Marcus High School is proud to announce Henry Garza as the new head coach of the Marcus Tennis program. Coach Garza joins the Marauders from Northwest ISD, where he has served as head tennis coach at Northwest High School and, most recently, Byron Nelson High School.

Coach Garza brings more than two decades of coaching experience to the role. Over a ten-year tenure as head tennis coach and Spanish teacher at The Woodlands College Park High School in Conroe ISD, he built the program from the ground up — growing participation to 80 active players, winning district titles five times, and reaching team regional finals three years in a row. His teams produced 21 individual district champions and two state champions, and he helped guide 15 players on to compete in college tennis, including several at the Division I level. He also previously served as head tennis coach at Humble High School, where he grew the program from 36 to more than 100 participants in just two years.

Coach Garza holds a Bachelor of Arts in Kinesiology from Sam Houston State University and a Master's in Administration from Lamar University.

We are excited about this next chapter for our program under Coach Garza's leadership, and we thank you for the support you continue to show our students, coaches, and the Marauder community.
