Maggie Rose Cunningham

The purpose behind my work

My vision is one in which we recognise each other and all creation as interconnected pieces of a single spirit learning to know, love and evolve itself.

- My mission through Magin Rose is to help 10,00 spiritual healers and creators collaborate and co-create with the northern tradition.
- My mission through True Colours coaching is to help 5,000 leaders in academic institutions access the wisdom and support they need to evolve their organisations to better meet the needs of our world.

About me

I live in the UK in Biggleswawde Bedfordshire and share parenting of my two lovely sons with my ex-husband. I have a cat called Mina and my little house looks out over a leafy cemetery. I love dancing, walking, gardening and cooking. I have worked as a wedding singer, in venture capital, advertising, and in a curtain factory! I have followed a career in Higher Education for 23 years (as of 2021) and founded Magin Rose in 2010 during a time when I was disenchanted with academia. I absolutely love that I can now work in both fields and bring different gifts to both my tribes.

How you can help me fulfil my purpose

Send people who might be interested in my northern tradition work to Middle Earth Readings or the Elder Futhark rune pages.
If you know someone who works in a university and is struggling with identity, visibility and impact (particularly where they are highly intuitive, empathic or spiritual) send them to my LinkIn page.
Let me know what's working for you and what's not; you remind me of my purpose every time we connect.
