

Practitioners Reflect

#UUSopTheClock

The smiling youth worker comes into voice with the very sadness and pathos of the weight of young people's pain. The smile was both understood and misunderstood. Someone commented that she seemed very happy. The smaller smile revealed that there was more to it than this - that heart work gives to you and takes from you - the curse for the smiling youth worker.

by Eliz McArdle

