3. Consists of 3-5 short points highlighting the objectives, new findings, and implications for mental and psychosocial health.

1. Introduction(font : Times New Roman, size : 12)*

Explain the background of the problem, the importance of the research, a brief literature review that is directly related to previous research or findings that need to be developed, and conclude with an explanation of the purpose of the research.

2. Methods(font : Times New Roman, size : 12)*

Make sure that the work can be repeated according to the details provided. This section contains technical information from the study that is presented. Therefore, readers can conduct research based on the techniques presented. Specific material and equipment are required. The study approach, procedure, and data analysis method must be presented thoroughly and clearly.

3. Results

(font : Times New Roman, size : 12)

The results are written in detail, and the objectives and hypotheses are described and answered.

4. Discussion

(font : Times New Roman, size : 12)

The discussion should focus on why and how the research findings can occur, and expand on the findings that can be applied to other issues relevant to the research results. At the end of the discussion, the researcher needs to state the limitations of the study.

5. Conclusion

(font : Times New Roman, size : 12)

Conclusions should be drawn based on the findings of the research results and focus on the study's objectives. The conclusion consists of one paragraph explaining the implications of your research results on developing mental and psychosocial health knowledge and practice.

Declaration of Interest

(font : Times New Roman, size : 12)

All authors are required to disclose whether or not any conflicts of interest have the potential to affect their work. If there is no conflict of interest, the author must declare no conflict of interest as follows: "Declaration of Interest: All authors declared there is no conflict of interest."

Acknowledgement

(font : Times New Roman, size : 12)

Acknowledgement is an optional part after the conclusion. Contributors (colleagues, institutions, or institutions) who assist the author's efforts and do not meet the requirements as an author and are not mentioned as an author should be acknowledged. Describe their contribution to the article/work.

Funding

(font : Times New Roman, size : 12)

Identification of all parties providing support funding sources for this work/article, both research funders and grant numbers (if any), must be provided for each funding source.

Ethical Consideration

(font : Times New Roman, size : 12)

In original research, the author must state in the manuscript that informed consent has been obtained from all research subjects. Research must always pay attention to ethical principles.

References

(font : Times New Roman, size : 12)

The manuscript uses a reference manager (Mendeley/EndNote/Zotero, etc). Most of the references used are up-to-date references and come from reliable sources. All references in the text should be in the references section, and vice versa. The journal uses the Vancouver reference style. In the text, references are quoted using Arabic numerals in superscript without parentheses. Meanwhile, in the reference list at the end of the document, complete details are written with Arabic numbers according to the references in the text.

The following is an example of writing literature according to the Vancouver style:
