Time: 9 AM EST

Marketplace: Warriorplus

Why ChromaDraft Is Easy to Promote

ChromaDraft doesn't promise overnight success.
It doesn't rely on hype.
And it doesn't ask people to "believe."

It simply solves a real, painful problem your audience already has:

"I have ideas... but I don't know how to turn them into sellable coloring pages."

That makes it:

- Easy to explain
- Easy to trust
- Easy to recommend

No hype detox required.

What Is ChromaDraft? (Quick Version)

ChromaDraft is a prompt-architecture app that turns simple ideas into professional, AI-ready coloring page prompts.

It's not an image generator.

It's the thinking layer that:

- Improves output quality
- Makes pages printable
- Helps users create books (not random pages)
- Works with any AI image generator

This is what lets beginners feel confident enough to actually publish.

Why This Will Convert in 2025–2026

A few important shifts are happening:

- AI image tools are mainstream
- Digital product creators are growing fast
- Coloring books & printables continue to sell
- Most people still don't know how to do this properly

ChromaDraft sits right at the intersection of:

AI + digital products + beginner-friendly execution

That's why this offer works.

Who This Is Perfect For

Your audience includes:

- Side-hustlers
- Etsy sellers
- KDP publishers
- AI-curious beginners
- Creators stuck at the "idea stage"

They don't want another course.

They want something that makes progress feel possible.

- Public recognition for top partners

This isn't about spammy blasts —
it's about thoughtful promotion to the right people.

Promotion Angles That Work Best

You don't need to oversell.

These angles convert naturally:

- "The part of coloring books nobody explains"
- "Why most AI coloring pages don't sell"
- "How people are quietly preparing for 2026"
- "From idea → product → upload"
- "A smarter way to use AI for digital products"

Story-based emails perform extremely well here.

LWhat We Ask From You

Just this:

- Promote with honesty
- Speak to your audience like adults
- Share why this makes sense now

We'll handle:

- The sales page
- The onboarding
- The product delivery
- The customer experience

Final Thought

ChromaDraft isn't loud.

But it's sticky.

It's the kind of tool people:

- Use repeatedly
- Build businesses around
- Talk about quietly

Which makes it exactly the kind of offer that performs well over time.

If you're looking for something:

- Useful
- Trustworthy
- And aligned with where online business is going in 2026

We'd love to partner with you.

Let's build something that lasts.

✉ Swipe Email 1 — The “Quiet Realization” Story

(Best for first mention / soft intro)

Hey,

I was looking into coloring books recently — not the finished ones, but how people actually create them.

And I noticed something interesting.

Most people don't fail because they lack ideas.

They fail because they don't know how to turn an idea into a sellable page.

They'll type something like “cute animals” into an AI image tool...

get something that looks okay...

and then quietly realize they wouldn't actually print or sell it.

That gap — between idea and product — is where most people stop.

That's why ChromaDraft caught my attention.

It doesn't generate images.

It doesn't try to replace creativity.

It does the thinking before the image.

You give it a simple idea, and it turns it into a proper coloring-page prompt — the kind that produces clean, printable, book-ready results.

If you've ever thought:

“I could do this... if I just knew how to start properly,”

This is worth a look.

✉️ Swipe Email 2 — The “Why Now” Angle

(Great for momentum + future pacing)

Hey,

Here's something worth thinking about.

By January 2026, a lot of people are going to suddenly decide they want:

- An AI side hustle
- A digital product
- A coloring book business

Most of them will start then.

The people who actually do well won't.

They'll already have:

- Pages created
- Niches tested
- Products uploaded

I've been looking at tools that make that early stage easier — and ChromaDraft stands out.

It helps you turn simple ideas into structured coloring-page prompts you can use with any AI image generator.

No design background.

No guessing.

No endless trial and error.

Just a calmer, more intentional way to build.

If coloring pages or books are even slightly on your radar, this is the kind of thing you check out early — not later.

✉️ Swipe Email 3 — The “I’m Not a Designer” Objection

(Handles fear + self-doubt)

Hey,

Quick reassurance if you've ever thought this:

"I'm not a designer — so this probably isn't for me."

That's actually who ChromaDraft was built for.

You don't need to draw.

You don't need design software.

You don't need to understand prompt engineering.

If you can describe an idea in words, ChromaDraft turns it into a clear, structured prompt designed for coloring pages.

It's less about talent... and more about removing confusion.

That's what makes it interesting.

It doesn't promise overnight success — it just makes starting feel doable.

And honestly, that's the hardest part for most people.

📧 Swipe Email 4 — The "Quiet Recommendation" Close

(Great as a final nudge)

Hey,

One last thought.

ChromaDraft isn't one of those tools that screams for attention.

It's quiet.

Practical.

And surprisingly helpful if you're stuck at the idea stage.

It helps you move from:

"I might do this someday..."

to:

"I could actually build this."

If you're curious about selling coloring pages or books — on Etsy, Amazon KDP, or your own store — this is one of those tools that makes sense to explore before things get noisy.

No rush.

Just worth knowing it exists.
