Recruit Release Notes

Changes Launching 2019-08-08

Portfolio

Applicants can now reuse the files that they've previously uploaded. We'll suggest all the files they've previously given us for the same file type ("want to reuse this Curriculum Vitae?"), while still allowing them to get to the other files for those cases when the names don't quite match. This further streamlines the application process, and completes the last remaining tentpole feature of the Portfolio project. We've still got some polish left, but Portfolio is drawing to a close.

Demographic survey updates preview

We can now push individual recruitments to use a new version of the demographic survey that asks the new, broader gender identity question instead of the old binary gender question. This feature is not yet available in production and will not affect your applicants until later this year; we're going to do all the survey question changes before any of them roll out.

Committee Chair Survey

We now allow analysts to remind the chair to take the survey before they submit the search report, to better support our recent enhancement to require the survey before the search report is submitted.

User Dashboard

We have added a user dashboard that pulls together everything we know about the people who log in to use Recruit. We provide quick links to what they're working on, an activity log of what they've been up to, a list of their roles, and generally try to show everything we know about them so that you can know it to. Our future intention is to push users here when they log in, but for right now you can get there by clicking your name in the navbar.

Bugs & stuff

- Fixed an error we were seeing after references provided their letter using the type-a-letter feature and did a copy/paste with strange characters. The letters were always kept and available to the search committee, but we would sometimes display an error to the reference.
- Fixed an issue where the recruitments' advertisements page would show multiple edit icons for every ad source
- Fixed an issue where the tooltip on a marked-as-read approval would be too transparent to read
