that I am somehow mean because of this. A woman recorded me without consent, I was doing an everyday task. I'm allowed to feel uncomfortable. I'm sure no one else in the world would fault me for being upset. I even say in the tweet that I forgive the person because I'm sure it was embarrassing for them too when I caught them. I have empathy for even those that do me harm. Mori again adds, I had more plots and plans to backstab her (I haven't talked about her since the day she blocked me, nor had any plans to ever again).

Very scummy to do this if this is the case, especially after everything I have done to support her and be a good friend.

After the lady with the weird photographing incident, yet another incident happens. Vulkin finds a wood shard in his teeth from a packaging issue at the burger place and has to go find tweezers with the shops closed to pull it out, and it's a whole mess. He ends up fine, just a little annoyed, and I recommend for him to mention this to the manager of the store as it would be a safety concern so he can report it. Lewna and Vulkin have such a stressful attitude around them that I feel extremely guilty and blame myself, as the outing had been my idea to begin with and it feels like more and more bad things are constantly occurring on this day. I am extremely stressed out throughout this whole situation and all I want to do is go home. I worried Lewna would take it out on me and blame me for it too so I grovelled to make it up to them, even though it wasn't my fault, and my boyfriend and I offered to buy them food elsewhere. I felt as though I was to blame for the entire day and Lewna had a very weird vibe / "air" to her, making me feel by her attitude and tone that I was the reason for the hangout turning nightmarish.

We go to a coffee/dessert place, where my boyfriend pays for a new drink for them (offering), feeling guilty for the day and worrying about my friends being upset. He tries hard to make sure I'm well taken care of and am happy, so by extension, this naturally applies to my friends too. I believe Lewna and Vulkin took advantage of this, knowing this would happen, as I have been generous towards Lewna on multiple occasions due to our friendship. It is at this coffee place that I first see Lewna's Gyarou model, the one being drawn by mstsuu_ before she later cancelled it. I at the time didn't register that this Gyarou model may be copying my Catgirl design, due to the angle of the model and that it wasn't fully drawn or rendered (and that I hadn't seen it closely). I at the time also showed Lewna my almost finished VTuber model, and Vulkin and my boyfriend also showed us what gifts they got us for Christmas (as in my boyfriend showed them what he got me, and Vulkin showed us what he got her). Immediately, I noticed a weird tone with Lewna when he showed them what he got me, the gift I received for Christmas was rather high in value (and quite a lot of things) as my boyfriend knows I don't fare well with holidays due to not being in contact with my family, and wanted to get me something sentimental to make me feel better. I believe here was a possible indication towards Lewna's jealousy, which was even applying to my partner of all things, not being able to stand that a man would love and appreciate and take care of me the way my boyfriend does. Which is quite crazy when you think about it.

[Source: DMs with my boyfriend. Please note we are both very direct with each other due to autism hence why our messages seem a little blunt]

On this day Vulkin got stabbed from a piece of wood in his burger and had to run around a shopping center trying to buy tweezers to pry it out of his gums. It SUCKED for him. He got back once it was over and they were saying sorry and we had no attitude towards them at all. Mori is super insecure that we blame her for some reason, it was literally the restaurant's fault. We said it's no worries, and I didn't really care because we got the meal free because of it, I was just worried about Vulkin. She then says that we somehow KNEW her boyfriend would offer Vulkin a drink after he was bleeding out of his mouth, and that we somehow knew this and took advantage of it. I'm not a fortune teller, how would I know her boyfriend would offer my boyfriend a drink because he went through a shitty situation? We were asking, 'are you sure?', that it was really kind of him, he didn't have to do that. She then projects on me saying that I was jealous that her boyfriend bought her gifts, (the amazing digital circus merch, I've never even watched it) and that I am "not able to stand that a man would love and appreciate and take care of her the way her boyfriend does" and follows it up with "which is quite crazy when you think about it". Yes. It is crazy. What MORI is saying is crazy. I don't watch the amazing digital circus. Why would I think her boyfriend getting her merch is soooo amazing and im sooo jealous of a man that loves and appreciates her? My boyfriend got me an 1/6th scale Rurudo anime figure, (he worked super hard for it, saved up for it, I am not trying to show off. So much thought and love was put into it and I love it! It was my dream figure!) I am not jealous of her or her boyfriend! My boyfriend is amazing and I'm incredibly lucky to have him and any gifts he gives me. Such a strange thing to say girl!! Here is a conversation of Mori wanting the gift my boyfriend got me btw after I got it.. Mori has asked what keyboard I have on my stream in an attempt to get one, has asked what artists I commission and commissions them. Mori consistently shows that she wants what I have. Not a problem on my end, I am not a gatekeeper as you can see in the pics below! But it shows she is not truthful at all - painting me as a stalker copycat when she consistently wants what I have. She has told me she wants twintails and an artstyle like mine, my keyboard, figure, face masks, emotes and specific artists, etc.

NEXT SEGMENT:

That very day as well, I asked my boyfriend a few days prior, if he could help me get some plushies from Miniso as a Christmas present for them, since we would be meeting them later. My boyfriend and I receive nothing in return whatsoever, and it rubs me the wrong way as she had given us a gift the year prior and in combination with the "That $1 hit diff yk?" comment, I felt like I was possibly being used, as she knew I would get her a gift due to my habit of doing so. These plushies were $40 or more each, so it is kind of saddening to see I was taken advantage of so easily by Lewna, as my boyfriend pays for me (his choice) and tries to make my friends happy so I'M happy. Combining this with her weird treatment towards me, made me feel miserable after the hangout when I got home, as I felt like I had done something wrong.

Twitch Recaps 2025

I'm a little put off by the entire incident but I try to just focus on my stream and life plans. Lewna and I DM a bit and I comment that she came up in my viewer recap for the year. I don't watch a whole lot of streamers but I felt happy my friend came up in my top watched streams. This also shows just how regular of her stream I was, given I am a streamer myself and the difference that would show shortly after. Already I noticed how odd it was that Vulkan had more watch time from Lewna than I did and he was just her manager, and that her rerun channel had more hours watched than my stream. In this recap, it also shows Lewna had watched Vulkan for 10x the time she ever spent supporting me despite that he barely streams himself. This is being mentioned because there was an imbalance in our friendship as well as majority being one-sided, I tended to be the more generous and caring one in our friendship and rarely experienced reciprocation from Lewna, she was never there to support me for major moments of my stream/life (such as birthday, subathon, special events, cheering me on for Here she again, with zero evidence, says I took advantage of her by somehow knowing that her boyfriend would buy us plushies? No, I didn't know. I don't have much money, she keeps bringing up quotes of me being poor as if she is poor shaming me?? I was struggling with money because I spent thousands on my dog's medical care directly before her passing, hoping I could save her. Also SHE TOLD ME THEY GAVE ME THOSE PLUSHIES because my dog passed and I was having a hard time!

I STILL BOUGHT HER GIFTS.

Mori consistently asked me to show her my Twitch recap which I thought was weird. Looking back on it, I think Mori wanted to know if I watched her as much as she watched me. Additionally, why did Mori block out the people she's watched and not the people in mine? Are you serious? She is then mad that I watch my boyfriends stream 10x more than her stream.

milestones). She only did the bare minimum she could get away with while I had to pick up the extra weight to make this friendship work.

Lewna's excuse for this is that she "doesn't watch Twitch," even though she is a TWITCH streamer herself, something I should've picked up on was a potential red flag. Even though I don't watch streams too often outside of my own, I still raid people and say hi to them and network with other creators, so it's a bit weird that Lewna is kind of suggesting that she barely has other creator friends. She has a higher watchtime here on her "Rerun" channel than her own supposed close friend. Lewna is so sweet and nice though so why wouldn't she have lots of creator friends, when she's successful and seems to be very caring?

December 12th 2025

Moving on, on December 12th, I ask Lewna if she wants to game again and also ask her how her model commission is going, remembering she told me a week prior she was having problems with the artist ghosting her. I should've noticed at the time as well just how similar her model was to my catgirl one, but despite feeling how familiar the design looked, I didn't think to question it much at the time, as I was also busy with my own model commission and streams and just life and holiday planning in general. In this conversation, Lewna makes the odd comment "tyy you for asking and being sweet tho <3" because I asked her how her model commission was going, and feeling bad for her for being ghosted. I have been ghosted repeatedly by artists in the past and have heard it's a common issue for VTubers to have deadlines missed and not respected. Given the heavy design similarities (I will go into this more in the Gyarū Design section) Lewna may have said this as a way to mock me

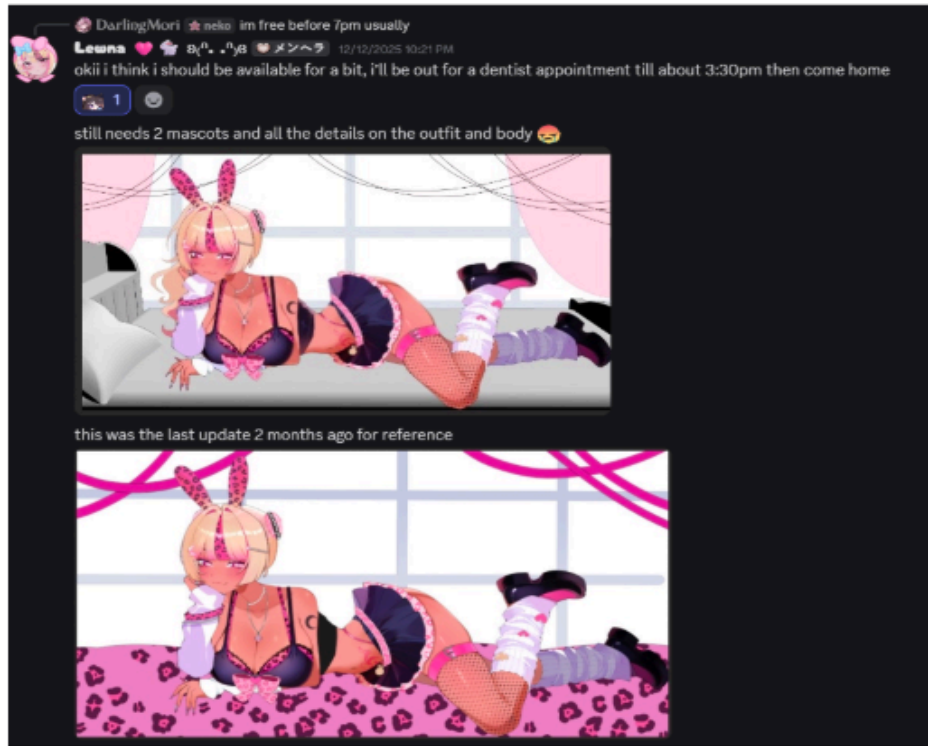

I don't watch Twitch very much, that's literally it. I don't go out of my way to network and that's why I'm a small 'big' streamer lol. It's not that deep. I am not the stalker Mori wants me to be. The only time I watch is maybe saying hi to a friend for a few minutes, or when Vulkin streams and I watch the whole thing to support my partner! She is really hung up about me not watching her stream enough and it shows how petty she is, how high she holds herself compared to others, and the impossible expectations she puts on me.

She then makes up more fake problems like me apparently mocking her by saying, and I quote, "tyy you for asking and being sweet tho <3". That's called being nice.

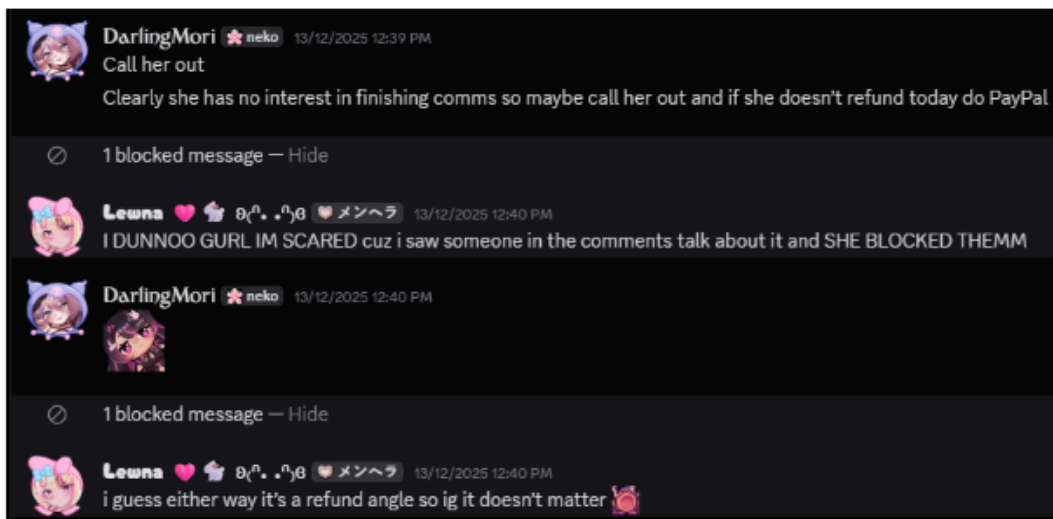

NEXT SEGMENT:

for not picking up on it at the time. I learnt later by July 2026, that almost everything Lewna did turned out to be malicious in some manner and not coincidental at all.

A day later, Lewna informs me the artist is being called out for scamming by several other creators, so I encourage her to speak out herself as she was also affected. Lewna of course, similar to Artist A incident, refuses. She only called out the artist 4 months later out of the blue, on April 27th, after they disappeared off Twitter due to public backlash.

Wouldn't it be perfect timing and make sense to call the artist out at the time (December 13th 2025) because other people were experiencing the same issue, so Lewna would be supported as it wasn't just her experiencing being ghosted? Why call it out 4.5 months later out of the blue? Lewna doesn't debut this model for nearly 2 months after the below Twitter post.

Mori is talking about the popular artist ms. tsu that stole money from many creators including myself, I have still yet to receive money back. Mori basically calls me a coward for not calling ms. tsu publically out on Twitter? I am not like Mori, I don't just call people out. I genuinely believed in ms. tsu and was communicating with her until people came out. I do not jump to conclusions and immediately think, yep time to public post. I have always, always handled things privately first. It is the right thing to do. I am patient and wait to hear people's stories. I finally came out and spoke when I realized she was lying and would never refund me, and disappeared. I also don't know what similarities Mori is even talking about. Is she trying to say the pose was copied? I asked ms. tsu to draw the pose based on an artwork ms. tsuu did. (I ask for the shortest possible height because ms. tsuu draws beautiful big mommies but I am a bit of a shorter person LOL). As for the greyscale sketch, ms tsuu. Literally just sent it to me, I didn't choose the pose.

Some other stuff happens here but they're more relevant in the "One too many coincidences" section so I'll discuss them there due to relevancy.

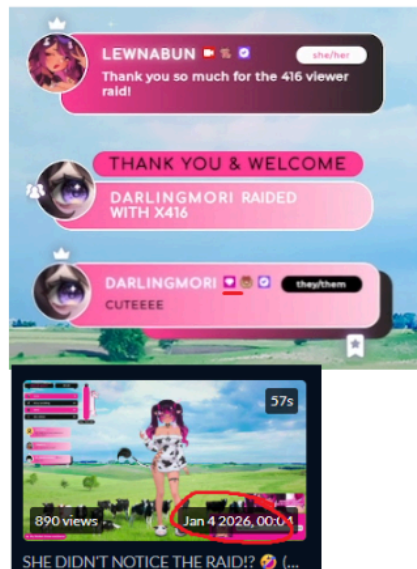

January 4th 2026

On January 4th 2026, I DM Lewna, commenting jokingly that she's so cute for the clip of when I raided her. At the time, she didn't acknowledge me raiding her whatsoever and it made me feel really off about it, as I raided with a lot of people too (over 400). I waited a bit and she's just yapping about cows or something. It felt really uncomfortable, because she would greet raiders instantly from other channels but seemed to take her time acknowledging me, the more time went on. Please view the relevant clip in the evidence folder here:

<https://drive.google.com/drive/u/1/folders/1xZpytiXCQyd0AVo9KtJpdPTg8PkqoIQ2>

As you can see also in the screenshot, I was VIP in Lewna's channel so she cannot backtrack and claim I was just a parasocial viewer to her, she was my friend. Lewna spent a few times in January complimenting me heavily too like "it means a lot coming from you!" "erm no you?" When I would say an art of hers is cute, yet towards mid-late January, this behavior changed entirely. I slowly saw incidents of her copying me, and she became cold once again. I believe she had intentions here of possibly "back-stabbing" me or was planning to sometime in February or March, but I had beaten her to it by blocking her (and this document).

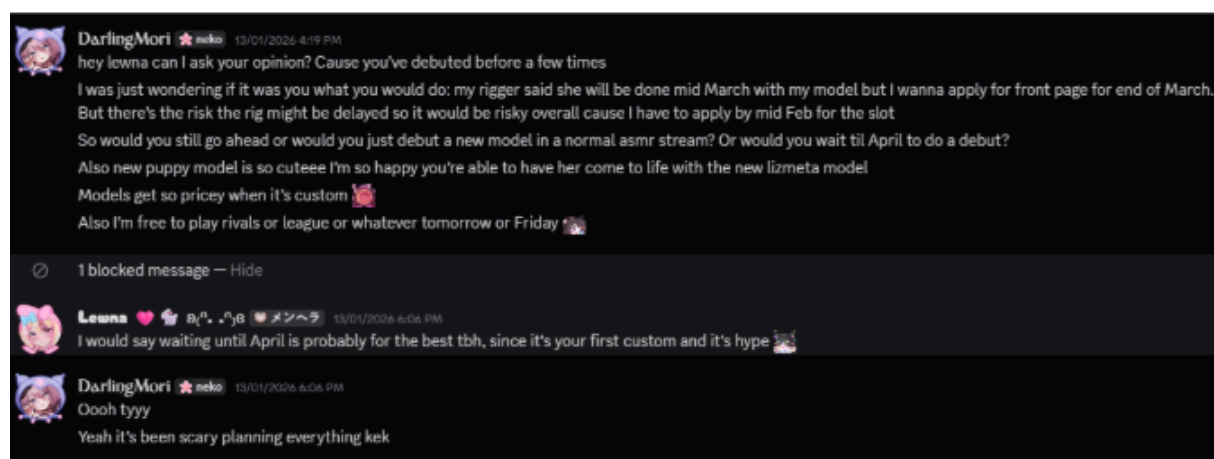

Again she says for who knows how manyeth time this doc that I am "cold" and she sees me potentially backstabbing her but she beat me to it by.. Blocking me? I had no intention of ever talking about her. EVER. We had a slightly weird friendship and I see why. She has this insane parasocial relationship with me where she microanalyzes everything falsely in an attempt to make me seem like a bad person. When we would spend time together she would fish for compliments saying how pretty I looked, how cute and small I was, and how she's too tall, ETC..

She'd also always say 'oh I forgot you're younger than me!' as maybe a self confidence boost? This is he said / she said however. It was a little uncomfy for her to constantly be seeking attention for her own personal insecurities! I don't even have to provide my further evidence, she does it herself! She posts me saying "you are so cute! You're such a good friend" and she twists it and says "I believe this to be an example of a back stab in progress". NO. It's all in her head!

NEXT SEGMENT:

January 13th

Two weeks later, on January 13th, I DM her asking her for advice about what she recommends with debuting and what she would do in my situation: I wanted to get front page on Twitch for my debut but my rig wouldn't be done til mid March, so should I delay debut (as I have to apply mid February for a slot in March) or risk it anyway. Lewna has debuted multiple models over the years so I thought she was the best person to ask, surely by asking she would also give out some helpful tips given it was my first time debuting. Right? Wrong. Instead she tells me waiting til April is "probably for the best" since it's my first custom and it's hype. Seemingly innocent at the time, however I found out much later by complete surprise, that Lewna was having a Valentine's Day Debut. Something she never once in our DMs or friendship ever tells me about Check the one too many coincidences tab about this (Next section). Lewna also had intentions of debuting an outfit in March, for her birthday, likely the Gyaru one, but was delayed hence why it took her up to June to debut it. She had the model rigged ready to debut in April.

Here she asked when she should debut, so I recommended April since the model would be done in Mid-March as she told me. That's like a few weeks after, soo.. Debut? I don't get it at all. So what if we debut in the same month or a different month, what would that change for either of us? I am not afraid of her taking attention away or whatever she thinks could happen because she debuted 2 weeks before me in the same month LOL.. I also had my debut planned far in advance. She knew about this and chose the same month. That's it.

NEXT SEGMENT:

January 13th is the last ever conversation I have with Lewna on Discord. It is also the last time I talked one on one with her, outside of January 25th, when I renewed a sub (also testing the waters as I sensed her vibes were off). We agree to play Rivals/League (with Vulkin joining yet again), and it is a nightmare. It initially goes fine with us gaming together, however, Lewna becomes incredibly shady with me during this last hangout. After a few games of League we decided to swap games to Marvel Rivals. I am not good at FPS games and don't even know how to play Rivals so I was completely out of my comfort zone but whatever it's just a chill gaming session right? Well. Lewna throughout the rest of this call shows a heavy, bitter tone towards me, the more giggly I am and fun I'm having, the more upset she seemed to get, sounding irritated and unhappy I was there. Vulkin reflected this attitude as well, as he was dismissive in tone as well. At some point, my game crashes so I have to reboot my PC (only takes 5 minutes or less). I inform her and Vulkin I will be a couple minutes to relog and apologise and briefly leave the call to do so. When I come back, I am met with silence. It had only been a couple minutes, and I was completely left alone trying to talk to what felt like a wall. Lewna and Vulkin were still connected to the call but were refusing to answer me. I sat there for what felt like 15-20 minutes before they came back. Immediately, the air is even heavier and I start to feel guilt and confusion as to what I possibly had done wrong this time. All I did was reboot my PC so I could play a game that she wanted to play, a game I heavily disliked and did not enjoy but would deal with for the sake of compromise. The rest of the game is uncomfortable and I feel pressure to fill the silence with talking, anything to make the air less tense. Eventually we part ways and everything seems fine, yet my gut feeling is telling me something is going on with Lewna.

You don't have to believe me about this part due to me deleting the messages but: a few days later I showed Lewna an updated png of my 1.0 VTuber model (right image), as I thought it was cute and I was so happy to have a pink hair color, as I had initially talked myself out of getting it done earlier. I also take the opportunity to ask about League or Rivals, asking if she wants to play again. I never receive a response. At the same time, on stream, Lewna is really really cold towards me (around 25th of January) and when I renew a gifted sub that one of her moderators gifted me (they gifted me a 3-6 month sub, which was very generous of them), she's very flat in response and quite dismissive. I had gone back into that VOD later on, feeling very unnerved to her sudden coldness again, and noticed she was far kinder to a random viewer who gifted her 100 bits (worth $2ish AUD) than her VIP and friend who renewed a resub. You would think that the roles would be reversed given I was not a stranger to her but her friend. But no, she treats me like a stranger instead. It is that very stream that I realise something horrible is wrong with Lewna's attitude towards me and I slowly start to piece together something isn't right with her. I am unsure if showing her my bunny toggle and pink hair irritated her, but that is still unfair regardless if so. After a week or longer of silence, I deleted my DM of my model WIP to Lewna, and after a day, deleted my offer to play games with her. Both times I am met with silence, I hoped she would notice the deleted message and ask me what was up, thus confirming I was overthinking, but no. I banned her a week later on February 3rd 2026, after I slowly pieced everything together.

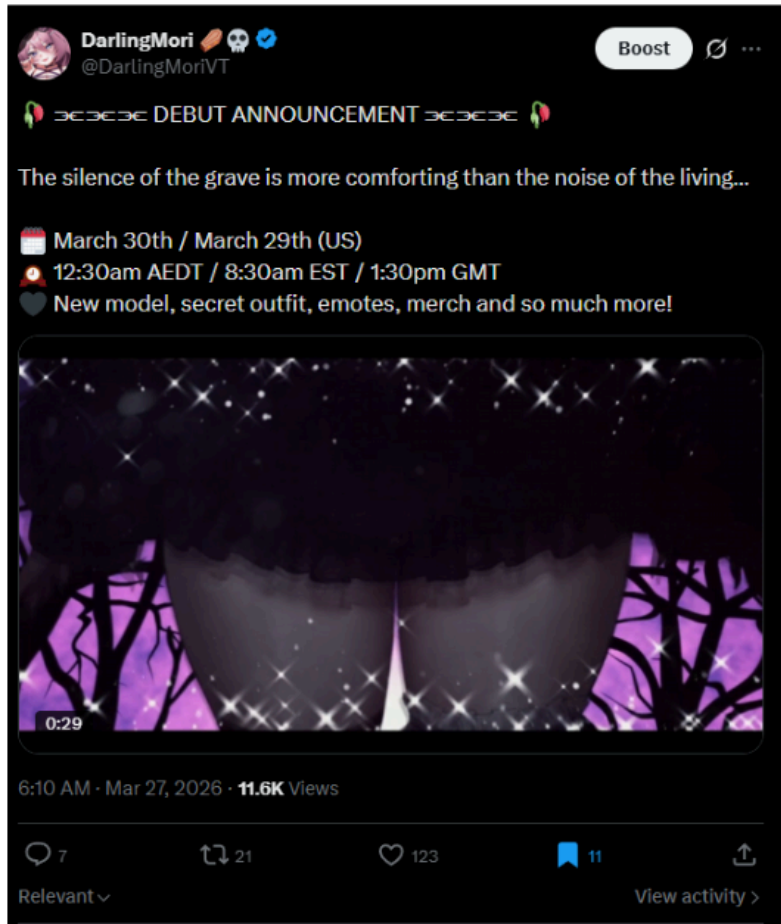

And now we move on to the next section: one that is the biggest motivator behind the creation of this document, as well as my reasoning for blocking her and why I fear for other creators who interact with her.

Here she goes on a long story about how apparently I was again mean to her when playing Marvel Rivals (I have so much fun in Rivals I would never do that, I'm always super supportive to friends too! No one on this planet has ever complained about playing games with me xD) (also to add, why would she hang out with me if every single hangout is awful.. like what?) She says we "refused to answer her" because her PC crashed. Nothing was going on with me, her gut feeling is somehow ALWAYS wrong. We just played video games, her pc crashed, and she hopped back on and we played more. I haven't thought about that day since because it was so incredibly normal! We can't even play games together without her spiraling and making up in her mind that I am psychologically manipulating her. She acts like she was doing me a giant service by playing Marvel Rivals, I don't see why she blows it so out of proportion that we played a game that wasn't league of legends. She then apparently micro analyzes my vod and goes on a crazy confusing rant, that I was dismissive of a gift sub? And hyped up 100 bits? She isn't even happy if I don't jump for joy like a pet dog because she gifted me a sub! I was literally just streaming!

After this I didn't reply to her message for a few days because people get busy, and when I went to respond, I typed my message and sent it, and then I saw the message couldn't be delivered, I was blocked. I checked her Twitch and Twitter, she blocked me everywhere without saying a word. That was our final interaction.

NEXT SEGMENT:

Again it's so fishy that Lewna is hinting at a Debut months too early, and coincidentally at almost the same time I am, streaming far longer than usual until 2:30am, almost as if she is trying to distract people so they focus more on her than supporting me and in a way contesting my own debut before it even starts. Because, Lewna the very next weekend, goes back to usual schedule as if nothing happened. Convenient.

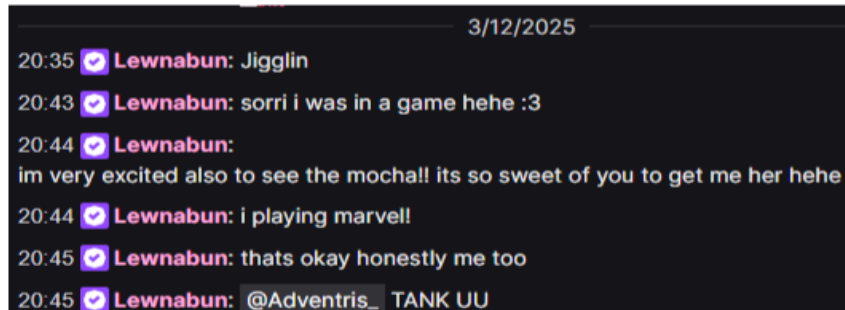

Here she is stalking me more, thinking that I am deliberately trying to silence her twitter posts by also promoting my debut. Twitter has 500 million active users, I DO NOT HOLD THAT MUCH POWER! I can't be bothered going through every slide, I mean it's all just the same thing: rinse and repeat. She tricks herself into thinking I am capable of copying every single thing about her and everything she does.

NEXT SEGMENT:

a Mocha Build-A-Bear plushie she mentioned to me earlier (I now also believe this was bait, she brought it up hoping I would buy it for her, as I am a Sanrio collector myself and so I bought a matching one for myself). I DMed her about the plushie so I could get it for her as a surprise and to avoid a double up in case he already had plans to do so himself.

Vulkin attends my stream on his own on November 23rd 2025, typing "kitten whaddup chat what did i just stumble upon," whereby he stays for 3 mins before lurking again. I find this trend of both him and Lewna typing for only 2-3 minutes before leaving entirely to be very weird to say the least, given I was her friend you would figure she would stay for at least 30 mins or something but they both would type a few messages and then just "lurk." I believe in reality, they were likely watching my stream and not alerting me they were there, so they could use whatever material they found (such as popular things I did or information they could use against me, as I am very honest and open with my community, especially about my health and stream plans). I learnt to keep quiet about my plans, such as event streams or debuts, model leaks etc. after noticing Lewna's behavior shifted to contest these plans, almost as if she was attempting to try and put a stop to it before I had a chance to pull it off (hence the subathon contesting, and the random months in between messages, lining up for when we were meant to hang out shortly after, she likely tried to get on my good side and look good to my community in the process). Aka "clout-chasing."

Again, I should repeat, Vulkin is Lewna's MANAGER. So what business does he have being in my streams so randomly, if he had no actual interest in befriending me? It's not like he ever really reached out to me either, I only DMed him if it was about Lewna (such as the plushie thing), as he knew more about her than I did, and it's normal to want to organise surprises for your friends if it's something sentimental to them.

Vulkin raids me on December 7th 2025, and it's the nicest he's been to me ever (and longest he sticks around in my stream). Note that he isn't present when Lewna raids me, as she raided me December 15th, and he stays around for her entire streams usually. All in all, incredibly suspicious and weird behaviour, especially from her lead moderator and manager.

Here she calls out my boyfriend Vulkin and continuously calls him my manager even though we have been on a bunch of double dates together. She thinks that we should stay 30 minutes in her stream instead of just saying hi and leaving the stream, which is what NORMAL PEOPLE DO! We aren't checking in on her, we literally are just saying hello! I want nothing to do with her so-called "clout". She says that him raiding her and being nice is so so strange. She is even micro analyzing how long my boyfriend stays in her stream! 10 minutes is way too long! But why not stay 30 minutes! Oh but 2 messages is too short and suspicious, Mori cannot make up her mind! Vulkin raiding my friend and being nice to her is "incredibly suspicious and weird behaviour" apparently, but at the same time we don't raid her enough apparently. Add that to list guys.

NEXT SEGMENT:

Model copying and tracing accusation

I will be referring to the artist involved in this situation as Artist A. For context, I commissioned Artist A on May 25th 2025 for a VTuber model commission, after seeing they had very affordable prices and also needed emergency money for surgery. I felt sympathetic towards them and was happy to commission them, as I got a model out of it and they would have the funds they needed for their health. Their username, VGen link and profile picture have been censored out of respect for their privacy.

Here she goes on a rant about me trying to be as professional as I could with her and disappointed that the sketch she sent me for her new model seemed traced/heavily referenced. I will simply provide my evidence! Here are the sketches and my model side by side so you can see my point!:

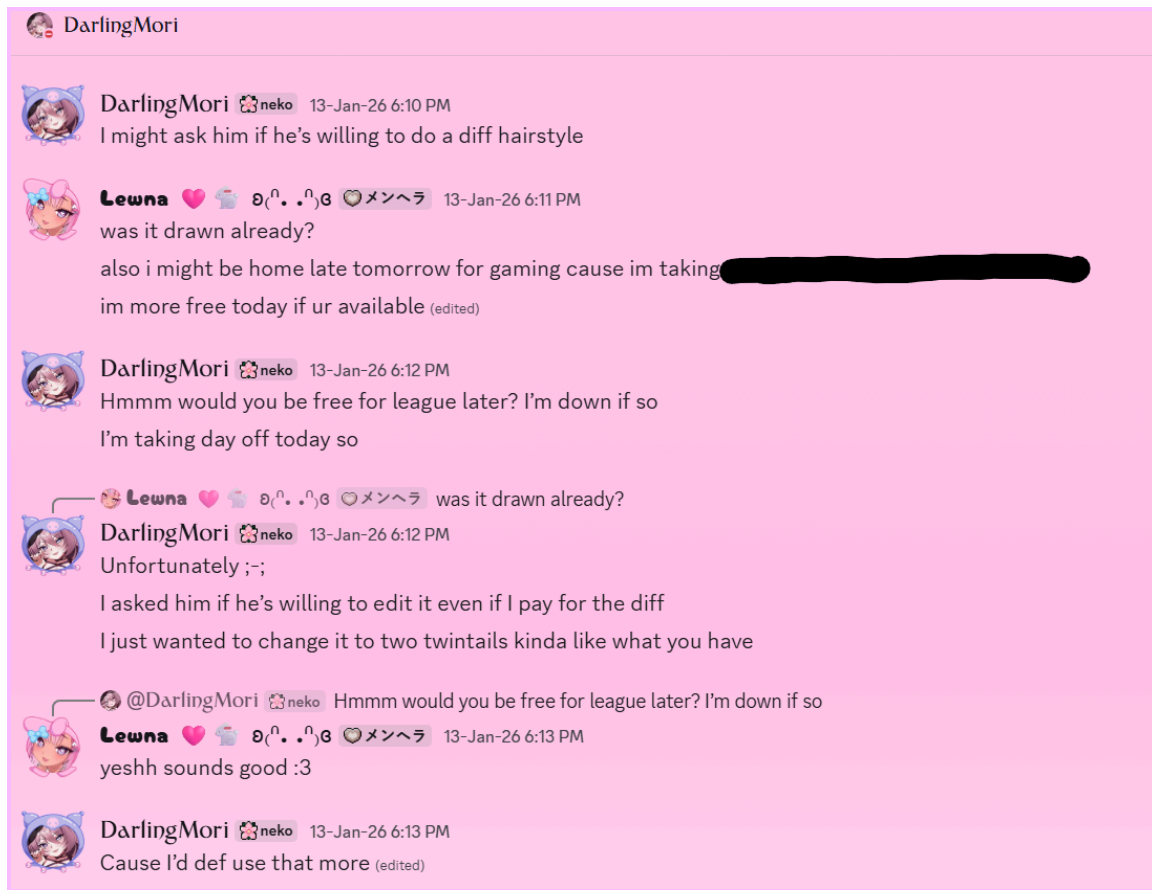

HER SKETCH SHE SENT ME

MY MODEL AT THE TIME

Now right off the bat the silhouette to me looked really familiar.. I was confused, staring at it and went “woah, that’s my face on there”. The proportions are very similar. I tried my best not to blame her and give her the benefit of the doubt so I went into a professional way of speaking to her. I didn’t want to put the blame on her, so I instead blamed the artist because I felt like it looked like my character just basically got a new outfit since the face looks heavily referenced / traced. Mori herself agreed with this. This design of hers here would later become the design she says I stole from (LOL) and it just has a bunch of similarities to my old design from 2023, which she admits to. A concerning aspect about this was her telling me she wanted to adopt aspects of my design in a “kinda like what you have” way. She told me she wanted to have twin tails like me, and mentioned to me in a call that she wanted a similar art style. She directly admitted to taking inspiration but takes no fault for this:

I'm sure you can see why I would potentially be upset at this! My artist even expressed that the chin, nose and mouth placement as well as its shape was a match. I want it to be known that after I told her this, she went straight to one of my Twitch moderators complaining to him that I was being mean when I was just trying to express my disappointment. That mod then told me everything she said, so I told her "hey can we not immediately go talk to people outside our conversation" because she didn't expect him to tell me anything. Her weird backstabbing behavior showed itself very early. The audacity to say she felt sick, anxious and harassed when she immediately went to talk behind my back MINUTES after us resolving the issue. And the fact that she admits this in her own doc, admits to her talking bad about me immediately, it's just a pattern of behavior she shows. I had good reason to be uncomfortable regarding her spreading information behind my back. Here is the follow up message I sent to her after she got caught talking behind my back. I was always kind and supportive of her even when I felt I was wronged! Does this sound like manipulation? To me, it's just her deep seated insecurity and desire to be the victim over me in every situation. I was also comforting her here about what I now realize was a false doc she made about another creator, but unfortunately I was just another stepping stone on her pattern of this behavior.

Lewna ❤️ 27-May-25 10:47 PM

Hey Mori, I was told that you were talking about our situation. I wanted to ask you, please don't share with others our personal convos. I specifically came to you and didn't even think for a second to share it with anyone when I received art from you of my traced model. I haven't spoken to a single person about it because I wanted to keep it private since I care about you and your mental health!

I completely respected you and gave you a chance to respond and explain, and I thought we already resolved everything. Our last messages were in support of each other, I even thanked you for sharing the DMs with me, and apologised for the artist scamming you. I never accused you of stealing, ripping, copying anything. I only explained I thought you might've shared my reference, and I also gave you space to explain everything because I wanted to hear from you and I believed you. I also mentioned that I don't think it's inherently a bad thing to do, I put 99% of the fault on the artist and not you, and was talking serious because it's a serious situation! If you want to talk about anything then please talk to me directly. The only reason I said not to send my references to any artist is because I don't want that artist or any artist to trace my model, that's just my personal preference and not an attack on you nor was I saying you were guilty of doing so. I woke up this morning and when I saw the art you sent I was almost in tears, I was upset, anxious and stressed, and like I said I wanted to reach out to you as my first course of action

As a side note, you've already asked me in the past if I was distant and I explained no, I've just been really busy and worrying about things like my stream, family, Vulki who lives with me, my super old dog, my dad who doesn't live with me, it's honestly a lot for me mentally! I know you have anxiety about the doc but please don't misunderstand. I legitimately know nothing about it, [REDACTED] I'm not mad at you, and like I said at the very start, I was just disappointed about the situation and not hostile. The situation sucks for me too cause now I have to message my model mama and let her know.

