

In the 19th century, in the town of Andoain, there lived a very pretty woman. Her name was Patricia and she was 15. She had a very poor family and she lived in a very small house, she didn't have any brothers or sisters. When she was 7 her father assassinated her mother and then he abandoned her in the street. She had a very hard life.

Patricia was in the street begging for money and one old and rich man with a big stick gave to her money to bought something to ate. Later Patricia went to the shop and she bought a bread and a coffee to drink. When the shopkeeper saw that Patricia was very poor decided to gave to her a job in his shop an aslo he invited Patricia to stay at his house.

When Patricia arrived at the shop keeper's house, at first she was frightened but when she saw that that man was very kind with her she accepted the job, and she tried to be the best worker that he ever had. Some days after she started working and earning a bit of money, her boss asked her if she wanted to live in his house, but with one condition, she had to marry him.

Patricia spend all the night thinking. If she married with her boss continued living in her house but Patricia didn't loved her boss, she loved another boy called Edward, he was boy of 27 years and he was baker in a little shop. Patricia meet one day when she went to buy bread. It was love at first sight.

One day when she was working, Edward went to the Cafe and when he saw to Patricia, he kiss to her, and the boss saw to them, so, her boss give the suck. Then Edward, invited Patricia to go to his house. They past all the night speaking about their lives and the situation of the bakers. Suddenly, when Edward's parents arrived to their house, they saw that Edward was with Patricia in his bed and they got angry. Then they throw Patricia out.

Patricia got terribly disappointed about the situation. She lasted many days assimilating what had happened. After it, Patricia decided to get a conversation with Edward's parents, to speak the decision they took some days ago. Patricia conversed with fluency indicating that she was a girl with clear ideas in her mind. And obviously she explained them that Edward was the boy of her life.

Finally Edward's parents accept to Patricia like a girl friend of Edward, but with one condition, she had to be sincere with him. Patricia accept the condition and she was very happy. The next day, Edward called to her to meet because he wanted to speak with her seriously, and Patricia started getting nervous. Then she went to bed and she started thinking what would be that serious thing that Edward was going to tell her.

The day came and Edward was waiting for her. Patricia thought that he was going to tell a bad thing but it was the opposite, Edward told her if she wanted to marry him and when they married going to Germany because he had big investments on that country. Patricia very happy said yes, so after a month, they married and they went to Germany to live.
