

This Paper Boat
by Ted Kooser

Carefully placed upon the future, it tips from the breeze and skims away, frail thing of words, this valentine, so far to sail. And if you find it caught in the reeds, its message blurred, the thought that you are holding it a moment is enough for me.