Just please from now on, if you want to talk, come to me directly. It gives me so much anxiety at the thought of being talked about behind my back 🥺 I just wanna relax and wind down 🌙

I was always having to reassure her that I wasn't distant because she was constantly worried I didn't want to be friends with her and put that on me. Mori also says this: "I felt very sick and anxious the entire time we were talking from the stress and harassment from Lewna during this incident. I do not handle conflict with others very well at all, even if I did nothing wrong, and I take it very personally when potential conflict arises, due to my people pleasing nature and autism. Lewna was very cruel for this."

And directly above her saying this is an image of me saying I'm sorry she had such a bad experience commissioning someone who would trace / copy. I try to be super understanding, but I don't have this experience and have never had this experience with any other Vtuber in my entire life, DarlingMori just seems to be at the center of so much drama.. Really makes you think. I was on her side, we both reported the artist on VGen, and laughed it off. However, because in her own head it adds to an evil narrative, she says that I was trying to sabotage her all along. No, I was just annoyed that the artist did what they did. I even contacted my own model mama about the situation. Nothing more. I won't gain any viewers by "delaying" her debut nor would that ever be my intent. At the end of the day I only recommended her to not work with the artist since they only supplied a sketch to her, and that she dodged a bullet. She decided herself to move forward with that. She is an adult. The artist in question also changed their art style drastically when creating that sketch which set off red flags for me, Mori says that herself too. The audacity to randomly message one of my mods (weird and random) angrily talking about me and expect them to not be like "hey this person is messaging whats up with this?" is absurd.

This artist has never interacted with a single one of my posts, nor do they follow me, so it's just weird how they would randomly trace from my reference when doing art for you. I strongly suggest not working with the artist if they are tracing other peoples models to try and make yours, and is profiting from stealing other peoples art. I think after this scenario, you shouldn't go through with commissioning this artist when they are a tracer, I do think it's important you consider a different one as it makes me uncomfortable your model creator tried to literally steal my model and model artist's work, then sell it to you without you knowing. I truly think you should report the artist and try to have a refund and not go through with them.

As you can see, I was speaking in a serious matter for a serious situation. I tell Mori I think a refund is in order because, why would anyone want a traced model? I was also worried for Mori, telling her I understand and she should be able to get refunded as well as supporting her that it was discovered before it was turned into a complete model.

DarlingMori 🐾neko 27-May-25 6:35 PM

Okieeee sounds good!

I'm sorry Lewna tho truly

I'm not mad like you're upset I would be too lmao

I'm more mad at being scammed than anything

Lewna ❤️ 🐾 27-May-25 6:36 PM

You should be able to get your money back, I do understand

DarlingMori 🐾neko 27-May-25 6:36 PM

Yeee

I appreciate you telling me tho like omg imagine it was coloured etc and I found out then

Or like it was done then rigged and I found out my god I would cry

At least sketch stage I can easily get a refund and go to a more reputable artist

Sigh

Lewna ❤️ 🐾 27-May-25 6:41 PM

That definitely would've been much worse

Mori agrees she'd be upset too and we work it out.

DarlingMori 27-May-25 11:38 PM

yeah i shouldve knwon other person was sus lmfao

i did want to ask, as i will be getting a yandere model, would it be ok to get my pupils heart shaped in my design, without hurting you? i would make sure to get it to be different if you are ok with it so theres no crossover its only cause of the theme haha

Lewna 27-May-25 11:43 PM

Yeah that's perfectly fine, I only asked for that because of the artist tracing, it looked so similar if it's a different artist and their own style that's totally fine of course

DarlingMori 27-May-25 11:43 PM

ok slay :3

yeah figured i should ask in case

i cant believe they traced

im so angry

oh well vgen will probs ban them

i hope they apologise to you and your model mama tho

Lewna 27-May-25 11:45 PM

Thank you for asking, I do appreciate that you consider my feelings

Mori says the artist who traced was suspicious, that she's 'angry that they traced'. As you can see, I mention that having heart eyes is 'totally fine of course'.

Lewna 28-May-25 1:10 AM

I mean... if you align it up you can literally see

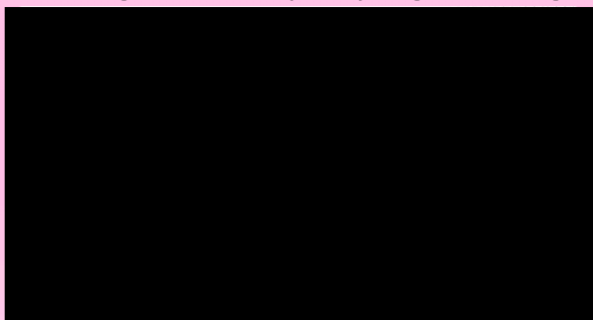

DarlingMori 28-May-25 1:11 AM

yeah shes hardcore denying it

Lewna 28-May-25 1:11 AM

Also this being their usual model style is very strange too? It's nothing like the sketch

DarlingMori 28-May-25 1:11 AM

yeah thats the model i saw on twitter that i liked

i told her i dont wanna keep doing the comm

too shady

Lewna 28-May-25 1:11 AM

Yeah it's cute don't get me wrong and yours is too, but they're sooo different styles right??

DarlingMori 28-May-25 1:11 AM

oh 100%

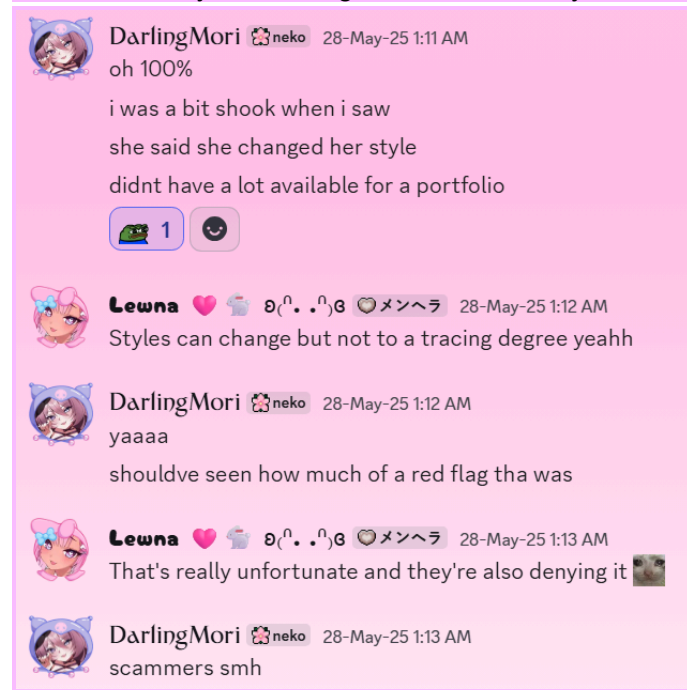

i was a bit shook when i saw

she said she changed her style

You're Viewing Older Messages

Jump To Present

She agreed with me that the artist said she “changed her style” when doing her model sketch which was very interesting. Mori herself says the commission is ‘too shady’ so she cancelled it.

Mori says she should’ve seen ‘how much of a red flag that was’, admitted she was ‘shook’ when she saw the sketch, and that the artist didn’t have a lot of available portfolio examples. Mori herself calls the artist shady and that they had red flags ‘she should’ve noticed’.

In this next segment she goes into an accusation that I “stole her design”. Now, after all the other apparently evil horrible things I do. Let’s see this, it’s gotta be legit right?

Are we serious rn?

She claims in her doc I just recoloured things slightly and other than that there is no difference. NOT ONE ASPECT IS THE SAME. The only thing that’s the same is we are wearing skirts and tops. Our shoes are different, I’m wearing legwarmers, I have a fishnet and garter on one side (like my previous model), a mini skirt with leopard gyaru trim and a y2k zebra belt. She has a purple skirt with straps. I have a crop top based off and inspired by gacha game characters like Nicole Demara from zenless zone zero because she is so cute! The leopard print bra peeking out and the top is similar to Nicole’s bra peeking out of her top. I have blond hair, bunny ears, a bunny tail, and twintails! We couldn’t be more different. She complains about this page after page, I say this from the very bottom of my soul:

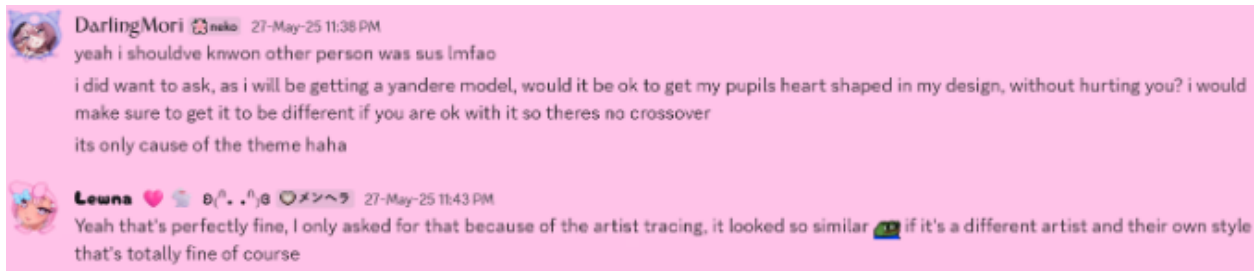

I never referenced or would want to reference her model. Her design is not my style. I’m not goth and I love Jfashion, we are polar opposites!! Anyone with half a brain looking at these two designs can see they have nothing to do with each other!

NEXT SEGMENT:

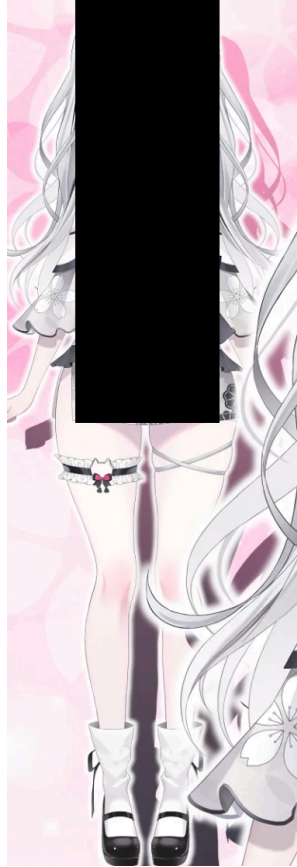

As you can see specifically in the above references (no headshot), there are a fair amount of similarities that make me uncomfortable. The outfit, the dotted-like pattern in the background, even the pose of the model arms. At a first glance, the designs and reference sheets are different enough, hence why I believe heavy inspiration was taken (which to me personally, is indirect copying, let's be real). This is the same girl who accused me of taking heavy inspiration and "copying" her for heart-shaped pupils back in May 2025, as well as insisting I must have sent the artist references of Lewna (which I believe she has done herself). It is a little crazy to me she accused me of getting a traced model and "copying her heart pupils" yet then goes and does this months later. Despite Lewna mentioning she came up with the Gyaru concept in July 2025, I believe it may have been earlier, as early as possibly April 2025, and she had lied to avoid being caught, and may literally just be her projecting onto me (such as she had been intending to copy me/rip me off but wanted to try and be subtle about it, hence why she was so emotionally abusive and manipulative in DMs to me over nothing).

Again, in the DM's I have from her I told her it's fine to get heart shaped pupils in her design with a different artist!

And are we for real? 'The dotted like pattern background' is apparently copying her background. THIS IS A FREE ASSET I FOUND ONLINE Please remember, this was all a private matter and should have stayed a private matter. Anyone is free to think what they want. In my opinion, as well as the CREATOR of my model's opinion, there is a tracing match. I won't drag said artist into it, because it's not fair and this public situation is silly to begin with.

As you can see, my model mama draws this pose for everyone. I didn't choose it, I am just given what I get.

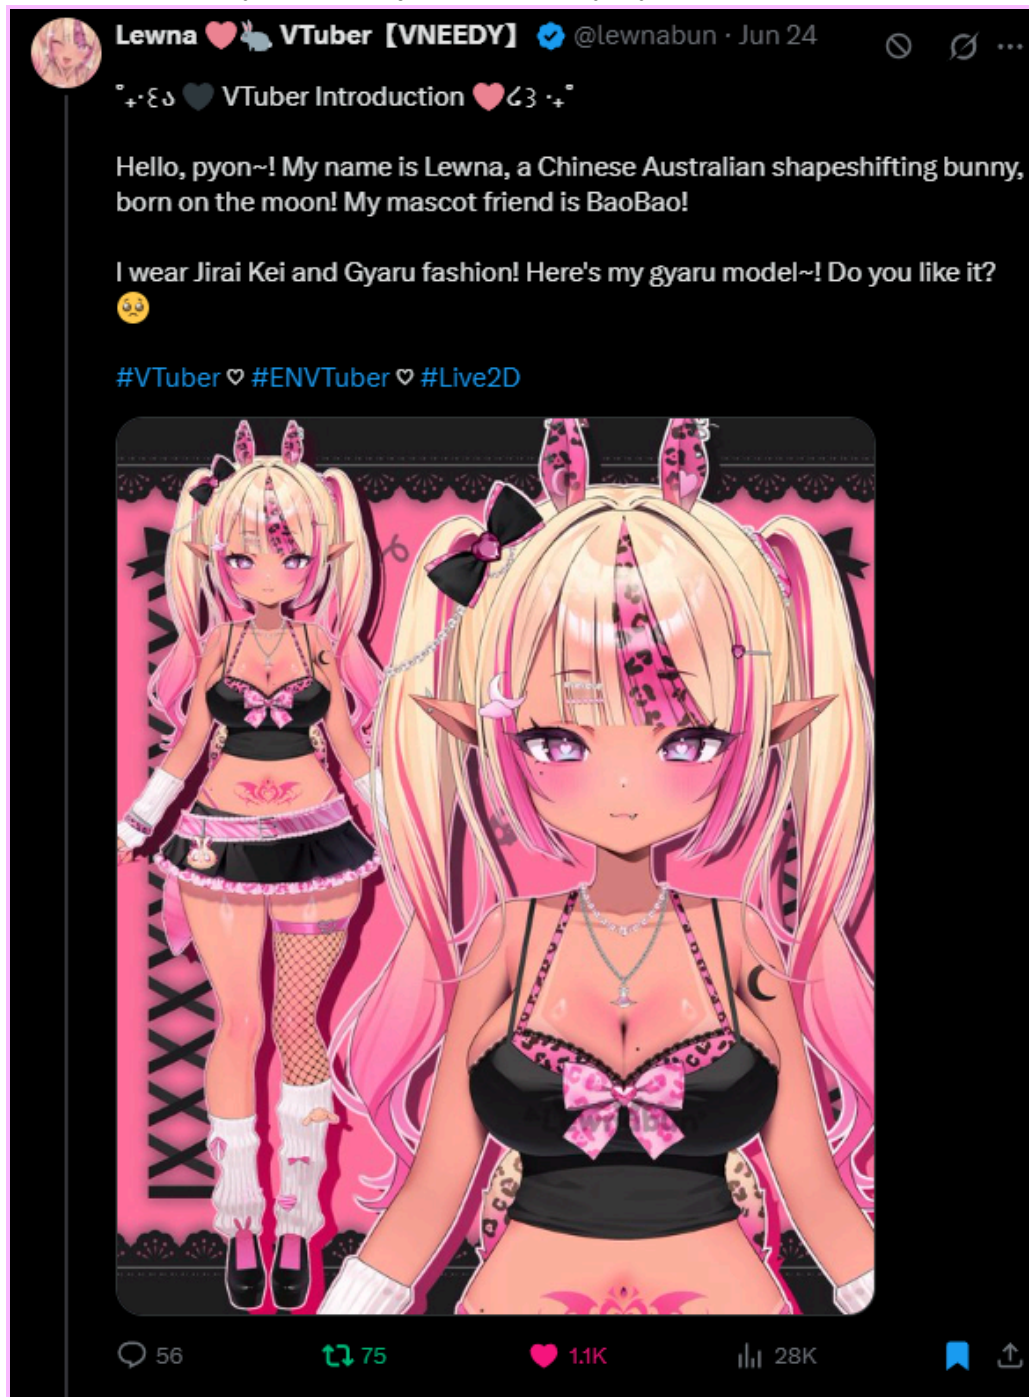

My first sketch. I didn't choose a single thing regarding the pose. It's an A pose, everyone does it.

NEXT SEGMENT:

Mori makes more super tiring statements like that I am somehow “falling for her bait” (this is after she blocked me for months at this point) by posting my character in a bikini. I was only able to post these finally because I just debuted my Gyaru model!

The video on the right was a super complex animated video of my character, It's not like I was able to whip that up in a day! I had these done in advance because of insane delays. In her post where she reveals her “summer design” it's May 5th 2026. So, because I posted a bikini art on the 1st of July 2 months later (which was posted a week after my debut) I am copying her? And the next art I post is on my stream day, a Saturday where I post before going live! I have art of me in Halloween outfits and Christmas outfits that I'm still sitting on as well waiting to post! The coincidences are.. I posted a bikini photo of my character because it's summer in the United States which is what I base my branding around. Will it be copying when I post my Halloween outfit in October again? What about Christmas? I DON'T WANT TO NOR DO I COPY ANYTHING SHE DOES. She has a major parasocial attachment to me, it NEEDS to end.

NEXT SEGMENT:

I was baffled she fell for the bait so easily, but it also gave me the proof I needed to piece together she was stalking me. Lewna has been blocked since February 3rd on all platforms. I am not blocked back hence why I kept tabs on her since the block was one-sided. For someone who claims "she has no beef" with me, she absolutely clearly does in reality, everything I do seems to irritate her and she retaliates, through being sneaky, indirectly mocking and making tiny jabs at me that the average person wouldn't notice.

I could go on and on and on about Lewna but hopefully at this point you can see what I'm talking about. Just how many coincidences is one person allowed to have before it shows possibly an entirely different narrative? Just how many similarities, contesting attempts, copying attempts, mimicking clips, imitation, targeted posts and subtle harassment does there really need to be? Lewna should have just left me alone immediately after I banned and blocked her, there is no way she didn't know exactly why I did it, of course she did cause she immediately goes running to her mods to not believe a word anyone says about her if they hear anything. Got something to admit Lewna? Enough is enough and this is ridiculous at this point.

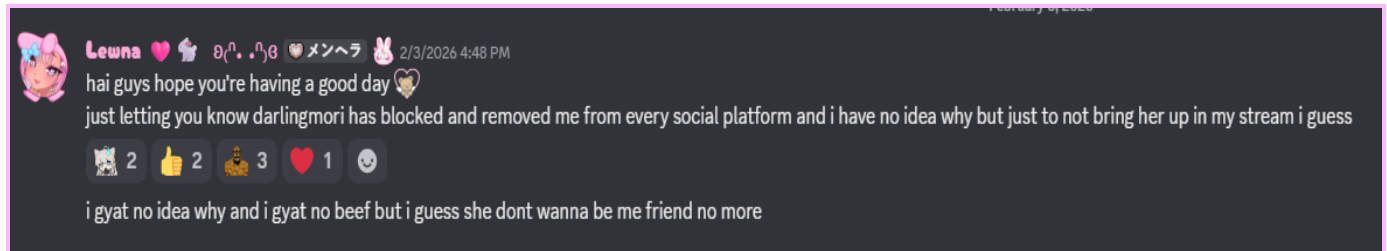

I commissioned a 2.0 model early as an attempt to hopefully make Lewna stop copying me, however I believe this hasn't helped and if anything, may have incentivised her to copy me more, knowing I have a 2.0 scheduled. There are just too many coincidences and I can no longer keep up with Lewna, it feels as if everything I do she will try to copy shortly after. I am tired.

