INTRODUCTION

Font: Bookman Old Style 10, Spacing: 1.15

The introduction should be 2 – 4 pages long and establish the academic discourse related to the manuscript's topic.

This section should clearly address:

- (a) The research gap in existing studies
- (b) The novelty or unique contribution of the study
- (c) The specific objectives of the research

METHODS

Font: Bookman Old Style 10, Spacing: 1.15

The methods section should be 1 – 2 pages, providing a clear description of the data sources, analytical tools, and methodological approach used in the study.

The methods section describes the steps followed in the execution of the study and also provides a brief justification for the research methods used (Perry et al., 2003:661)

RESULT AND DISCUSSION

Font: Bookman Old Style 10, Spacing: 1.15

The first paragraph should explicitly state the main findings.

The empirical results should be clearly analyzed and interpreted.

Comparisons should be made with previous studies.

In many ways, it is the most important section in an article (Feldman, 2004:4). Because it is the last thing a reader sees, it can have a major impact on the reader's perceptions of the article and the research conducted (Summers 2001:411).

A. Tables

All tables are to be numbered using Arabic numerals. Tables should always be cited in text in consecutive numerical order, e.g. Tab. 1.

For each table, please supply a table caption (title) explaining the components of the table.

Identify any previously published material by giving the original source in the form of a reference at the end of the table caption.

The conclusion should be 1 – 3 paragraphs.

It must provide a direct answer to the research objectives.

Policy recommendations and practical implications should be highlighted.

REFERENCES

References must follow APA Style 7th edition.

It is highly recommended to incorporate references from reputable peer-reviewed journals, particularly from esteemed international publications, ensuring that at least 80% of the total references originate from such scholarly sources.
