1: Official System of Measurement is the International System of Units

Our state hereby declares its official system of measurement to be the International System of Units, also known as SI. All non-SI units should be replaced with SI-units as quickly as possible, and non-SI units may not be used in any education without it requiring students to simultaneously use the SI-units for the same tasks.

4: Law of freedom of AND from religion

No citizen shall be denied their religious beliefs and practices, no citizen shall have another's beliefs and/or practices imposed upon them when unwanted. No law shall be based upon/from religious material, no law shall ban such material either. In short you have freedom to choose what you believe, to worship who or what you want but to impose your belief on another without their willful consent is illegal. Criticism of any and all religions is protected as is criticism of a lack of religion. No one stands higher than another with this law.
