§A: Discord Rules

§A-1: General Rules

Abuse - Abuse to anyone will result in timeouts, kicks or bans.

At the instant that this occurs an admin is required to assess the severity of the incident and proceed with what they think is necessary.

(Abuse includes Harassment and Bullying of members.)

Anti-Pride / Anti-Furry (Homophobia, etc) - This one should be extremely easy to understand.

We do not allow any form of unequalness.

Instant Ban

\ up to Admins to decide if this is appealable.*

Ban Evasion - When a user receives a Ban it should be appealed if possible. Unappealable bans are caused by repeated or serious violations of these rules. Users who use another account to bypass or “Evade” these Bans are violating this rule.

The table below shows the outcomes for if an Evading account is used while the offending account is still banned.

|  | Temporary Ban   | Permanent Ban                                       |
|--|---|---|
| Offending Account(initial offending account) | The initial offending account will receive a ban extension. | The initial account will remain banned.             |
| Evading Accounts(owned by the offender).     | Will be permanently banned.                                 | Will be permanently banned. (if not banned already) |

Discrimination - Discriminatory topics/behavior is prohibited.

Admins are required to proceed with kicks or bans

\ up to Admins to decide if this is appealable.*

Doxing - Revealing people's private information, such as addresses, names, ages, schools, etc (which has not been shared publicly by the owner of the info) is not allowed.

At the instant that this occurs an Admin is required to assess the severity of the incident and proceed with what they think is necessary. Do not use Timeouts in this case.

Heated Topics - Topics that are causing disruption or arguments will be shut down by Admins.

Anyone who makes a continuation of it will receive a timeout. After a continuation of the topic, it is up to an Admin to choose what would be necessary to handle the situation.

\ In severe cases, failure to shutdown a topic may result in the incident being reviewed for violation of the Abuse rule.*

What is Mini-modding?

Mini-modding is when there is an issue with a certain individual or group and a users will try to fix the issue on their own instead of informing a staff member (i.e. Admins).

§C-2: Dispute Agreement

From July 29th 2024 at 12:00 PM (noon) AEST and onwards the Dispute Agreement has been part of the policies, anyone who is part of " The Channel Family " must follow this agreement.

The Dispute Agreement

Efficient: 23/06/2025 at 12:00 AM AEST

Whenever possible it is required for a member of " The Channel Family " to express an issue (here defined as a 'dispute') in private, whether it be via Email or via Discord.

Viewers are not affected by this agreement as this only applies to people in " The Channel Family ".

In the case of a Collaborative group, if the owner is in " The Channel Family " they are responsible for the members of the group towards this policy.

EXAMPLE A: An individual who is in " The Channel Family " publicly expresses a 'dispute' they have with The Bailz Channel. This would result in a violation of this agreement, in which, punishment may occur.

EXAMPLE B: A 'other defined channel' or viewer of The Bailz Channel makes a 'dispute' publicly. This would result in either the issue being addressed in a post, requested of take down (using any methods available), or ignored. This cannot cause a violation of this agreement.

EXAMPLE C: An individual who is in a Collaboration group which is owned by a person who is in " The Channel Family " and, in which, The Bailz Channel is present, makes a 'dispute' publicly. If the dispute remains up after the owner of the collaboration group has been notified, the owner is at fault for the failure of the group's compliance. However, there is a possibility for a member of the group to be in failure of compliance.