So apparently, this streamer that was obsessed with me being bigger than her thinks the following: I am sneaky, indirectly mock her, look at her funny, make jabs, copy her, mimic her clips, imitate her, target posts and subtly harass her, and go "running to my mods" I haven't spoken to my mods at all, not once, about any of this in the past 7 months. This is genuinely all made up in her head. Mori has talked to MY MODS more than I have about this. The only thing I told everyone is that we aren't friends anymore, a single time after she blocked me, and I wasn't sure why. Turns out, this is why. She had an extreme, parasocial and unhealthy relationship with a fake version of me that existed in her head. All "proof" she has is of me being sweet and kind to her. Mori has no real proof, Mori legitimately made everything up. I have nothing to admit, I have not thought or talked about her at all since she blocked me. It must hurt her ego to hear this, but genuinely from the bottom of my heart, I just don't care about her. I don't want to copy her, I don't even know what her 1.0 model is let alone what her having a 2.0 scheduled would have to do with me. I know NOTHING about her and want to keep it that way! I'm putting it as plainly as possible, she has no impact on my life!

Here is the last time I ever talked about her from my mod chat on discord.

I legitimately didn't know why she blocked me and it's been that way ever since.

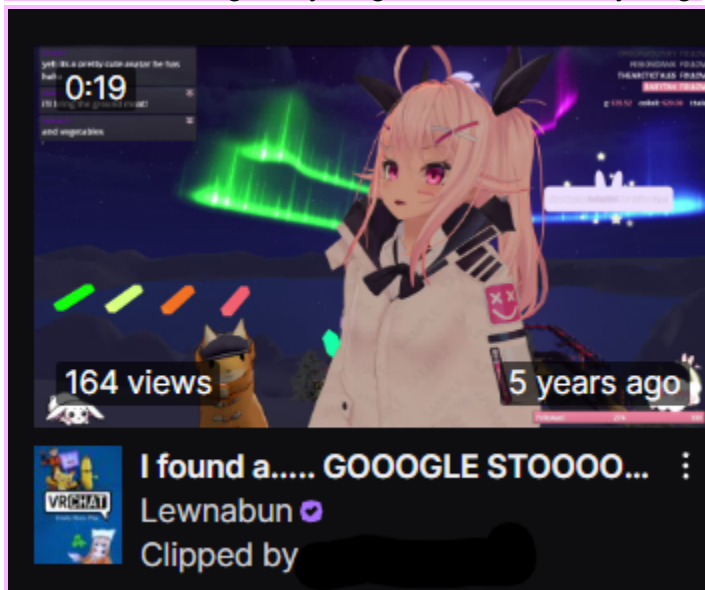

You can see here there are only 2 results for searching her name on my Discord between the day I said that and now, I never talk about her. The last time was this message, the discussion after, then me posting my response to her doc. THAT IS IT! I even let her stay in my Discord for months just in case she wanted to reach out to me. Obviously, that was a mistake because she used it to DM my mods.

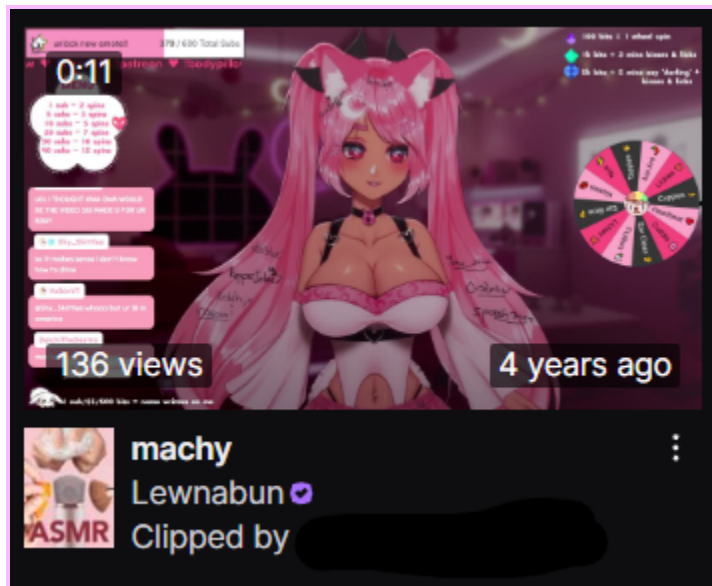

To go from a magenta yandere bunny so suddenly, to a light pink catgirl (with blood/vamp like features) felt weird. Lewna always kept her nurse outfit a complete secret from me, mentioning she was doing Gyaru and a second “separate outfit.” I wouldn’t tell her outright she can’t use it but I would’ve poked at her and asked why the drastic change and ask for her inspirations and reasoning, as it felt similar to what I was having done for my own model.

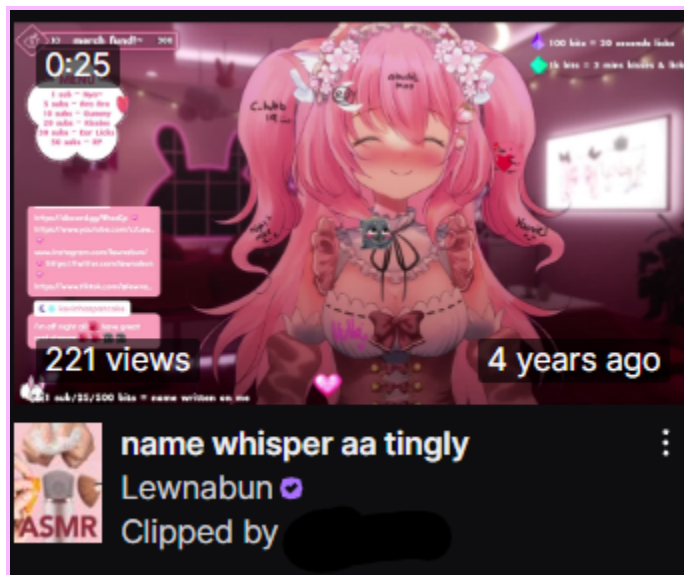

Lewna has been a Vtuber for a long time, Lewna’s been many different shades of pink, Lewna has done it all. Lewna has been yandere, tsundere, cat, bat, rat, boots and cats boots and cats Lewna is very tired. Lewna has been pink all her life since child. Lewna can use different types of pink and be cat and anything. Lewna has been everything, Lewna been streaming long time. Lewna is even bald. There is no long pattern of Lewna copying, Lewna has been everything and will continue being everything. No one owns anything.

Panda Lewna last year

Panda. There is so much more, that's enough lol

For context, the above image was Lewna's usual model at the time, one she had only been using for just over a year. The only similar design element Lewna kept in this design was her tanned complexion and pink eyes, albeit they were still a different color and tone compared to the previous one.

With the nurse design, it was almost as if Lewna had rebranded into an entirely new person. Completely different species despite being a bunny VTuber (her name is LewnaBUN), completely opposite color palette, theme everything. As if the previous design never existed. My gut was telling me something was very off, and to reassure myself, I decided to look into it. If I found nothing, then I was just reaching and nothing to worry about! I could brush it off and tell myself to chill out. Instead, over time my feelings actually became more and more realistic and I slowly stopped feeling as if I was overreacting. Recognising a lot of design traits in this nurse model, I felt like I had seen it before so I went back into my BOOTH purchase history to find what I was looking for. I found a Nurse outfit asset that looked incredibly similar to Lewna's new model, with only a couple changes. Now I could of course be wrong about this, but it looks referenced. As if Lewna took incredibly heavy inspiration from it and just "tweaked" it a little. "Lemme copy your homework but make it look a little different so it's not obvious."

I purchased a nurse asset 2 years ago before Mori bought one. Surely we don't need to play this stupid game. I can be nurse, she can be nurse, everyone can be nurse stop projecting.

My design is inspired by Buro from Muse Dash. Not her using a Vtuber asset.

Calling myself Lewnya bun in 2023 because I was a kitty girl that weekend, it's just a thing - people like to be different animals when they're a shapeshifter.

Calling myself Lewnya bun in 2023 because I was a kitty girl that weekend, it's just a thing - people like to be different animals when they're a shapeshifter.

The time posted for my tweet was 5:20AM on March 28th 2026. Lewna's tweet was posted March 28th 2026 at 10:01PM. Very random to post a teaser of her Gyaruu model almost 3 MONTHS too early so randomly, wouldn't you leave it to a month prior to build up hype? Why did Lewna post it out of the blue on the same day I advertise my own debut, something I had been telling chat about all month so I could create hype and not jumpscare them with the sudden model change. Even if supposedly Lewna had been intending to debut in April, the timing is so off and suspicious, I couldn't help but worry she was contesting me yet again, as I found out in July 2026 that Lewna had attempted to contest my debut for 2 days in a row (the 29th and 30th of March, as I had both dates in my Debut trailer, one for US timezone and the other for Australian.) I believe she attempted to contest me both days in case she had the date wrong and I was debuting on March 29th instead of the 30th.

Mori again thinks I'm copying her because I do a model teaser post. I have done this with all of my designs - small snippets over time. I have always been impatient to show my cute artist's work. Am I not allowed to post 16 hours after THE DarlingMori posts, when I have no idea about it?? I had a timeframe for debuting around April, so I didn't mind and it wasn't far off at all. Delays happened and I debuted later, is that alright with everyone?

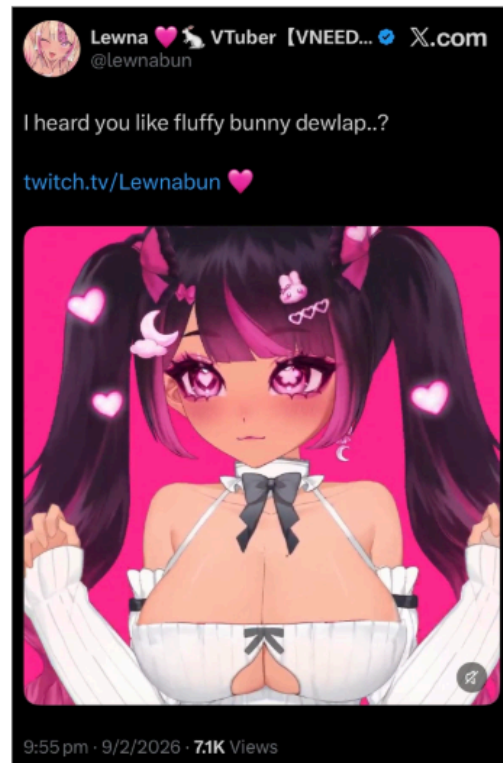

hi! im not able to deliver at march 14 due to work n rush stuff! >< possible if april!

watching myself. On February 8th and 9th, Lewna's first stream since I banned her, Lewna showed up to the stream with a white sweater outfit (asset). It felt SO on the nose to me, as it was the first ASMR outfit I ever streamed with, back in July 2024, and for her to use it out of the blue (it is a very very old asset as well), it felt oddly targeted. Given how old it was too, Lewna would've had it in her models library for a long time unless she bought it recently. I had issues even trying to find it off BOOTH myself. In this very stream, several clips of Lewna are found, of her doing "RAWR" redeem and "Eto bleh!" jokes (freaky cat meme), tummy and thigh focusing and it felt out of character for her. On their own these are popular ideas and nothing I would ever feel threatened about so I figured hey that's a little weird and out of character for her but maybe she just got inspired by TikTok or something. Surely it's harmless and I'm overthinking it, as it was just a slight replication. It felt weird coming from her, as she knew very well these were incredibly popular clips and memes on my own streams and content, "RAWR!" happens to still be my most popular ASMR request on my livestreams, but again I chose to ignore it. She would know this as despite she will likely claim she had no idea, she absolutely had been monitoring me. It didn't feel valid enough to fight or care about at the time, so I chose to just keep an eye on her for a bit and shelf it for later if it kept reoccurring.

Mori says she used this asset in 2024 and I was copying her, I purchased it 2023 and had been using it ever since, image below. Cmon man. This is the second time she tried to "catch me" and I purchased it first. I have played these games before plzzz I'm a long time Vtuber of course I have purchased outfits.

I bought it a whole year before her. Here's a tweet of me using it in January 2024, 9 months before meeting Mori. As you can see, my design here is old as fuck lol.

Mori thinks that because 'RAWR' is her most popular trigger redeem that I surely must be copying her. I do not monitor people's triggers, that is craycray talk. No one does that.

See: rawr as my daily sub goal set in June 2024, 4 months before we even met.

Mori, Eto... Bleh does not originate from a 'freaky cat meme'. To say I stole Eto Bleh from you is blasphemy for the anime community. My gawsh. It is not yours, nothing is copied from you.

It's simply false to accuse me of 'tummy and thigh' focusing being 'out of character', and copying her on that front. I've been in this game longer than her! I am an OG tummy AND thigh enjoyer lolol.

Perceive my infinite tummy and thigh posting. Each media display here has the caption 'tummy' and or booba/thighs in it, all the way back to 2022. There is so much more I can't show it all lul.

FINAL SEGMENT

If you have read up to this far, thank you for reading this document and for listening to my story and experience with Lewnabun. I had been debating whether to speak out for almost 8 months so I appreciate you for taking the time to read through this document.

I won't be speaking of the matter any further and any attempt to drag the drama even further will be ignored, and upon insistence it will be considered defamation.

I would like to move on from this and focus on healing my mental health and well-being, as well as focus on my streaming career and community. I hope with this document, the stalking, monitoring and copying ceases, as well as my block to be respected and that all parties can move on from this. Enough is enough and I am really tired of this situation.

- All my love, DarlingMori

She can move on whenever she wants. Here is my official blanket statement about her obsession with thinking that me or anyone I know is watching her. I have NEVER and will NEVER stalk, monitor, or copy her. My mods literally don't care about any drama, they are silly guys and just talk about smooching each other. They're too busy kissing, so they barely even mod for me (I love them), I have never sent anyone into her stream (she has said this in the past about other creators, she has a strange fixation and overimportance on mods and what they do for their streamers and think they are all out to stalk and get her), and I haven't even tried to create any statement about her before she dropped this weird, unnecessary doc. I can't name a single one of her mods, yet she messages mine and trash talks me to them, then gives them VIP in her chat. She herself released the images on this - I had nothing to do with it and neither did anyone else BUT that EX MODERATOR. They came back to me apologizing and realizing that I was never in the wrong after she released her document.

I've been sitting here trying to think of what to say for so long... But honestly what I did was inexcusable and honestly completely out of character for me.

I am sorry for what I did. Incredibly sorry for what I did.

I realised what I did very quickly after I actively participated in what she had going on was wrong. But she painted it in such a way that made it so believable and I stupidly believed it.

After I realised what I'd done. I didn't know how or what to do in this instance. I was kinda scared to come to you about it and I honestly don't know why. I should have come to you immediately as soon as she tried to message me and say hey, im getting this what's going on...

But I couldn't. I just couldn't do it.

And for that I'm sorry.

I feel absolutely terrible, and I deserve to feel terrible. I hurt you. I hurt you hard.

Like I KNOW you're legitimate, you've always been legitimate. You've never put a foot wrong and I just stupidly believed her lies at the drop of a hat...

I completely understand if you just want to forget me. I made a huge mistake and I shattered your trust. Something looking back now I wish I didn't do. I was easily swayed by someone I didn't even know as well as you nor for as long and it's not acceptable.

I'm really sorry. Whether you believe it or not. I really am. If you would like me to step away, or remove me from everything. I completely understand and respect your decision.

From the bottom of my heart.

I am sorry for hurting you.

DarlingMori is a massive horrible bully.

This came out of nowhere. Enough is enough, stop thinking about me. Stop making up things in your head, stop talking about me, and just leave me alone. Mori truthfully needs to get help. I never hated her or poked fun at her or jabbed her, I was ONLY KIND! All her evidence is ME BEING NICE TO HER! I have been nothing but kind to everyone in this space, because everyone I've interacted with so far before Mori was amazing and lovely! Please move forward, do not harass me or anyone I'm associated with. It will be an amazing day when we never have to interact ever again. This is not the first time Mori has been involved in a drama like this and it definitely won't be the last. While I remain drama free, she will continue to act this way towards people just being nice to her. She is messaging my mods telling them I'm a bad person, she is messaging my mutuals that my kindness is a crime and to be warned. She has taken screenshots of me, watched my streams, and more after blocking me. Mori intentionally tried to fabricate and mislead people by cropping screenshots before important context.

You scare me. You truly scare me. You have been stalking me for months when you weren't even in my mind. You are celebrating "surpassing" me on random nights when I didn't even know you were streaming. I don't even look at my own viewer count while streaming, it's been that way for years.

I won't stand for it, and I know others will see that everything she said here is fabricated. If Mori responds and says she's being stalked, and her proof is one of my innocent mods watching her stream (she said herself we share some viewers) I literally have no idea what to tell you. Mori is lying not only to others, but herself. I want to move on! I have made tons of new amazing friends both IRL and online, and they are amazing! There are many people coming forward with their own terrible experiences with her in my DM's, and that hurts. THEY ARE SCARED OF MORI, JUST LIKE ME. People who even now she thinks are her friends are terrified of her. They don't want to come out about you because you scare people, Mori. Mori has caused me days and nights of anxiety, crying and shaking. Not because what she says is true, but because she has a false version of me in her head and thinks about me so severely that she stalks every one of my streams, posts, and all of my platforms. I gave her the benefit of the doubt, I trusted her, I was trying to be her friend, yet she does this.

You were the backstabber all along. You have ulterior motives, you stalk me, you harass me and anyone involved with me for zero reason. You need to look inward, not outward. My kindness and love isn't somehow out of hate, it's because I care. You need to heal yourself, please stop projecting onto other people. I see no need to reply any further, you showed your true colours by yourself. So, I won't. This is my final statement. If I make any statement in the future it will be because people who came out about you in my DM's would like a platform to talk about their experience.

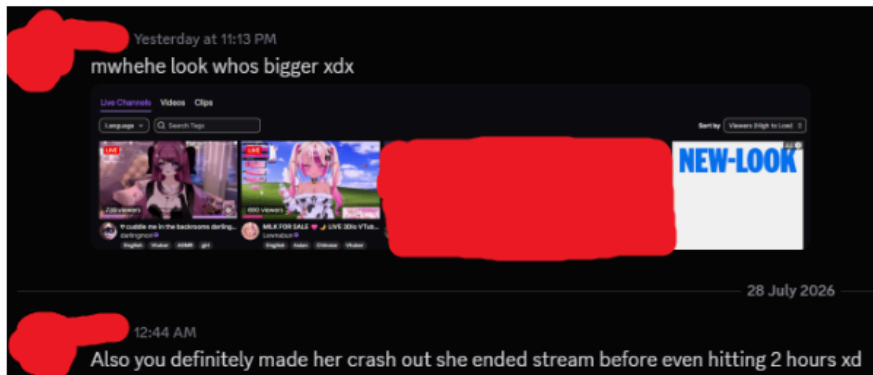

To everyone that experienced these problems like me, to every one of my fans and mutuals that got roped into this, do not let anyone take advantage of you. Don't let anyone take advantage of your kindness, and don't be afraid to speak up. This is your chance to do so, and I see you. I am sorry to the people Mori has hurt and involved. The amount of people who have had poor experiences with Mori is depressing. I hope that more won't be afraid to speak their truth.

