◆ PERSONALITY ◆

- ▷responsible | easy going | caring | playful
- ▷indecisive | irritable when stressed | meddlesome

Rikiya is the kind of guy who likes living in the present and goes with the flow of things. He prefers to live the simple life, surrounded by people he cares about and find the fun in everything possible. Despite that, if he's given responsibilities, he'll carry them out as told (but tedious ones would be left to the last possible second before he finally does it).

When it comes to choices though, he's pretty indecisive and would rather pass on the freedom to choose on someone else. He may come off as meddlesome as well, always poking in everyone's business and enjoys inciting reactions out of people. Under pressure and stress, Rikiya would become easily irritable. You can tell he's visibly irritated but he tries not to affect the mood of the people he's with so oftentimes his frustrations are bottled.

◆ BACKGROUND ◆

His easy going attitude comes from his easy going family. Rikiya's parents rarely push on anything their kids don't like. As long as they're not failing, they could do anything they want. Fortunately for them, Rikiya and his sister were the kind to take initiatives on their own so they didn't have to force them to do much. Their bond as a family is tight-knit, regularly sharing life stories and would often travel as a family.

Rikiya was born into a family of elementalists, the kind where knowledge is passed down onto newer generations. He himself however, was a lot more keen on learning about plants and its properties, a skill he learned from his grandmother, who was a woman of nature – always surrounded by her garden she so tenderly cared for everyday until her passing.

Upon researching highschoools he'd like to apply to, he discovered that Azarashi High had classes that are specialised for herbalists. And so, he tried for their entrance exams!
