Pre-War Oklahoma

While nuclear energy was at its peak and the war for oil was raging on in China and Alaska, The United States was desperately trying to keep up with demand for energy . New forms of power are starting to surge like the grassy plains of Oklahoma becoming the epicenter of clean non nuclear energy. The native american population was one of the most ethnicity in oklahoma next to immigrants as far as south america and as close as mexico, The government of oklahoma was run like that found in washington D.C but the members of this cabinet were just members of all major native american tribes found in oklahoma. The Oklahoman government was not just gonna sit by and try to get by with the oil they were producing and with unemployment every this was their chance to start to build factories and hire engineers from neighboring states. A few years before the bombs rained from the sky Oklahoma became one of few states that was seems as non-lethal to the comunist party but was still hit by a small but deadly nuclear bomb. It was just a bit more powerful than the fatman the bomb dropped on japan. This bomb was dropped on the Oklahoma Capital Oklahoma City, The Oklahoman Capital was just a regular city but inside the oklahoma state capitol building there was an entrance to a special public vault made the by the oklahoma government after hearing rumors about vault-tec's vaults containing secreted experiments being implemented in their vaults. However this vault was not exactly public. There was a list of people already made of just a little over 1k. This list was made up of mostly scientists,engineers,and military personnel. This vault was a carbon copy of vault-tec's vault. The method they used to find out how to build this vault was by sending undercover agents to work on construction sites and collect information on the material used and what safety precautions to use. Oklahoma like every other state had vaults built but only 4 were finished vaults. 122,98,99,105

Post-War

Since the bombs have fallen there have been many groups of people that currently habits the old world state. The Junction, this group is made up of the remnants of the institute and the railroad. Their mission was to regroup any other surviving synths and railroad and try to find the greatest defense that the old world state had to offer. The East Brotherhood was also in the region because they have decided to move to the west to see how well the Brotherhood East is doing. As the same with the East they are moving to the West to show how better they were doing where both leads to Oklahoma little they did know there is a secret signal the same one that Junktion was also following for a long time. Caesar legion is camping out in the panhandle after they lost the second battle. Where near the panhandle were the famers. They came from a vault that their own government made. The government has given them the most advanced equipment to terraform land that would be suitable to grow crops thanks to the plains commonwealth have offered the oklahoman government their best farmer scientist so they could make those machines. But that is what they tell people when the outsiders ask about their history. Their actual goal is to go to the seed bank. Where it holds all of the world seeds. The reason it is so important is because in order to spread crop they need real seeds not fake clone ones. But their problem was how they would get there. Since tinker is considered a myth during these times. They can't go to the seed bank. Next we have the tribes. They are a peaceful nation where they actually are partners with the famers. Unfortunately they considered anyone that was not originally here like an example and only examples came from the government vaults. Finally the group of people but many from the outside don't even know that they even exist. These groups of people are in the center of the state where the fat man was dropped unfortunately for those who were hit directly above them are stuck there forever broadcasting a signal. But the signal did not really go far only the tribes picked up the signal which it is why