Google docs should be for serious matters. Not defaming people you don't like.

I love everyone that supports me and I thank you so much for reading through this document! <3

DISGUSTING BULLYING

I am posting this in its own section, because even if you don't read the whole document, this is just a short example of who she is. She had the audacity to make this a part of her doc trying to paint me as a bad person. Tell me, is this what a good person does? No, only a terrible bully would do something like this.

Disclaimer: My mod hates Lewna for what she's done, after I showed them everything (the evidence in the contents of this document), hence the snarky comment, as they dislike people who hurt me, cause they are my closest friend.

At the end of her stream, Lewna tells her chat she needs to go take a bathroom break and to hold tight she won't be long. Almost 10 minutes go by before she comes back, and her entire demeanour has changed. She comes back seemingly upset, insisting immediately to chat that she needs to go end stream suddenly, claiming due to a sore throat as the reasoning. Yet only 10 minutes prior she was completely fine? What happened in those 10 mins that she was AFK from the stream? I checked my own stream VOD after to see if there was any correlation and there was. At a similar time frame to Lewna scheduling her AFK break, my rig goal gets fully funded. Very shortly after Lewna goes offline, my chat goes crazy and gifts so many subs, Throne gifts and just overwhelming support. So much in fact, that $\frac{3}{4}$ of my subathon goals list is already funded, despite that I had only made it 3 hours prior give or take. I have reasons to believe Lewna found out either from Vulkan, or someone on her mod team, or both even, and couldn't handle me surpassing her both in the category for ASMR, as well as the immense support. Jealousy rearing its ugly head.

<https://x.com/DarlingMoriVT/status/2081758578373992609> - I posted about my gratitude to my community on Twitter directly after my stream.

Here her and her mod are just bullying the fuck out of me in private for no reason? And this was just a few days before her dropping the doc!! I don't look at Mori's stream, please drop the ego! She is genuinely posting a screenshot of her mod being happy that she had more viewers than me on a random day and they larp that I'm crashing out and ended the stream early. That has never happened, can't believe I have to say that. It's funny to even read. And the fact that she publicly posts this bullying thinking it makes her look good is insane! She is hyper analyzing my vod, (claims im a stalker btw while doing this) watching me take a bathroom break (I always take 10 minutes, I CAN'T EVEN PEE WITHOUT HER ACCUSING ME LOL) and complaining about my sore throat. Mori thinks I am monitoring her on the toilet. Please be real and get that image out of your head cause WHAT LMFAO. My phone stays on my desk because I use it for face tracking. Ridiculous. Mind you this is after I haven't spoken to her in 7 months! Instead of her believing that I have a sore throat, she thinks it's because she hits a rig goal?? I did not know she had a rig goal, let alone completed it. And that her chat goes crazy with gifts and subs, so I 'MUST be jealous' that she was "surpassing me in both the category for ASMR, as well as the immense support". Mind you, this is all in her head. It's so comedically evil.

What Mori fails to mention is moments after this incident she talks about, I explain ON stream that I was taking sore throat lozenges and pain medication (Panadol) and was happy that I almost completed my full stream time anyways, only ending 10 minutes early. This displays Mori's paranoia regarding me, thinking everything I do revolves around her: hint, it does not.

Here's the clip:

<https://www.twitch.tv/lewnabun/clip/EphemeralArbitraryPartridgeBudBlast-mNdF0vvhDU5tz1vT>

I have a sore throat because of a wisdom tooth eruption causing constant throat infections! I can't believe I have to prove that I have a sore throat, what do I need to do? Post the referral from my dentist or my invoice from the surgeon? (scroll down lol there it is) She really truly believes that she is the number one person in my life, when I am the number one person in hers. Her jealousy is oozing out of the document and she feels like a queen that she surpassed me on one night in average viewers when I had a short stream LOL. I feel like this is something I should be posting to cancel her and show what a bad person she is, but she posted it herself? How gross. Saying your mod HATES me 'for what I've done'. Girl. I haven't done anything. The person that wanted to DM Vulkin about what they're talking about never did, and he wasn't even talking about Mori. They publicly in the chat stated the Vtuber that they were talking about a few messages after the ones here on the doc. Why is she stalking such random and small conversations in my chat 7 months after she blocked me..? And she says I'm the one who doesn't "respect block boundaries".

The reason we thought the question was odd was because we didn't want anybody name dropping streamers we have no connection with. It was a simple comment and we moved on. Nothing we (my community, mods etc) do or talk about is about her, ever. But she wants things to be about her for some reason, it gives her a sick and gross satisfaction when the version of me fabricated in her mind "loses" to her.

QUOTATION FOR GENERAL ANAESTHETIC

Please find attached quote for removal of four teeth General Anesthetic.
I will require your Private Health details to book at the Hospital. Please provide this when making the booking with us.

Here's a very small redacted part of my invoice and email for wisdom teeth removal. Can't believe I need to show this but guys, I just have a sore throat cause they're erupting that's it. It does cause me to work slowly on my ASMR work but I have always updated whoever needs to know. Everyone in my community knows and it's public knowledge, because I am open and honest, especially with delays.

Design Artist DM's

Mori's 'Copying' Allegations

thought was very unique and cute, and charming, has intensely shifted into being way too similar to me for me to be personally comfortable with. She used to have a very very cute magenta bunny design which I thought was so unique and really memorable. I am very unsure why she retired this design (even the color palettes, outfits, all of it) and did such a major rebrand so suddenly. All of her behaviour also coincidentally lines up in timeline to me cutting her off and going no contact, as well as seemingly worsening every single month that goes by. The majority of this was done behind the scenes during that time without my knowledge, despite me asking politely about her plans (As I shared mine), I was never really told much about it. Lewna's nurse model for example was completely hidden from me, and I am unsure if this was intentional or not. You do not need to copy someone 1:1 to be copying them, it's all about intentions as well as overlaps. If your designs, theme, branding, color palette, channel point redeems, stream bits/content, captions, toggles and ideas are constantly similar to someone else,

Here Mori is saying she liked my last design, and wonders why I retired it. Guys, I really like outfits. If you have been following me on my journey you'd know I tend to cycle through designs a lot, because I love lots of different types of fashion, and JFashion! My 'cute magenta bunny design' was created in, let's see.. 2023. Dude, it's been a long time (see image below)! Me changing my Vtuber model and design is not suspicious!! After 3 years!! Vtubing is my full time work and passion! (This design conversation was moved to Discord, at this point we are only missing colours) I don't know why Mori feels entitled to me sharing updates regarding my models. I do not hide things deliberately. Mori's doc is full of what she thinks is happening in her head, when in reality I'm just existing and trying to be a nice friend. I can't even do this 'sneaky' timing that she suggests to 'rebrand', because I don't self fund my models, I commission them when my community helps me afford it on Throne LOL (thank you guys, you are goats).

I have kindly been given permission from my Gyaruru design artist to share information regarding my commission process with them. It is disgusting and absurd to think myself or Jacc would have any involvement in a copying process, and I am extremely upset that he is forced to read this controversy because Mori posted his art in her doc. Mori has done the same thing to another artist in her first doc about another creator - posting their art without permission and was subsequently asked to have it removed, they were upset that they were dragged into drama.

I am showing the references I gave Jacc through a Google Doc. As you can see, there is nothing to do with any Vtubers, just Gyaruru images. The design vibe I went for was based off of Gyaruru old gacha game characters.

Oh and I also have a reference kind of idea for how the bunny ears (and bunny tail??) could look in terms of the patterns on the ears itself! But instead of this species, it'd be the gyaru leopard patterns, pink with black spots ^-^

Super cute!! I'll start sketching today 11:12 PM

https://docs.google.com/document/d/1C_Z9l_wej-...

I've just created a google doc to make it a bit easier to go through regarding the details I shared with you! I also found more gyaru references! Let me know if it's all clear and easy to follow!

Gyaru Lewnabun x Jacc Design Commission

Original Design Reference:

Pinterest Mood Board (Current aesthetic likes and gyaru refs)

Next, as you can see from the screenshots, Jacc completed my body base and sends me the sketch he came up with for the design. It's very similar to my final design as you can tell - in which I did not carefully handcraft and copy her top or literally anything else?? It is a basic top that is Gyaru inspired.. It is awful to say my design is copied when my artist literally just made a beautiful design. That's it.

Thank youu, I really appreciate it!! Looking forward to it

2:36 AM

Also in terms of hair shape/type, I know yoy said you really like any type of tails, but in terms of texture, since this leans towards gyaru, would you be interested in maybe having the hair a bit more curly? With the bangs still being straight, but maybe with the length and side pieces being a bit more curled than your model ?

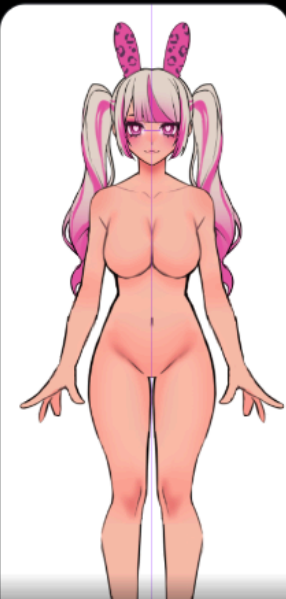

2:42 AM

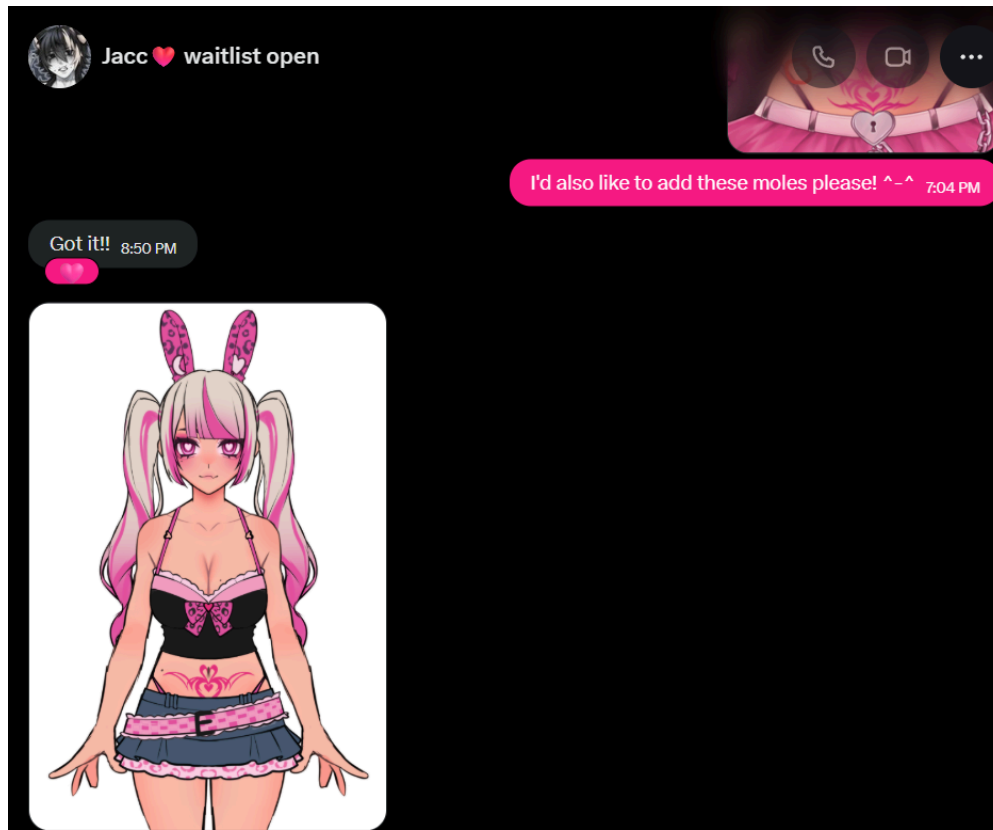

That is a really cute idea, but I'm not sure I can visualise that so I think keeping it the same would be good thank you!

2:56 AM

Got it! 3:00 AM

This was the first sketch Jacc sent me regarding the outfit, based off of the collages I sent.

It looks super cute!!! Love how it's coming together so far!

Would we be able to try a blonde more similar to this colour? As well as deepening the tan of my skin tone!

I'd love if we could have the bunny ears go from blonde at the base to pink at the top!

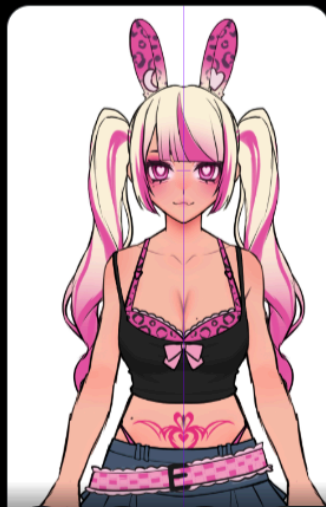

12:32 AM

I'd also love if we could try a top + bra combo similar to this and the image I sent above too! I'd like the bra itself to have the pink and black leopard print!

12:33 AM

Got it! 12:38 AM

Message

got it! also deepened her a bit, let me know if youd want more or less

2:02 AM

also shirt fixed!

I would maybe make the heart in the middle lighter for some more contrast

2:05 AM

So cute!! I think more tan would be good actually! I was also thinking of having tan lines, especially by the panties area!

That is really cute!! I agree the bow is quite merging in with the top, would the last bow work, but with the patterns added and lighter heart charm? That way it's a bit lower and more separated?

2:07 AM

Got it on both! Would you want tan lines on top too or?

2:09 AM

Hmm, do you think it'd be a bit too much? Or it'd be

As you can see, Jacc handled the design sketch and I essentially changed some colours around to my personal preference.

also with the bow fixed! 2:17 AM

Yeah that's looking super cute!! Happy to continue ^3^

I was thinking arm warmers as well as sock warmers would be a cute vibe alongside the outfit! Looking forward to seeing your additional details! 2:20 AM

Yess I was thinking the same!! I was also thinking maybe asymetric socks/leg warmers (in the sense that she has different ones on each leg). I also was thinking of hanging some charms either from her skirts belt loops or the belt itself 2:22 AM

Ooh okay, that sounds good!! 🍷

I also wanted to see if we could add the leopard print to the highlighted hair strand we have on the fringe, would that look too much? t.co/WRxvnpquSu

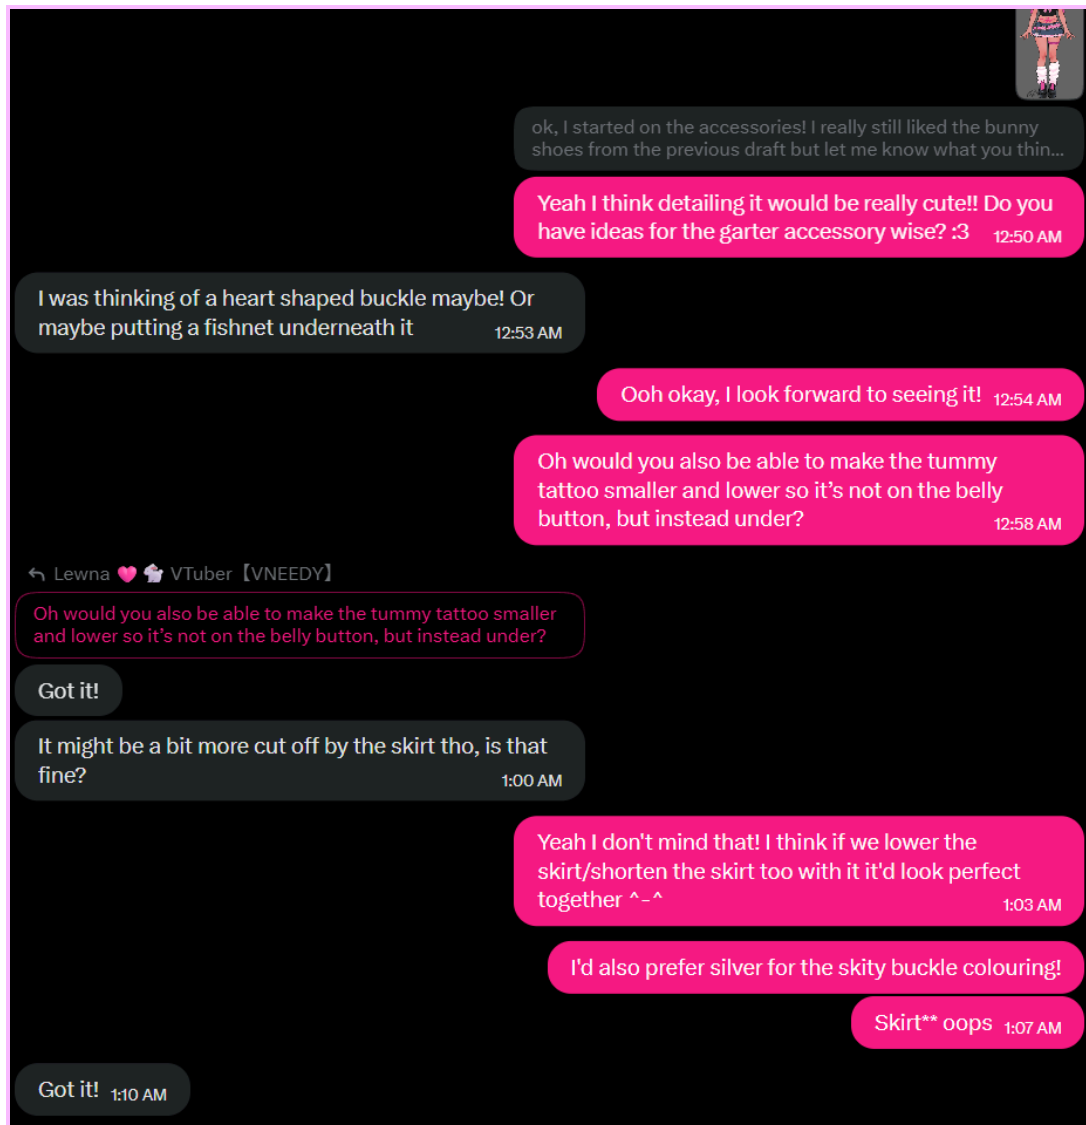

2:25 AM

I was eyeing that but I wasn't sure if you would've like it, but honestly I think it would be really cute and match with the ears ! 2:28 AM

In that case!! could we please try that out? 😊

Again, Jacc and I are just collaborating on ideas together.

All we did was suggestions back and forth at this point.

ok, I started on the accessories! I really still liked the bunny shoes from the previous draft but let me know what you think! I also think it could be cute to add a few things to the legwarmers like ribbons, a mocha head, etc! I think I saw a ref with smth like that in your doc

After I had seen hard similarities on Lewna's Gyaru model reference sheets, I decided to overlap her model outfit on top of mine, to see if I was overthinking it. I was still making several excuses for Lewna but I had recognised too many similarities. I noticed then, that the outfit was 1:1 and almost identical (with a couple changes here and there). Please note: I'm not accusing her of copying the model 1:1, her model proportions are different, it is the design/outfit specifically being practically 1:1 when lined up. If not a copy then heavy inspiration for sure, way too much to be comfortable personally about it. Lining up the chests showed me the outfit was almost identical, including the positioning/placement of everything almost as if she applied my outfit directly onto her model base. I felt sick after seeing this, and started to believe it was possible Lewna had applied Gyaru features on top of the design and slight color changes to avoid suspicion. Kind of like the saying "Lemme copy your homework but I won't be too obvious about it." Please also refer back to the May 2025 Incident tab, as it is very relevant to this situation specifically. I know copying/inspiration allegations are looked down upon but for a so-called "friend" to willingly commission a design they know looks extremely similar to one of mine that I was planning on getting put onto my actual model, really hurts especially after the way she treated me the year prior for this very thing.

Traits I believe Lewna has copied/heavy inspiration/recreated from my design are:

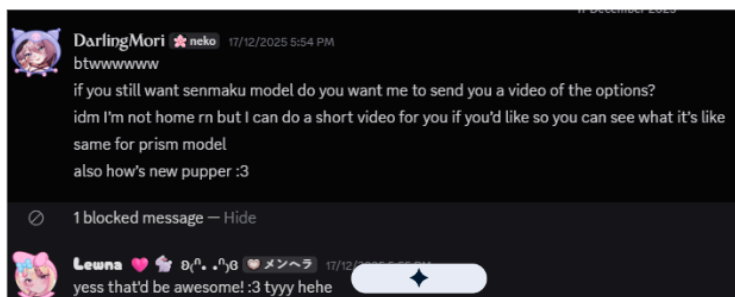

- Two layered frilly skirt with the underneath being a different color
- Pink bow on the center of the top
- Similar bra/top shape around the chest area (including frill like design) and placement
- similar shape cropping of the black top. It is the same length as the ones I have on both my gothic outfit and my comfy jirai inspired one.

- Double layered necklace, with one featuring pearls and the other being a long pendant
 - Socks/leg warmers with heart motifs on them
 - Fishnet stocking
 - Heart garter on leg (with buckle)
 - Pearl and heart hair pins
 - Chest on actual model is almost identical in shape (particularly the top) to my gothic catgirl design
 - Bow and heart motifs throughout the design

It's ridiculous I have to repeat, I have not, never have, never will take inspiration from Mori. I can't believe that anyone would believe a design of lets see, having bows and heart motifs throughout the design, having a skirt with.. Another layer.. A bow on a top.. Having a heart on your garter, having pearls in a design, I'm done listing and you get it. I'm tired.

NEXT SEGMENT:

overlaps and I feel uncomfortable, as by now this is the 2nd customisable model she has created a design that resembles myself, but is the 3rd she's expressed interest in. Back in December 2025, Lewna asked me about the Senmaku model, a model I had been using until I switched to the Lizmeta model, expressing interest in wanting to buy it. Lewna treats me in a way like I am an advertiser, wanting to see the model from me, when she could just look at the YouTube video showcase (which I link to her later). I find it odd her heavy interest in the model (given she's now expressed hard interest in 3 other models I've used in the same order) when she could just research herself. She shows disappointment too, when I offer to send her a video of the toggles but get too busy and forget about it for ages. I am unsure what her intention was here, but part of me worried she was possibly hoping to get it off me for free (as we were friends), which would be completely going against the Artist's TOS.

Mori thinks that me asking her if she likes the Senmaku model is wrong because I should just look at the YouTube video. But Mori wants me to talk to her about friend things - this IS friend things. SHE offers to ME - to make a video of the options. There is no discomfort being displayed here, or ever. Why would this conversation insinuate that I want it for free? It doesn't.

I find it weird how Lewna has used 3 customisable models in the exact same order as me as I purchased and used them: Senmaku, LizMeta, 2win. She didn't use the PRISM model weirdly but LizMeta came out at a similar time frame so I swapped fast. The reason I am a bit concerned about Lewna's behavior with these customisable models, is time and time again she finds a way to replicate my model design in them. For context, when I buy a customisable model, I use my own reference sheets to look back at as I make the model combination. I am literally referring to my OWN designs to make my customisations accurate, as the models were placeholders til I could afford my own custom one.

Lewna's weird copycat-like behavior severely worsened with the LizMeta model and became drastically far different to what she had with her custom model the year prior. I thankfully due to winning a giveaway had swapped to the 2win customisable, as I won it for free. It felt as though every time I changed models, Lewna would then copy me with the previous edition particularly with these customisable models and it made me feel super uncomfortable and freaked out.

Mori thinks I use the same 3 customisable models as her in this screenshot - the Senmaku, LizMeta, 2win models. I do not own the Senmaku model. Mori cannot get her facts right. I can't believe this is something you'd accuse someone of - owning publicly purchasable customisable models.

I have the LizMeta customisable model because lets see: MY DOG DIED!! I can't make this up. The LizMeta model was purchased so I could create a model with a design I had that honoured my passing pup. (It's really cute, it has her real life pink dyed ears, angel wings and halo lol) THE CREATOR of the LizMeta model recreated my character so I bought it cause I thought it looked cute, THAT'S IT! As for the 2win model, I have been a big fan of her work since I can remember (remember, I am an old Vtuber). I told my chat it's my dream model mama since years ago so they helped me get it. That's literally it.

As you can see, the LizMeta creator recreated my puppy angel design. I thought it was cute. I bought it 6 days after WHEN IT CAME OUT FOR THIS PURPOSE.

Explaining to my beloved artist I was looking for a design to honor my dog who passed, and I may not be able to afford the raised price and understood if I had to cancel the commission.

Colours:

For this design, I'd like your help choosing the colours! I'd like it to have a cute, comfy pink vibe! I usually either go with white and/or black too! My puppy had cream/white colours, so I'd like it to have her as part of the theme!! I'd like your help deciding how to go about it if that's okay! I would like to have her as an accessory, so things like her cute head could work, for example a clothing charm, hair accessory, etc! She's a fluffy cavoodle with pink ears! I think it'd be cute if my character had white fur and pink ombre hair/ears! Integrated as part of the design <3

References for overall vibe

I'm looking for a puppy angel design to honour my pupper in Heaven! Her breed is a cavoodle (Cavalier King Charles x Poodle) I've included my aesthetics + design references I like if you'd like inspiration!

- Details to have in the design: puppy ears, angel wings, puppy tail! Regarding the fashion style itself, I'd like your help choosing too! I typically like Jirai Kei, or general cutecore, but I think Lolita aspects can be cute too!
- Sexy aspect! Booba, and thighs easily visible (possibly tummy out too if it works?)

She is so cute. My OG. Miss her. Ma boi. (She's a girl)

Don't you also find it really weird how Lewna looks like a new person every time? Her branding and image and models are never consistent, it makes no sense to me as to why the constant back and forth and the constant shapeshifting narrative, rather than just sticking to something. Why not just be a bunnygirl? Why do the weird catgirl bunnygirl cowgirl succubus "succu-bunny" angel branding that always shifts in between, instead of being consistent? It's incredibly confusing for me alone trying to keep up with it, I can't imagine what her viewers must feel like seeing this constantly.

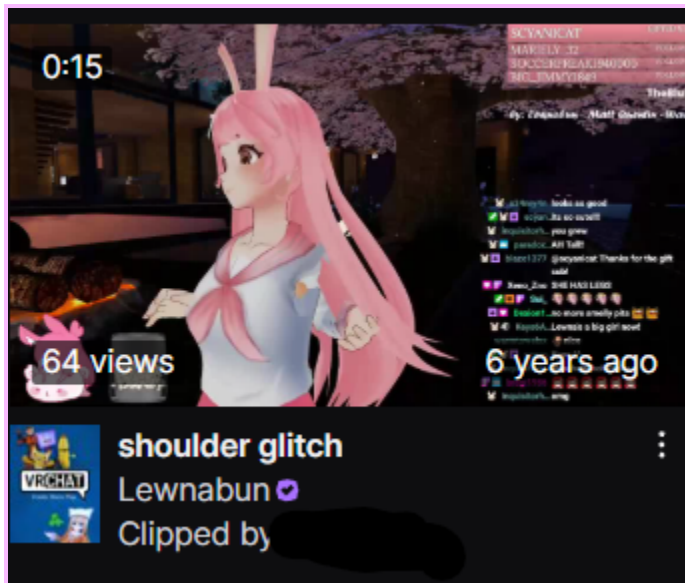

She questions why I don't "stick to something". It's because I have been a shapeshifter since I STARTED STREAMING! I feel like pulling my hair out. She calls me being a different animal girl on different days "weird" and says that my viewers must feel confused seeing this constantly directly insulting me and my branding. My viewers love it! It's what I do, and it's who I am and what I love! You are straight up just bullying me, it's disgusting. LEAVE ME ALONE! I am using a Vtuber clothing asset on the left image which is why I look different; I have had split hair dye IRL (left image), I curl my hair in ringlets/drills IRL and had a sailor uniform when I started streaming (right image). Mori thinks every single thing I do is calculated and cold. I'm just reflecting my model to look how I do IRL which is what I have always done, because it's fashion I LIKE IRL and online. Nothing I do has anything to do with you.

Here I am wearing the hairstyle on the left IRL in Japan in 2023.. which Mori claims I copied from her.

Me wear drills/ringlet ponytail hair. Okay? Me wear lots of Jfashion!

6 years ago pink bunny sailor uniform

On March 7th, Lewna uses the asset again with the same video replication as before, and it becomes a sort of “uniform” for her. This time, she is a catgirl with the customisable model she uses. Immediately I notice key traits being replicated here as well, my half up half down hairstyle (including the color), long side bangs, same styled face frame pieces, twin bows, cat ears, the asset being the same as the one from the week prior, and the format of the video is almost 1:1 to mine. The entire month Lewna does this, and every stream I notice the more and more her design slowly starts to morph into mine, even with the different customisable and premade models she uses. It was like she was a different person, drastically different from the VTuber she was only 2 months prior. Lewna of course, claims that she’s replicating “IRL Lewna” and makes excuses because of how she looked in 2022. But that’s how it felt, an excuse, whatever she could come up with that people would believe so that she could keep doing it. There’s only so many times you can make that excuse however, and I became incredibly uncomfortable witnessing this, feeling as though there was the possibility she was trialling how much she could copy me and what I would tolerate. It got so bad someone mentioned this to me that her sudden aesthetic and color change felt very out of the blue and didn’t make any sense. I got suspicious that her moderators may be monitoring me, due to the combination of these tweets and replication-like behaviour, as well as her mods who I hadn’t seen in months suddenly come back into my streams regularly like nothing happened. I felt something was amiss so I decided to trial something and ban her mod team and see what happened. If nothing odd was going on, they would just file an unban request when they noticed and I would realise they weren’t double-agenting like I suspected. What happened however, is that none of them filed for an unban request. NONE of them did. Instead I was DMed on Discord, Twitter, Fansly, as well as some of my | moderators being DMed as well. No unban requests were made by any of Lewna’s mods. The only person who requested an unban was GlouMoss but this was 2 months after a ban, and 2 months after he DMs me on Fansly of all platforms about it.

Yes I replicate IRL Lewna I don’t see how that’d be considered an ‘excuse’. See above, I have been doing these styles forever, it’s not mine, it’s not yours, it’s for everyone. My moderators are normal people who do not monitor anyone, they are confused because YOU BANNED THEM for literally no reason other than this imaginary beef you have with me.

DM segment

This is where I'll place evidence that people provide me in my DM's of strange behavior or statements they want to make directly to Mori! This can be updated!

MESSAGE 1:

Hi Lewna, I'm so sorry to see what happened to you just know that you're not alone.
And you're so so loved 🍷💜

Before I continue on.. I'd like to state that I would like to remain anonymous if that's okay? The last encounter I had with Darlingmori was quite traumatic for me. 🙈 and I want nothing further to do with her, but I'm happy to come forth and defend & support you as you're 1 of my oldest friends who I'm so extremely grateful to have met and to have in my life. I will forever support you! 💜
I would like to help put an end to this cycle and spread awareness on her behaviour.

Darlingmori/Darlingkitty has done the same repetitive behavioural pattern against myself and several other vtubers/streamers including my friends for countless years. She's been like this since she was solely a DBD streamer who did face cam streams, she was previously in a ton of drama within that community which is why she eventually ran and changed everything and rebranded as a pink catgirl vtuber and dropped face cam all together.

She then throughout the years copied several other vtubers myself included and would actively; stalk, spam follow/unfollow, block/unblock, drop google docs, spread lies and defamation to anyone vtuber she would encounter to the point if any vtuber she hung out with hung out with any person she disliked she would absolutely spiral, manipulate them, twisting the narrative to make herself look like the victim always.

She rebrands from what it seems like every couple of months anytime I've seen her pop up on my fyp I see a new branding.. And she all of a sudden has the right to claim owning cat girl and vampire traits? That are extremely common within this scene? When she is constantly/actively changing from a yandere, cat girl, then next a bunny girl then the next month a grim reaper porcelain doll vampire vtuber? Then the next a catgirl who "sometimes" shape shifts into a bunny vtuber. And now after commenting/hanging out with a certain backrooms vtuber now she wants to be a backrooms catgirl? We cannot be serious. And she knows damn right what I'm talking about.

She is blacklisted in several communities for several reasons. Mori please for goodness sake. give it up, we are all BEYOND tired of these childish games. Please go see a therapist and get the help you need.

MESSAGE 2:

Hi Lewna! Did you help DarlingMori set up her Ko-Fi commission page in the past? Because her commission names and descriptions are pretty much copied directly from yours. Just a weird thing I noticed for someone who seems so sensitive about being copied.

Thanks for bringing this to my attention! Yes, it does seem like she copied my Ko-Fi here. Same price, same ASMR time limit, same description, very similar title, and this was made back when I still had my old Jirai design as you can see from the images (around 2024)! She barely became a pink "jirai kei inspired" bunny girl recently. She has also copied individuals in the past by taking their about me section and their discord layouts so I'm not surprised! She never denied this in the past either after getting caught.

Here is a web archive showing her Ko-Fi page in September 2025, which shows that she didn't have these commissions set up.

Here is my first purchase receipt showing that this was commissioned from me in 2024.

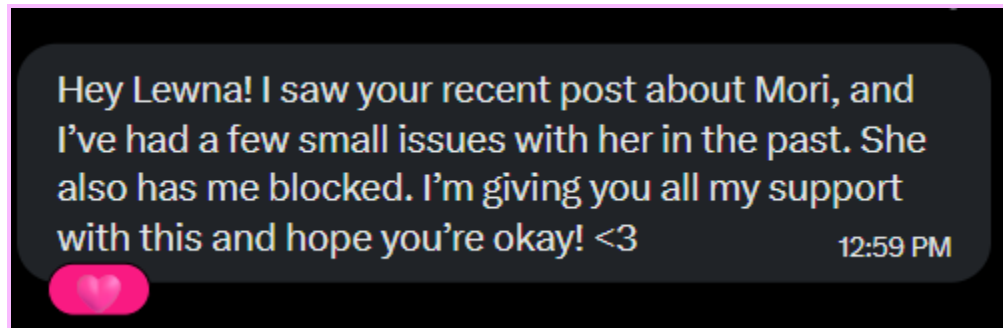

By the way, I got the nickname Darling from Zero-Two and have been doing 'darling, ohayo!' since 2021 lol. In case she accuses me of stealing even that!

Proof in 2021.. XD

MESSAGE 3:

I will also be providing the screenshot that was posted by a beloved friend. Mori enjoys going around to multiple people badmouthing me for apparently going after people for 'clout'. That word makes me cringe and the thought of using my chance to make rare genuine friendships in this space makes me disgusted. There's a reason why I've been here for so long - because I am nice, and the people in this community who are nice to me have kept me going. Anyone who talks to me (or goes and sees anything about me publicly) knows I never mention anything about viewership, growth etc. I would NEVER go around DMing people, policing who they should be friends with, I would NEVER do what she is doing. While Mori is DMing people and painting a picture of me when I haven't even met them, or gotten to know them, I am here thinking I hope that's not happening and keeping to myself LOL. Very different situations are happening here.

IMAGE BELOW

She says I give her “backhanded compliments” and it's me just calling her pretty. She has no proof of literally anything on me, because there is nothing to have on me. It is not normal behaviour to reach out to mutuals and badmouth people for no reason.

MESSAGE 4:

Hi Lewna! 💖

First of all, I just wanted to say I'm so sorry you've had to go through all of this with Mori. The way you've been portrayed, especially when you've only been kind, really isn't okay. You deserve so much better than having to deal with something like this.

Unfortunately, seeing everything unfold brought back a lot of my own experiences. When my friendship with Mori ended, I was also framed and villainised. There were false claims made about me, misinformation spread and even a document filled with things like people supposedly having "heard bad stories" about me. It was honestly really upsetting to go through.

Since then, I've also had to stay on guard because I've felt like I've been watched by members of her community and moderators. From what I've seen, I'm definitely not the only person who's experienced something similar.

More than anything though, I just wanted to reach out and let you know that I'm thinking of you. I can only imagine how difficult this must be but I hope you know you have so many people in your corner, myself included. Wishing you all the best while you recover from this and I really hope things get brighter for you soon. 💖

Yeeee I've been okie just dealing with confusing friend lmao

She's been crazy hot n cold with me lately and her bf like kinda mocked me in front of 1k people

So now I'm distancing cause ew

I found out she's debuting in March

I remember asking when she thought I should debut and she told me April for "more time" now ik it's cause she didn't want me to debut same month

Cringe asf

I raid her too like and boost her to 1k viewers I feel used

Lewnas been acting like this 4 times with me now

So it's not even a coincidence

It's a habit at this point

Idk wtf I did to deserve it tho

I'm nothing but nice to her oh damn its lewna?

DarlingMori

27/01/2026 06:13

Like I've gotten her expensive gifts for Christmas and bday cause I cared

Yuhhhh

She's been doing this thing where she's super sweet to me for like a month

Then she ignores my DMs and everything for months after

Acts really cold and disinterested unless it benefits her oh shit that sucks ;n; she did air one message from me but im not that fussed i figure alot of vtubers in asmr care about numbers, its a thing thats not even exclusive to vtubers like its everywhere so i wasnt fussed, it was nice to play overwatch with her once

wait no she didnt

my bad my memories lmao she did reply a day later (edited)

anyway yeah no that sucks im really sorry 💔

DarlingMori

What message did she say?

This DM history was between an anonymous party and Mori who approached me with their own poor experience. Mori would repeatedly bring me up to any Vtuber I ever associated with to bad mouth me to them, in an attempt to demonize me or ruin friendships. Mori would continuously ignore their messages while bringing me up and ranting about things I covered in my response and manipulating those that barely even know me or interact with me, into disliking me. As of now I am aware of at least 5 creators who have come forward with a similar experience as of this update. She calls me "cringe asf" when I didn't do anything to her but answer her question about when she should debut (she was asking ME for advice, as I have debuted multiple times, she stated!) She claims I wanted her to debut in April so that I could debut in March alone. (For context she told me her model was going to be finished mid March. I recommended her to debut in April because it usually takes a few weeks after getting a model to do a real debut like set up panels, get art, emotes, chat commands, pfp, branding, build up hype and more! She also applied for the front page, so April was perfect for her! That is a perfectly reasonable timeframe!) If I had to choose between randomly showing my new model in a stream in March or planning a debut for April, I would pick April every time! Continuing screenshots shows how the topic always stays about me, despite the other party discussing something else.

January 13, 2026

DarlingMori  13-Jan-26 4:19 PM
hey lewna can I ask your opinion? Cause you've debuted before a few times
I was just wondering if it was you what you would do: my rigger said she will be done mid March with my model but I wanna apply for front page for end of March. But there's the risk the rig might be delayed so it would be risky overall cause I have to apply by mid Feb for the slot
So would you still go ahead or would you just debut a new model in a normal asmr stream? Or would you wait til April to do a debut?
Also new puppy model is so cuteee I'm so happy you're able to have her come to life with the new lizmeta model
Models get so pricey when it's custom
Also I'm free to play rivals or league or whatever tomorrow or Friday

Lewna        13-Jan-26 6:06 PM
I would say waiting until April is probably for the best tbh, since it's your first custom and it's hype

Yeah it's been scary planning everything kek

Mori came to me for advice, I gave her advice. Oh ma lawd.

DarlingMori  18/03/2026 20:08

i have no fucking idea
i messaged
but i do not have good faith she will be receptive

What did u say to her?

DarlingMori  18/03/2026 20:09

apparently lewna told her mods "she didnt do anything and got banned/blocked by mori no explanation"

i mentioned prior i needed to talk to her but she didnt have to reply straight away could take her time and ik shes friends with lewna but we've noticed heavy stalking behaviour from lewna and its really unfair
then i showed her screenshots of her mods
+ the reference sheet thing
i'd show copycat stuff but idk if she will believe me i hope shes receptive and hears me out otherwise i lose another friend i knew it was weird that 3-4 of lewna's mods showed up to my chat randomly when my ccv skyrocketed like 2 weeks after i banned her

I'm praying for you Mori I hope the truth comes to light soon and that things will resolve in a way that's not taxing your health nor disrupting friendships 🙏❤️
You're doing your best and I'm proud of you for that 🥰

DarlingMori  18/03/2026 20:13

yeahh like

No matter what, things will turn out okay in the end and I know  is a lovely person I'm sure she will respond with a listening ear

DarlingMori  18/03/2026 20:13

i was so nice to lewna and she was manipulative and a bully (edited) its not like i was trying to start shit for no reason like im not the type to get jealous usually or insecure im usually really happy i can even go months without dm'ing a friend and its allg but lewna was really bad and her copying and stalking me kinda confirmed my worries

I'm really sorry to hear that girl, I know there's plenty of kind hearts out there 🥰

DarlingMori

DarlingMori 30/04/2026 01:13

Does it really :c

I can't tell if I'm just bitter but istg it does

My own mod mistook it for me i cant tell with the skirt and legs, but i can tell with the tank top and pigtails

DarlingMori 30/04/2026 01:14

Obviously with the colors it looks less like me but istg just change the color palette it's almost 1:1

It looks very close 1:1 skirt wise with the spoiler image I just sent

The actual design doesn't look as similar so I question the choices

I dmed lewna as well wips of my design

So she got first hand view on it yeah ;n;

DarlingMori 30/04/2026 01:19

Ewww

Ok if you think it's copying it probs is

I have several people saying it now so

Like the top hairstyle and skirt are SO close

Just a different color but the style and cut is almost identical

I paid someone for this design too

Like $300 for a custom OC

Posted it on Twitter

Like the top is cropped the same length and same bra type too

Just different sleeves

It's almost as if she combined my comfy outfit (no jacket) and my old design and then just changed the colors a little

She mentions stalking and copying allegations to everyone she DM's about me unprovoked, which I already covered and debunked throughout my document. Even after blocking me she would message my friends, my mutuals, and my community members about me while claiming I'm the one stalking her. She would watch my streams (she even admitted (in her doc) to watching the stream directly after she blocked me, all the way to my most recent stream 7 months later, a few days before her document to see how I was acting), share images of my private channels on discord, and involve individuals even if I've only talked to them a single time. All the while I haven't spoken about her to anyone, not even a single time! She even mentions that she is bitter about the situation. I never held gripes with her after she blocked me and I left her alone entirely. She also said her mod apparently "mistook my design" for her as a way to seek validation from the people she was messaging. I will leave a comparison below. They are not even close.

Mori thinks I am copying her hair style. I have had twintails in all of my designs again, since 2021 with my first Vtuber model, as well as earlier than that using a Vrchat model design for a while.

Lewna 2.0 🔗

Lewnabun updated her Vtuber avatar to a new look on the 7th of August 2021. The new OC dubbed Lewna 2.0 before reveal, is still a small, pink haired bunnygirl but has a number of big changes from the first OC. Lewnabun now has a twintailed hairstyle with black ribbons. Lewnabun has stated that these twintails can act as extra limbs. Her skin is now a tan colour and her eyes are pink with heartshaped pupils. Lewnabun's ears are larger than before and have more "floof". She also still wears her moon shaped momento hairclip.

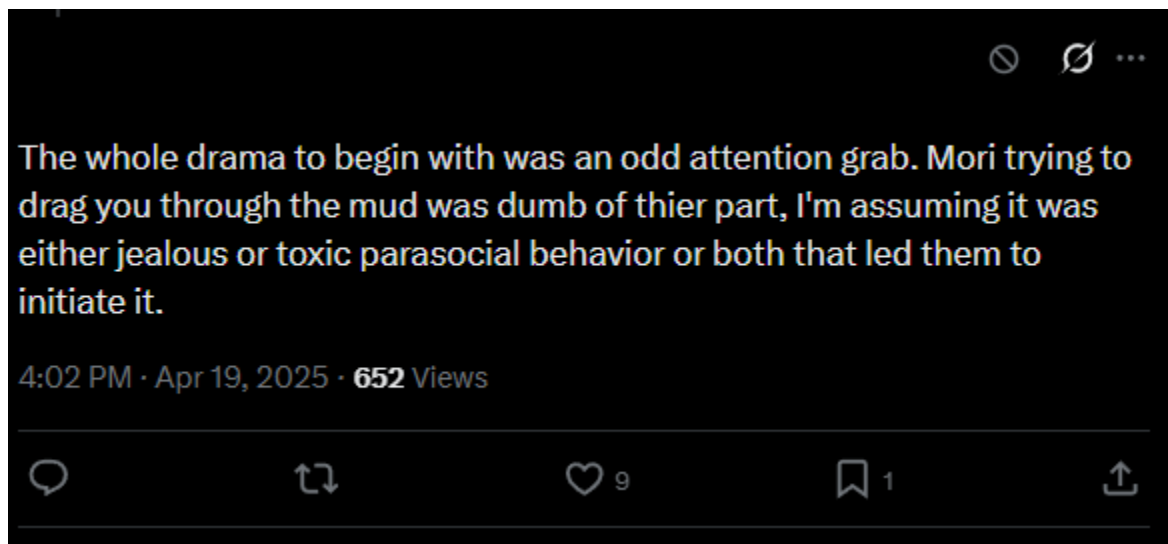

lewnabun 2.0

Not to mention, Mori's hairstyle is half up ponytails.

Social Media Posts about Previous Drama

Here are social media posts showing that this isn't the first time Mori has done this. She did this to others, she did this to me, and will do it again. I made that mistake by believing her. As you can tell, the situation is eerily similar to mine. And it was literally just last year, she does this often.

The Mod Situation

I am making a statement here that I have kept throughout this entire document, no, I never sent my mods as “double agents” to spy on her. I have never messaged her mods like she messages mine, she went through a whole stealth mission campaign to attempt to character assassinate me and I have no clue why. I will respond to the screenshots from the doc here:

On February 13th, a day prior to Lewna's Debut, GlouMoss, a moderator of hers, entered my chat typing a wave and classic emoticon. He says nothing else for the rest of the stream, but given he has been in my chat a handful of times I thought nothing of it. I found out much later that he knew I banned and blocked Lewna, as she had told her mods in mod chat in her Discord 30 mins after I did so, so he was coming to my streams with this knowledge. On Valentine's Day, February 14th (A day later), Lewna debuts etc. and I see the model, feel weird about it but choose to ignore it.

On February 21st, a week later, another moderator of Lewna's by the name of DragoMangos entered my chat with the comment "Who wants to scissor," while I was doing a scissors ASMR redeem at the time. A bit of a creepy comment to make especially out of the blue, as I had not seen Drago since Lewna's raid back in December 15th 2025.

12/15/2025
01:13 🐼 DragoMangos:
Good moooorning. I had to leave before
Lewna raided. So HI LEWNA RAID
01:13 🐼 DragoMangos:
Also my roommate asked "Who is the vixen on your computer"
01:13 🐼 DragoMangos:
Hullo it's been a hot minute

2/21/2026
22:06 🐼 DragoMangos:
22:08 🐼 DragoMangos:
Who wants to scissor?

7/31/2025
20:17 🐼 DragoMangos:
Oh wow it's DarlingMori wow wowie woo wow so lovely so amazing really cute really pretty nice booba nice bum, pretty voice, perfect woman/person (sorry unsure about if you mind being called woman now)

Now rereading these messages, it's very telling, at least with DragoMangos, what his intentions were. He had not been in my stream for over almost 5 months prior to Lewna raiding me, then disappeared for 2 months and came back like nothing happened, knowing I banned her and that she had requested her mods tell her if they "hear anything said about her." Drago is the same moderator and so-called "friend" who leaked to Lewna a year prior about the model incident (as you will remember), when I told him about it in confidence. It's interesting as well how fast he sexualised me on July 31st 2025 with my body and I am entirely unsure as to what the possible context was on stream to warrant such a comment like that from him. I believe based off the screenshot it was out of the blue, as it was his only message of that stream.

Here she sees two of my mods entering her stream on different days and they literally just say hi or talk like normal chatters, and thinks they must be my personal informants sent to spy on her. No, I have no control over these two and don't want to know anything about her. Also I do not control them or their behavior. She also admits that she knows what's going on in the inner workings of my mod chat, she says this directly that "she had told her mods in mod chat in her Discord 30 mins after I did so (blocking me)" So.. she says I have my mods spying on her.. When she is getting information from one of my mods from a private mod channel in my server? This is hypocritical. Mori is literally sending my ex-mod to spy on me in my own server and all she could find was me saying that I was blocked by her and to not mention her on stream, and nothing else. The irony. Mori dragging and naming innocent, random people into this again, imaginary beef she has with me, is weird.

Everything Mori says about my mods are just unsubstantiated rumours, she bans them for no reason, so they ask why are they banned? That is the ONLY reason they are confused. She even outs one of them subscribing to her Fansly, as if that would have something to do with me. That's disgusting to leak in the first place - how could she think that's okay??

Again, like Drago, Moss makes uncomfortable sexual comments and also makes “pink bnuy” comments, which I believe Lewna may have taken inspiration from later (in June 2026 as she adopts this nickname, yet I don't remember her ever going by this). You can see the dates sync up with Lewna's behaviour. Moss came into my stream on February 13th, a day before her debut, and 10 days after I banned and blocked her (knowing I did so), as if nothing happened. He comes in on March 3rd and 5th, the same days I have viral tweets, and yet again on March 5th, immediately sexualises me, without even saying how I am etc. I am not an object. Also on February 3rd, the day I unfollowed her, (hours before I banned) Moss makes more creepy unhinged comments “do you wike when daddy lets off his Alpha viwbes pwincess?” I make the “Oh pwincess” joke a lot because I call my female friends pwincess as a meme (we call each other that) so it felt weird for Moss to escalate it when I don't know him like that. He is not my friend, not my moderator, just a viewer. And for an ex-friend's mod to be behaving like this is creepy especially when he knows I cut all contact with her.

Unban request denied by darlingmori at 11:12 PM on 5/7/26. See more in Mod View with the Unban Request tool.

Mori talks about another one of my mods that watches her on their own time. I do not control my mods watching ASMR Vtubers that aren't me nor do I have any idea what they say in other chats, she can judge them but that's her chat not mine. They (and myself) had no idea why she blocked me, so they are living their lives normally. THAT is the reason why they are in her chat. Mori thinks I have multiple informants - again, I stress, I do not care about Mori. Mori blocked me and I moved on. She mentions that him calling me a pink bnuuy has to be stolen from her.. I've literally been a pink bnuuy for over 5 years now.

You can also see the date that he requests an unban is exactly 2 MONTHS later, on May 7th, something he should have done, arguably, sooner.

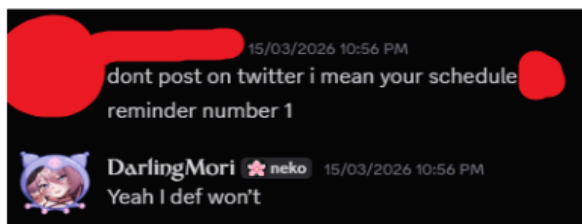

The above screenshot was provided to me by Anonymous, and you can see that Moss is the first person to respond to her comments about me. You can see here that Lewna requests them to tell her if they ever hear anything said about her "or something" and don't ask about her but if anyone says anything about her to them to "assume 99% of the time it will be false, all [she] does is play marvel rivals and stream" and that Lewna has "had issues with people lying about [her] in the past so that's why [she's] worried." A very odd and suspicious thing to be mentioning here, why would her first thought be that I am telling people something "false" about her behind her back? This here to me, is an admission of guilt on Lewna's part, she knows exactly why I cut her off and what she did wrong and is trying to change the narrative to make herself appear like the victim. All I did at this time was block and ban her so it's very telling that her immediate response is to suggest "Mori is a liar don't listen to a word she says." What exactly would I be lying about here? I have a theory she felt immense guilt for the May incident and realised she had proven her personality within those screenshots, and feared I would expose her so she tried to cover it up and influence people against me before I would tell people the truth about what happened.

Continuing on, another situation arises with Lewna. This time with a friend of mine and at the time very freshly made moderator. This friend had been a moderator since February 12th (give or take) but at the time had no idea what happened with Lewna. I initially kept it very private and only informed my closest mods, afraid it would get out before I had a chance to explain my experience with Lewna, and worried that if people found out before a document

She confirms my reason to be careful here. She says I'm sketchy for saying to "assume 99% of the time it will be false" about allegations or DM's made about me because.. I haven't done anything. I play games all week then I stream, I hang out with girly friends on the weekend sometimes, but I don't do any drama. It's all made up, she again projects onto me and makes quotes of things I never said. Her theory is that I felt "immense guilt". I feel guilt about nothing, her entire document is her just making shit up.

was made, she may try to spin the narrative and find a way to blame me for everything. So this friend tells me they requested an ASMR commission from Ko-Fi, and asked me if her DMs to them were an example of her fake persona on March 12th, as I informed them about Lewna very briefly prior. I had not at the time informed them about the copying, only the May 2025 Model Incident and showing all the proof, including what Lewna said to me and the screenshots she supplied. I have never asked my moderators ever to spy on Lewna, only what she did to me. When they asked if they should interact with her, I said "no, keep me out of it. I don't want to resort to her level of monitoring." The only exception to this is my best friend because she hates what Lewna has done and she wanted to see for herself Lewna's behaviour, as I doubted my feelings about it. It's because of this friend I realised I was right that Lewna was intentionally contesting and copying me, in an attempt to take my own branding and personality and try to do it better. Almost as if "whatever you do, I will always do better." This mentality is what I believe Lewna has always had towards me and her actions support it.

Now first of all, Lewna has no way of knowing my friend was modding for me as I had modded them AFTER I banned and blocked her. I decided to mod them believing I may need extra help as I felt bad that some of my moderators felt pressure to attend daily streams and wanted to have back up in case I needed it. The only way for Lewna to know my friend was a moderator is either by getting someone to spy on my streams on her behalf (as she is BANNED) or find a way to bypass the ban herself and stalk my VODs and streams (as their name would show up in the chat history of the VOD). At the time my VODs were not locked under sub only so either theory is plausible here. I have nothing to do with this commission, as my friend can do whatever they want with their money so I ask to not be involved, as I wanted nothing to do with Lewna and I did not want to be hypocritical by doing the same thing she did to me, back at her. Fighting fire with fire never gets any positive resolution and it only makes matters worse. This friend also suggests I don't post my schedule publicly due to Lewna's evidence of possibly intentionally trying to contest me, so I stop making schedule tweets, and tell people only my Discord will have my proper schedule.

On March 9th, Lewna's ex-mod DMs me on Twitter about the situation (after I banned them) however I don't see it until March 17th. I had felt guilty for banning them when we banned all of her mods and anyone suspicious from her community from my stream, as they had been a VIP, regular of my community and sub gifter. So I felt there was no way they'd be willing to act as a double agent of sorts on Lewna's behalf and do all that: many people don't want to do things as soon as money gets involved, and spying on a streamer and giving them money to do so sounds very counterintuitive. So my gut told me that maybe this person (who I also considered a friend) was an outlier. Without me even saying a word about Lewna, Lewna's ex-mod brings her up themselves, mentioning if I banned them because of Lewna, saying "If it's to do with my affiliation with Lewna however, I completely understand and I respect it. Honestly I have no idea what the beef is between you two. I'd obviously been told little

Here is just more made up scenarios and projection. She is talking about me all this time to a bunch of different people I don't even know who or about what. She says her friend doesn't want to "resort to her level of monitoring" so obviously she groomed this person into thinking I'm a crazy stalker when I don't care about her. She has literally zero proof of anything so she just types long paragraphs saying I do things without showing it, meanwhile is talking about monitoring me and "testing" me from the shadows.. Yeah, I'm not the stalker xD She says I was attempting to take her branding and personality and was trying to “do it better”. More insecurity, more projection. I have been the same as I have always been, nothing about her changed anything about me besides my anxiety, Mori scares me. This behavior is genuinely dangerous, and I severely recommend therapy. She again says she trusts one of my ex mods isn't a, and I quote, “double agent”. This girl really thinks this is a James Bond movie. That same “ex mod” is the person who apologized to me after she released her doc and realized Mori was lying all along btw. I'll repost it here.

I've been sitting here trying to think of what to say for so long... But honestly what I did was inexcusable and honestly completely out of character for me.

I am sorry for what I did. Incredibly sorry for what I did.

I realised what I did very quickly after I actively participated in what she had going on was wrong. But she painted it in such a way that made it so believable and I stupidly believed it.

After I realised what I'd done. I didn't know how or what to do in this instance. I was kinda scared to come to you about it and I honestly don't know why. I should have come to you immediately as soon as she tried to message me and say hey, im getting this what's going on...

But I couldn't. I just couldn't do it.

And for that I'm sorry.

I feel absolutely terrible, and I deserve to feel terrible. I hurt you. I hurt you hard.

Like I KNOW you're legitimate, you've always been legitimate. You've never put a foot wrong and I just stupidly believed her lies at the drop of a hat...

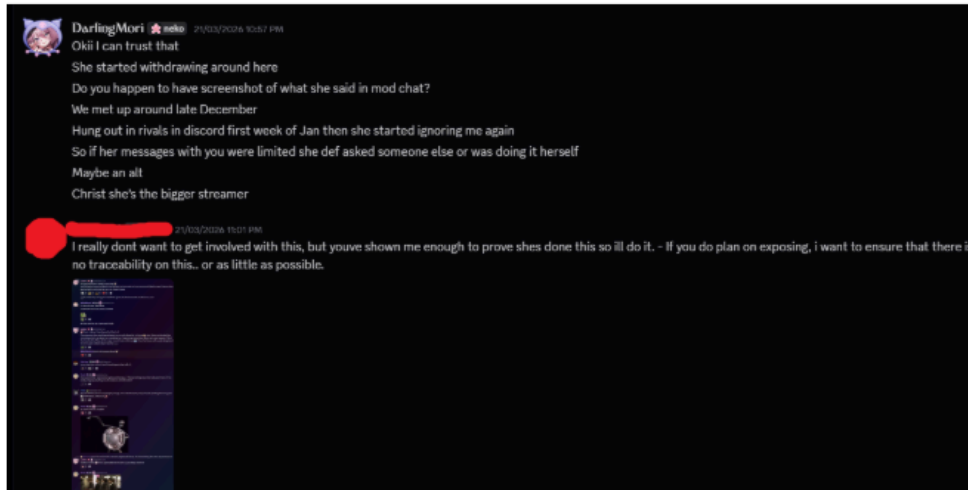

I completely understand if you just want to forget me. I made a huge mistake and I shattered your trust. Something looking back now I wish I didn't do. I was easily swayed by someone I didn't even know as well as you nor for as long and it's not acceptable.

I'm really sorry. Whether you believe it or not. I really am. If you would like me to step away, or remove me from everything. I completely understand and respect your decision.

From the bottom of my heart.

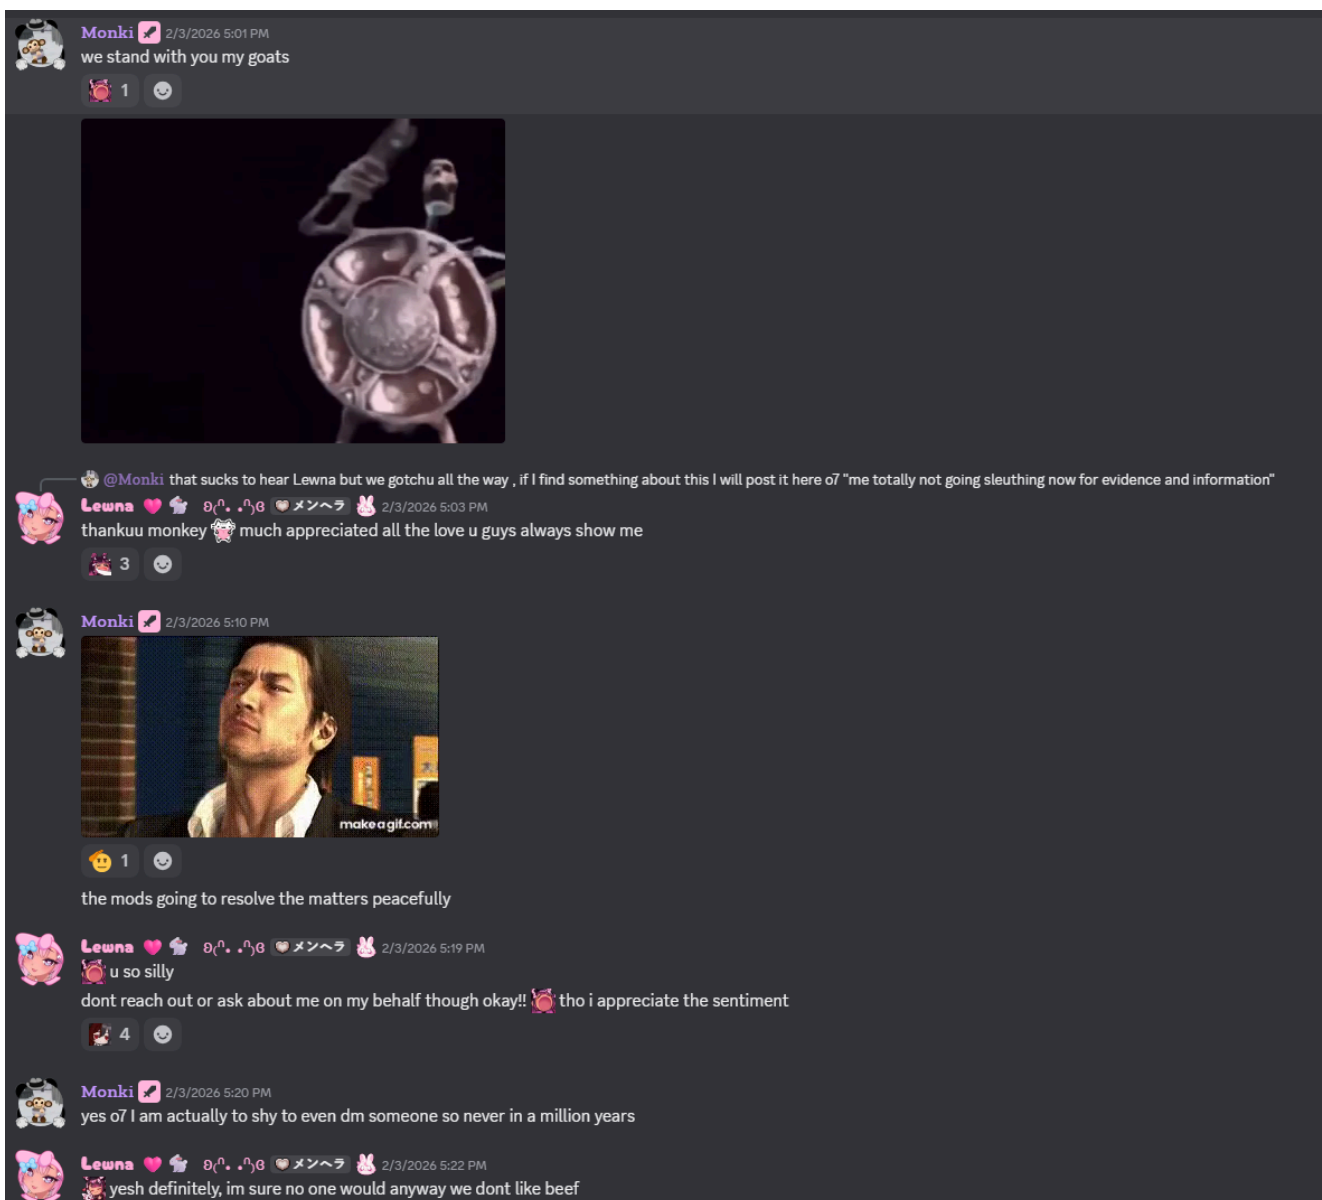

I am sorry for hurting you.

Ex-mod shows me Discord logs between them and Lewna showing nothing involving me was mentioned via DM, the last thing they spoke about was Pax and I believe this off the image I am sent.

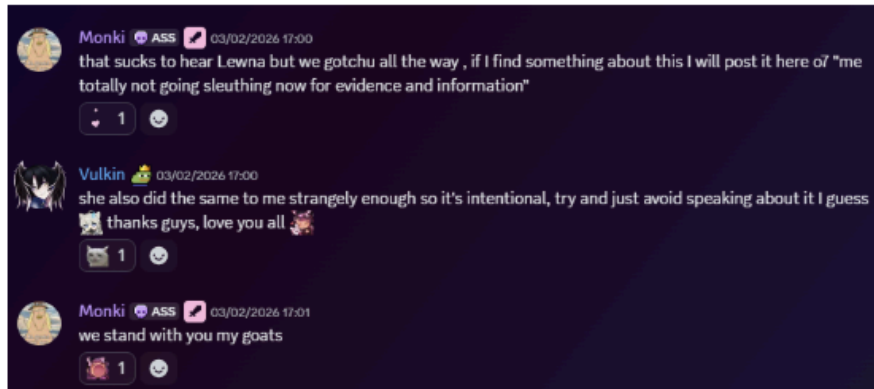

They show me Lewna's full moderator logs from her Discord and I am absolutely appalled at what I read. A moderator of hers by the name of Monki, comments he will go and spy on her behalf "me totally not going sleuthing now for evidence and information" and she doesn't shut it down, saying "thankuu monkey much appreciated all the love u guys always show me" where Monki comments "the mods are going to resolve the matters peacefully" and Lewna finds this funny saying "u so silly." She then expresses not to reach out on her behalf, but doesn't tell them to not spy on me. Monki btw, has never been in my stream ever, I do not recognise their username at all. This suggests to me this is what Lewna wants, she wants them to spy and report everything to her even if it's not related to her whatsoever, and by extension possibly, my debut plans, things I tell my community, sensitive information possibly about my health that I share, or personal information I tell my community, and monitor my every move. Why? Because it would impact me mentally, scare me into quitting streaming and she would no longer have me as her so-called "threat." And also to influence others against me so I am heavily isolated. She popped off many times throughout February to July. I contemplated should I just quit streaming and I asked myself many times, if maybe this was just what I deserved, that maybe I was the problem despite not understanding whatsoever what I did wrong.

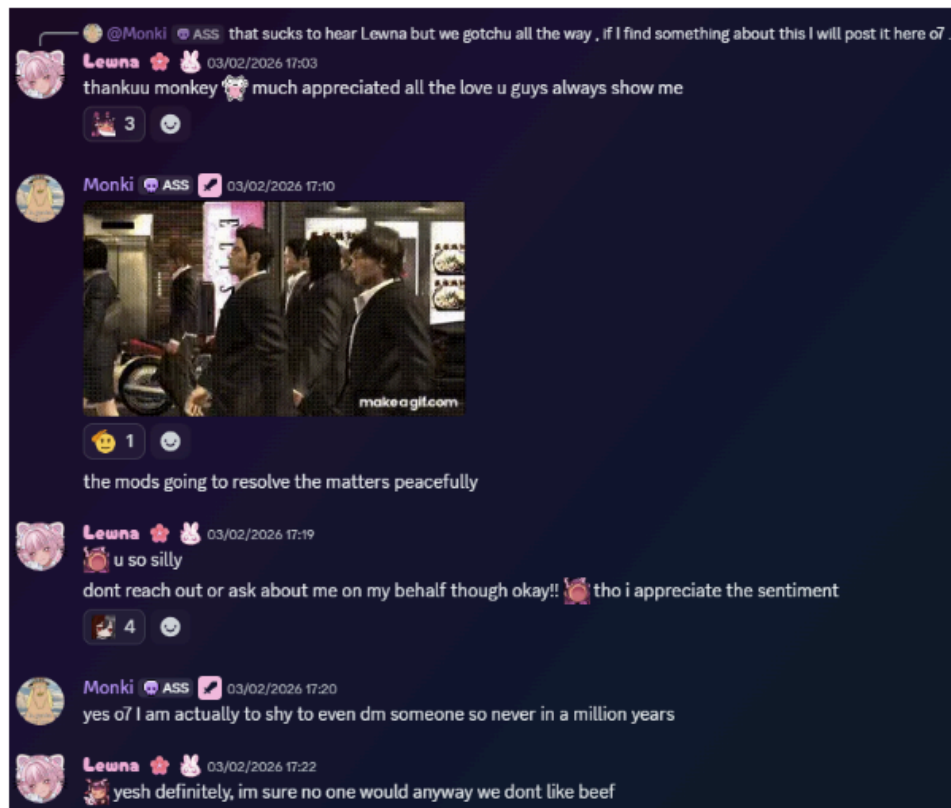

Here my ex mod leaks the super evil scary DM's in the mod chat on the day she blocked me. And it's my mods making funny jokes trying to cheer me up xD I will post them here!

Monki is.. To be blunt.. A silly guy. He talks mostly in yakuza gifs, but he only comes to my stream once every month maybe at best? I love him to death though he is hilarious and there for me throughout the hard times, and it's insane to think that this is something to be taken seriously and shows that he is my personal double agent xD My friend had just blocked me on all platforms. Are you seriously telling me that a guy sending an oblivion skeleton and yakuza gif is someone potentially spying on her to learn about her health, personal information, and is monitoring her every move? He doesn't even monitor my chat!! LOL. I feel so bad for my beloved mods being name dropped for literally no reason. I love them and stand by them. He is joking to make me smile. Because they know I am not a weird monitoring person bruh.

Important mention here: Vulkin was not banned or blocked here, he was only banned on Twitch. I actually completely forgot to block him on Twitter and Discord (as I forgot I had him there) so we were still friends there on Discord for 2 or more weeks. Vulkin had several opportunities to contact me and ask me what was up and why I blocked and banned them but didn't. I believe likely cause I absolutely would've screenshotted his message if he tried and he knew he was guilty for enabling Lewna. I find it weird he claims to Lewna's other mods that I did the same thing to him (blocking and banning) when I only banned on Twitch so he wouldn't show up in my chat as I lack the mental health to want to deal with this situation in my own stream in front of hundreds of viewers.

(Keep in mind, these screenshots she has are from my PRIVATE MOD CHAT in my discord server, that she is casually just posting as if that isn't an invasion of privacy)

Here she says "erm actually" that she only blocked Vulkin on Twitch and that he could have reached out to her on Discord. Why would he want to reach out to his girlfriend's ex-friend that just blocked her? She claims he feels "guilty for enabling Lewna" projecting that onto him, well here is his only statement:

Hello! This is Vulkin! The only guilt I harbor in my heart is the guilt of not seeing how unhealthy Mori's mental state was and standing by while she talked behind Lewna's back, stalked her, and harassed us. I have no guilt about my partner. Lewna is amazing, kind, and the truest soul I have ever met. She would never even hurt a fly, and the fact that Mori created an entire document theory crafted on her own malicious mind is repulsive.

snippets here and there. But I just thought things could be separate and I could still be a member of your community. I'm not the kind of person who spies and goes running back if things happen."

I am a quite confused as to why I'm suddenly removed and banned from everything.

I however am not going to come on here and be rude or complain or be angry, because that isn't me.

If it's to do with my affiliation with lewna however. I completely understand and I respect it. Honestly I have no idea what the beef is between you two. I'd obviously been told little snippets here and there. But I just thought things could be separate and I could still be a member of your community. I'm not the kind of person who spies and goes running back if things happen.

I just wanted to be a supportive person for your journey and that was it.

If it's not that and I've done something else that I'm possibly not aware of or something that has upset you. First of all I'm sorry. But I'd also like to at least know what I had done if anything. Because I really don't know.

Either way. I respect your decision and I understand that you must have a reason for it, and for that I still wish you all the best on your debut and hope that you continue growing and becoming better and better.

I am genuinely proud of you still. Keep it up. You're doing great.

Kind Regards,

1:27 PM

I didn't see your request due to dm flooding so I apologise. And yeah it's due to modding for lewna. There's been very heavy privacy concerns so we banned all her mods. She has been displaying very concerning behaviour. I don't want to get too into it but I removed her off everything due to this, as well as her incredibly toxic attitude towards me, including treating me more as a rival than a friend. I didn't want to put up with it so I cut her off. I am happy to unban you and treat you as normal (and give you vip back) but idk if the same can be said for her other mods. I was really sad at the time to have to ban you to begin with cause I enjoyed having you in my community. Just had an identical situation as this previously so trying to protect my community from toxicity

6:15 PM

ation is now end-to-end encrypted

It wasn't that you did anything wrong per se we got worried after dragomangos suddenly reappeared after 6 months + linked with her toxicity kinda said a narrative. I'm sorry you got lumped into it

However it does confirm my theory that she has in fact asked people to go in and run back info :/

Which is really stalkerish imo

Without me even prompting them, they admit this and it immediately confirms my suspicions, Lewna had been asking her mods and likely close friends to report back to her about me and heavily monitor me on her behalf, as she was banned from my chat and wouldn't be able to do so herself without bypassing the ban or exposing herself. Ex-mod immediately believed I cut them off because of Lewna and showed me that Lewna was essentially violating my boundaries, by telling her mods that "anything they hear about her would be 99% false," and encouraging them to spy on and monitor me. I knew then that Lewna was likely plotting and decided to test her ex-mod and see if I could find out what they knew, so I could know about the situation I was in more clearly. I suspected Lewna was trying to slowly create a narrative behind the scenes and would eventually attempt to possibly do a call-out post or ruin my reputation by lying about the May incident (or more), believing I would have no evidence to defend myself and therefore easily ruin my career. Even if this isn't her intention, it's not hard to believe it's something she's capable of is it?

Here she says that they admit something apparently, and it's the same thing she already got my mod to tell her about behind my back that if someone hears something about me its most likely false. Because well.. Even this is false lol. All I've ever asked is a few people I care about to let me know if someone is spreading something about me, no names. Guess what was happening! You were spreading rumours about me!

She mentions me plotting and testing mods again yada yada yada she thinks I'm creating a narrative, I don't care about you. You are creating a narrative in your own doc about yourself. Regardless, I have nothing more to say about this. It's obvious she mentally thinks she is being gang stalked and unfortunately probably no one can help her. No matter what I say or do she'll continue thinking this until she moves on to the next person she does this to in a year from now. Her own doc is an admission of guilt, the evidence is provided by her. I don't know how many times I have to say I do not care about her, or want to know anything about her. It's insane someone was capable of making an over 100 page doc over PURE VIBES. Nothing more, no evidence of anything, just a lot of "i have a feeling".

To Conclude

To conclude

Thank you for reading through my damn google dockey, it's been an exhausting few days. This whole situation to me is ridiculous, hence why some of my tone is in a laughing manner. It's not a funny situation at all, and I take it extremely seriously, I am using humour to cope mentally. Mori's entire doc is essentially me supposedly being 'fake' nice. Guys, I don't know about you but I think we have better things to worry about than someone being nice. I'd rather not spend my time literally crying, shaking and panic attacking over a false narrative written about me, but I have to let the public know of Mori's repetitive behaviour, because it's not fair to randomly drop a google doc on me, claiming 'enough is enough' then stalking and defaming me, harassing and involving multiple Vtubers in the community in the process. It's not fair that she's doing it again to me, and will to another. My anxiety is at an all time high, I feel sick and nauseous, all over things that she supposedly felt during our entire friendship, which could have been solved with a private talk. My stomach hurts, I'm barely eating which has never happened before lol.

Mori, you need help. And I truly mean that in the sincerest way. This is not normal behaviour and you have developed a story in your head about me. All I ever did was be your friend, and even now I do not have hatred toward you. I am just sick, tired and nauseous. You dropped your doc when I got home after a lovely day with my friends at night, it turned into crying and sadness! Please, talk to a professional about this because it is destroying friendships, community and love. I know after this I'll definitely need to talk to someone, my parents and family are worried sick about me because of all this hatred you have over me and your behaviour. If you ever cared about me, you'd stop. Stop talking about me - to random people in private, and to the public for no reason.

And this is my oath, and something that I never did and will never do. I WILL NEVER AND HAVE NEVER SENT/SEND MY MODS TO "gather information" ABOUT YOU. I HAVE NEVER AND WILL NEVER COPY YOU, YOUR TWEETS, YOUR DESIGNS OR ANYTHING YOU CREATE. I have zero interest in seeing you or anything you create ever again, please somehow try to find peace and stay out of my life.

Reader, thank you for your time. I'm sorry if you lost hair over this.
